It's that time again—Santa on way

Fire engine or Model T Santa Claus is coming to town and to the kids it doesn't matter how the jolly old man from way up north gets here.

Everyone's favorite chimney slider will make the rounds in the Northwest suburbs in upcoming weeks. He's already in residence at Cinderella's Castle in Woodfield Shopping Center, Schaumburg.

Santa will remain at Woodfield until Dec. 24, when he heads back to the North Pole to load up his sleigh.

A FIRE ENGINE will bring Mr. Claus to Golf Mill Shopping Center, Niles, today where he will take his seat in the cedar chalet house in the north mall. Santa will meet children weekdays from 1 to 8 p.m.; Saturdays, 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.; and Sundays, 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Santa will arrive at both the Mount Prospect Plaza and Randhurst Shopping Center, Mount Prospect, Nov. 28. A replica of a 1906 Model T will carry him to the Mount Prospect Plaza, Rand and Central roads, at 10:30 a.m. He will reside there for 25 days, distributing goodies to the boys and girls who visit him. He will accept callers 10 a.m. to noon, 1 to 4:30 p.m., and 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. weekdays; 10 a.m. to noon, 1 to 5 p.m. Saturdays and 11 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Sundays.

The Mount Prospect Plaza Merchants Assn. has arranged a special treat for the kids, "Lunch with Santa" in a private dining room at the Scandia House Restaurant. Parents may purchase tickets at $1.50 for children, $2 for adults for Wednesdays, Fridays and Saturdays starting Dec. 5 plus Monday and Tuesday, Dec. 22 and 23, by writing to 1058 Mount Prospect Plaza, Mount Prospect 60056.

AT RANDHURST, Santa will be on hand Nov. 28 to greet shoppers starting at 9 a.m. with Uncle Ned Locke and Cookie the Clown of Bozo Circus fame. Santaland at Randhurst will also feature the mechanical antics of Rodney, the red-haired angel.

Other stops along Santa's route will be Palatine, Dec. 6; downtown Des Plaines, Dec. 6; and Chamber of Commerce Park, Wheeling, Dec. 7.

For lefties only!

by JOE SWICKARD

Is Roz Wattel a left-hander's friend?

Right! Mrs. Wattel of Arlington Heights has started a catalog service for the estimated 20 million lefties in the country who can order anything from ice cream scoops to playing cards from her company.

And believe it or not this lady is right-handed and so are her husband and three children.

IT ALL STARTED this summer when Mrs. Wattel decided she did not want to return to elementary teaching, where she said she first became aware of the problems of left-handed persons. She said the

So in August she began visiting the trade shows seeking out left-handed products.

"As I went to the booths and asked about left-hand products, I'd get really silly answers. They'd tell me they had left-handed basketballs and things like that. But I did start finding the items," Mrs. Wattel said.

She compiled enough items to fill her 10-page catalog that opens and is numbered from back to front to make it easier for the lefties.

THE ITEMS RANGE from the practical to purely novelty items. She offers wrist watches, playing cards, knives, oven mitts, baseball

The products are part of growing trend to leave the lefties alone. For years, teachers and parents tried to force them to learn to do things with their right hands, a program with limited success and often frustrating for the children.

Such skills and crafts as knitting, needlepoint or guitar playing are often taught primarily for the right-handed majority. Mrs. Wattel's catalog offers instruction books designed for the rest of the population.

Even school notebooks, with spiral binding on the reverse side, are available through her as are note cards.

THE LEFT HAND Plus, Post Office Box 502C, Wheeling, has been in operation only a week, but already she is being swamped with inquiries and requests for the catalog. Since items in newspaper columns and her appearance on a morning radio program, she has received more than 100 letters and calls from Indiana to

$70,000 goes unclaimed in escrow accounts

by KURT BAER

The Village of Arlington Heights has $70,000 of other people's money it would return if it could — but it can't.

The unclaimed money resides in numerous escrow accounts put up by builders to guarantee construction work and necessary public improvements in development projects over the years.

But for some reason the money was never claimed after the job was finished, and the village is unable to find the contractor to tell him he has money coming.

SOME OF THE deposits date back to 1953. Most are relatively small amounts — in the $200 to $600 range. But others add up to several thousand dollars.

"When money wasn't as tight as it is today, a lot of builders would finish a job and leave town, or go on to something else and never claim the money," says Village Engineer Allen Sander whose approval is required before escrow money is returned to a builder.

"Today it's a lot different. People are chasing down every nickel. A lot of them would love to get their money back, but we're not ready to release it."

For the past several years the village's auditor has criticized the continued existence of the dormant escrow accounts.

IN RESPONSE, the village board recently adopted an ordinance which will transfer the unclaimed and unrefundable cash to the village's general fund.

"When circumstances arise which make it impossible to return these funds after the purpose for which they are held no longer exists, the village may transfer the funds to the general fund after making reasonable good faith efforts to return them to the owner," said Village Atty. Jack M. Siegel.

The ordinance requires the village to send a registered letter to the builder's last known address. If within 30 days there is no reply, a legal notice advertising the money's availability will be published in the newspaper. If the funds still go unclaimed, the money will be transferred to the general fund.

TYPICAL IS the case of the Carlsen and Tosch construction company which built a Kaspar Avenue storm sewer in 1960 and put $3,311 in escrow to guarantee their work. Today, long after the project was completed, $421 of the company's original deposit sits in the account unclaimed and apparently unreturnable. Letters to the contractor's last known address cannot be delivered.

But there are some successes. For example, the village had not heard of home builder Pete Peterson for 12 years until he was located this year in Palatine. As a result of the contact, Peterson recently received a check for $1,245.

Man hospitalized after 3-car accident

A Long Grove man was seriously injured late Friday in a three-car accident on the entrance ramp of Rte. 53 at Euclid Avenue near Rolling Meadows.

Patrick Weirich, 40, of RR-2, Long Grove, was taken to Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights. A spokesman at the hospital said Weirich's condition was unknown, but his injuries appeared serious.

State police said there were no other injuries.

Details of the mishap which occurred about 9 p.m. were sketchy but apparently all three autos were driving up the entrance ramp onto Rte. 53 from Euclid at the time of the accident, said police. One of the vehicles severed about 10-feet of guard rail.

Police said the collision tied up Rte. 53 traffic for about an hour.

Senate report says:

'Kissinger knew of CIA plot'

President Richard M. Nixon ordered the CIA, in the presence of Sec. of State Henry Kissinger, to organize a pro-American coup in Chile in 1973, according to the Senate intelligence committee's assassination plots report.

The report said Nixon kept the plans secret from William P. Rogers, who was then serving as his secretary of state, and other high officials.

According to the report, Nixon authorized Richard Helms, then CIA director, to spend up to $10 million on a coup attempt which ultimately failed to stop Marxist Salvador Allende from coming to power — but led to the murder of Gen. Rene Schneider, the Chilean commander in chief, by Chilean plotters.

The report said U.S. efforts to stop Allende from becoming president were far greater than Nixon, Sec. of State Henry A. Kissinger, or Helms have acknowledged.

In a recent interview with the Ladies Home Journal, Nixon said, "We had nothing to do with Chile or Allende."

Kissinger told a Senate committee on Sept. 17, 1973, that the CIA was involved only "in a very minor way" in the 1973 Chilean elections.

Helms, now ambassador to Iran, was asked at his ambassadorial confirmed whether the CIA tried to overthrow the Chilean government and replied, "No, sir." The Justice Department is investigating whether Helms perjured himself.

At the White House, a spokesman said Ford saw no reason to fire Kissinger or Helms because of anything disclosed in the report of CIA assassination and coup plots.

Kissinger testified Friday at a

Senate sustains school funds veto

by STEVE BROWN
SPRINGFIELD — Illinois school districts likely will get a bigger check from the state next month, despite the Illinois Senate's failure, in its final attempt Friday, to override Gov. Daniel Walker's veto of $116 million in state aid.
That the Senate sustained his veto was "a great victory for all of the overburdened taxpayers in Illinois," Walker said.
But the governor's words were hardly out of his mouth when Illinois School Supt. Joseph Cronin said the state board of education will vote Tuesday to revert to its old policy of paying school districts on the school-aid formula basis, rather than on the appropriation basis.
CONSEQUENTLY school aid will be distributed as though the Senate had overridden the governor's veto. The change will mean another $2.5 million will be freed for Illinois schools.
Cronin's announcement set off a chain of criticism throughout the state capitol building. Top Walker aides blasted the statement. One said, "The legislature has spoken, and the state school board must abide by its action."
Deputy Comptroller Robert Mandeville admitted the comptroller's office had not yet taken a position on paying the schools on the basis of the school aid formula at this time.
However, Cronin said his office has been told by State Comptroller George Lindberg that he would pay whatever amount the school board requested.

Cronin admitted the decision to pay on the formula basis was nothing more than "a short-term solution to the school funding controversy. We want to cushion the blow as much as possible."
BY PAYING STATE aid by the formula, Illinois will run out of education funds by April, Cronin said.
The move is certain to force a new round of confrontation politics in the General Assembly next spring over whether lawmakers will approve a deficiency appropriation for the schools for the remaining months of the fiscal year.
Cronin said the state board did not announce its plans to change in the funding procedure until after the override vote because the board was hopeful the governor's veto would be overridden.
"I believe the mood of the board will now be to grant funding according to the formula rather than the appropriation," he said.

The board is scheduled to meet Tuesday in Chicago. A showdown on whether Lindberg will pay their increased amount in light of the legislature's action will come about Dec. 15, according to Calvin Bostian, Lindberg's chief legal counsel.
Before Cronin's announcement, Republican members of the Senate and a group of independent Democrats, commonly known as the "Crazy Eight," kept their fragile coalition together to block the override of the veto on the school-aid funding bills.
All of this area's state senators — David Regner, R-Mount Prospect; John Graham, R-Barrington; John Nimrod, R-Skokie, and Howard Mohr, R-Forest Park — voted to sustain the veto.
State Sen. Bradley Glass (R-Northbrook) was absent when the votes were taken.

Profs get bargaining rights

CHICAGO (UPI) — Faculty members at five Illinois universities have been granted the right to bargain collectively — a first in state history.
The action was taken Thursday by the Illinois Board of Governors, which has jurisdiction over Eastern, Western, Northeastern, Governors State and Chicago State universities.

There are about 2,000 faculty members at the schools, and the American Federation of Teachers Faculty Federation claims to represent 40 per cent of them.
THE DECISION to grant the faculty members the right to collective bargaining came on a 5-4 vote. Several board members said they feel the process won't work until the legislature approves a collective bargaining procedure for all state employees.

GOP presidential hopeful Ronald Reagan in Chicago Friday flanked by U.S. Rep. Philip Crane, R-12th, and wife Nancy.

Reagan vows active fight here

by WANDALYN RICE

Ronald Reagan declared Friday that Illinois will be one of next year's important primary states and said he will campaign actively here despite the opposition of Sen. Charles Percy and former Gov. Richard Ogilvie to his presidential candidacy.

The former California governor, who has announced his intention to challenge Pres. Gerald Ford for the Republican presidential nomination, said in an O'Hare Airport news conference that Percy's and Ogilvie's votes "are two votes I obviously won't get" in the March 16 primary.

Reagan added, however, "My intention is to take the case to the people," and said he expects to get "many other votes" in the primary.

Reagan was greeted at the airport by U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-12th, chairman of the state's Citizens for Reagan committee. Crane presented Reagan's wife Nancy with a corsage as she got off the plane.

Reagan, who declared his candidacy in Washington, D. C. Thursday, held a 20 minute press conference in an airplane hangar. During the conference, Reagan expressed support for the Central Intelligence Agency, reiterated his opposition to the Equal Rights Amendment to the U. S. Constitution and said his campaign plans do not call for Ford to withdraw from the race before the Republican National Convention next summer.

Questions on American intelligence focused on the U. S. Senate investigation report of covert political activity and planning for the assassination of foreign leaders by the Central Intelligence Agency.

Reagan said of the alleged assassination plots by the CIA, "murder is murder. None of us in this country supports foreign assassination plots."

He said, however, some covert intelligence operations are necessary in countries threatened by Communist take-over. "A question I often get, particularly from people on the campuses is whether we have the right to meddle in other nation's affairs. You can't answer that question without knowing the answer to another question — what the Soviet Union is doing in that country."

Reagan also charged that Soviet spying in the United States has "quadrupled." He said, "The Russians are monitoring hundreds of thousands of phone conversations each week."

Reagan said he is not concerned about opponents of his candidacy who say he does not grasp the complexity of the problems which are faced by the President. "Nine years ago when I was running for governor a lot of people said I didn't have an understanding of the complexity of California's problems," he said. "I found that many of the problems weren't that complex at all."

Reagan also said he has not determined how many votes he will need in early primaries in order to defeat Pres. Ford and receive the Republican presidential nomination.

He said he does not expect Ford to drop out of the race, even if he does poorly in early primaries. "I'm not looking forward to any idea that he's going to drop out," Reagan said.

Reagan flew into O'Hare from Charlotte, North Carolina in a chartered 727 jet for the press conference. After announcing his candidacy Thursday, he flew to Florida and New Hampshire, the states which will have the first two presidential primaries next year.

'Chile coup try ordered by Nixon'

closed session of the Senate intelligence committee on the need for covert operations as a complement to foreign policy. He spoke briefly with reporters afterwards.

Asked whether CIA assassination plots — such as the attempts outlined in the report to murder Fidel Castro and Congo Premier Patrice Lumumba — could be stopped, he replied: "I'm positive it can be stopped."

But asked whether responsibility for clandestine operations should be taken away from the CIA and given to some other agency, Kissinger said, "I should think not."

He said he had briefed the intelligence panel Friday on "the general problem of the control of covert actions, their purpose and relation to national policy . . .

According to the assassination plots report, Nixon escalated the anti-Allende campaign at a Sept. 15, 1970, White House meeting with Helms, Kissinger and U.S. Atty. Gen. John Mitchell.

Details of the new plan, "Track II," were kept from Rogers, Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird, and other top officials.

The report quotes a secret CIA memo as saying Helms convened a high-level CIA conference the next day.

"The director told the group that President Nixon had decided that an Allende regime in Chile was unacceptable to the United States," the memo said. "The President asked the Agency to prevent Allende from coming to power or to unseat him."

"The President authorized $10 million for this purpose, if needed."

"Further, the agency is to carry out this mission without coordination with the Departments of State or Defense." Helms later told the intelligence committee that Nixon "came down very hard, that he wanted something done, and he didn't much care how."

20 killed in Lebanese clashes

Palestinian gunmen joined in Lebanon's religious war Friday, touching off rocket, mortar and machinegun battles that threatened a complete collapse of the three-week-old cease fire. The participation of the predominantly Moslem Palestinians brought the worst day of fighting since the fourth ceasefire in seven months of Lebanese strife. Police sources said at least 20 persons were killed and 50 wounded in the clashes, raising the overall toll to more than 4,100 dead and 8,500 wounded. "It's horrible," a terrified housewife said in a telephone call from the Christian suburb of Dikwaneh. "Something unbelievable is happening here. Mortars are exploding all around us."

Israelis bury attack victims

Angry Israelis, crying "death to the terrorists" Friday buried three student soldiers killed in an Arab guerrilla raid against a paramilitary religious settlement on the Golan Heights. A government spokesman called the killings "savagery of the darkest Middle Age." He said the guerrillas "found inspiration" in the recent U.N. resolution condemning Zionism. Religious Affairs Minister Yitzhak Rafael told a crowd of 500 at the funeral that "these murderers and criminals" came from Syria with the encouragement of the government in Damascus. In Damascus, the Popular Democratic Front for the Liberation of Palestine claimed responsibility for the attack, saying only "enemy soldiers" were killed.

Carvin to undergo mental tests

Michael L. Carvin, a burly college dropout who pointed a toy gun at presidential candidate Ronald Reagan at a rally here Thursday, was ordered by a U.S. Magistrate Friday to undergo psychiatric testing. At the hearing, Carvin offered no explanation for his action.

Moynihan hints at UN resignation

U.S. Ambassador Daniel Patrick Moynihan, under sharp criticism for his U.N. behavior, scheduled a news conference Friday and then abruptly canceled it amid speculation he was contemplating resignation. The only word from the outspoken Harvard professor who assumed the post here last June, relayed through his press spokesman, was: "Everyone leaves eventually, but I have no statement to make today." Later, approached in the delegates' lounge, Moynihan refused to answer whether he planned to resign. But he confirmed the statement his press officer had given earlier.

Gurney faces 2nd slush fund trial

WASHINGTON UPI — Former Sen. Edward J. Gurney, R-Fla., who served on the Senate Watergate committee, will be retried Jan. 5 for conspiring to create a $233,000 political slush fund and making false declarations to a grand jury, the U. S. Justice Dept. said Friday.

Gurney, 61, was acquitted by a federal jury in Tampa, Fla., on five of seven counts in an indictment but the jury deadlocked on two remaining counts, causing a mistrial.

Four additional counts named only Gurney's alleged co-conspirators. One of his co-defendants, Joseph Bastien of Winter Park, Fla., also will be retried. Bastien was Gurney's executive assistant in the senator's Winter Park field office.

A Justice Department spokesman said prosecutors decided after months of indecision to try Gurney again on the two unresolved charges.

Vietnam unification agreement reached

SAIGON, South Vietnam (UPI) — North and South Vietnam agreed Friday to elect a joint national assembly in 1976 to end the 21-year division of the war-scarred Indochina nation.

A communique issued at the end of week-long reunification talks between top-level North and South Vietnamese delegations said elections for the common national assembly would be held in the first half of next year.

Officials told reporters at Saigon's former Independence Palace that the assembly, made up of one representative for every 100,000 Vietnamese, would guide the reunification process.

Nguyen Huu Tho, chairman of the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front, said the accord "marked a step forward for Vietnam and opened up a path for our country to advance toward socialism."

Gurney was acquitted on one count of bribery, one count of receiving unlawful compensation, and three of four counts charging him with making false declarations to a grand jury.

The original 11-count indictment charged Gurney and six co-defendants with conspiring to create a $233,000 fund for Gurney by soliciting contributions from persons who had matters pending before the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

In return for the contributions, the grand jury said, "pressures and influence would be exerted upon officials and employees" of the department to give the contributors favored treatment.

A trial date of Jan. 5 had already been agreed on in case the government decided to try the former Senator again rather than drop the two remaining charges.

Gurney was the first U. S. Senator to be indicted on a felony charge since 1924, when Montana Sen. Burton K. Wheeler was cited for influence peddling. That charge was later dismissed. Gurney, a former Navy officer and World War II hero who walks with a limp from shrapnel wounds, was acquitted in Tampa Aug. 6 of five felony charges in the first bribery-conspiracy trial. It lasted six months, and the jury deliberated for 10 days before announcing it could not reach agreement on two charges.

After serving three terms in the House of Representatives, Gurney was elected to the Senate in 1968. The indictment in July, 1974, resulted in Gurney dropping his bid for re-election. He later resigned his Senate seat in December, 1974.

2 from Congress agree to marry

• Two members of the U.S. House of Representatives have managed to relieve some of their hectic pace in Washington by finding time to fall in love. U.S. Reps. Andrew Jacobs, D-Ind. and Martha Keys, D-Kansas have announced they are getting married in January. They said they would retain their respective names, would keep their homes in their respective districts, and maintain a home in Washington when Congress is in session.

• Tax authorities in Sweden are demanding that Swedish film director Ingmar Bergman pay $450,000 in unreported funds between the years 1968 and 1974. Tax officials say Bergman had been running his film company in Switzerland with money which should have been taxed in Sweden. Tax officials say they are not accusing the world-famous director of a crime but will take him to court on a civil case of failure to pay taxes.

• Susan Ford has applied for membership in the White House News Photographers Assn., but the request has been put aside for now, says Bernard Boston, association president. Miss Ford went to work this summer for the Associated Press wire service. "She applied; she is eligible," Boston said. He said the association's executive board cleared the membership request but tabled it for further consideration. Boston says the delay is not unusual.

Upper Midwest snow storm kills 8

A pre-Thanksgiving storm that flailed the Midwest with blizzard snows and 70 mile per hour winds for three days claimed a mounting toll of lives Friday, as it began to lose its punch and drift off into Canada.

The blizzard, rated the worst in 20 years in eastern South Dakota and nearly as bad in western Minnesota, was blamed for at least eight deaths during its 1,200-mile rampage across the Plains and Upper Midwest.

A Chicago man, Allen D. Smetana, 31, was found dead in his stranded car Friday on snow-clogged Interstate 90 near Worthington, Minn. Authorities said he apparently died of exposure.

Four other persons succumbed in Minnesota to apparent heart attacks blamed on overexertion in the deep snow. Nebraska counted two weather-attributed deaths and Colorado one.

The storm dumped heavy snow on Michigan's upper peninsula and whipped up 20-foot waves on Lake Superior. Wild winds ranging out from the storm center over Lake Huron lashed Lower Michigan, wrecking mobile homes, damaging barns and houses and tearing down trees and power lines.

The big digout was under way from the southern Colorado Rockies to the a d-of-the-lakes region. Highway crews, ranchers and farmers battled 15-foot drifts in South Dakota and Minnesota and 13-foot drifts in Nebraska. The heaviest snowfall was 20 inches at Verdigris, Neb., and 18 inches in northern Wisconsin.

Harper band to perform in fall concert

The Harper College wind ensemble and jazz band will present its annual fall concert in the Bicentennial spirit Tuesday, with several American selections on the program.

Directed by Robert Tillotson, the wind ensemble will feature William Schuman's overture for the band entitled "Chester." This selection is based on the hymn tune said to have been sung around the campfires of the Continental Army and played by fliers on the march during the American Revolution.

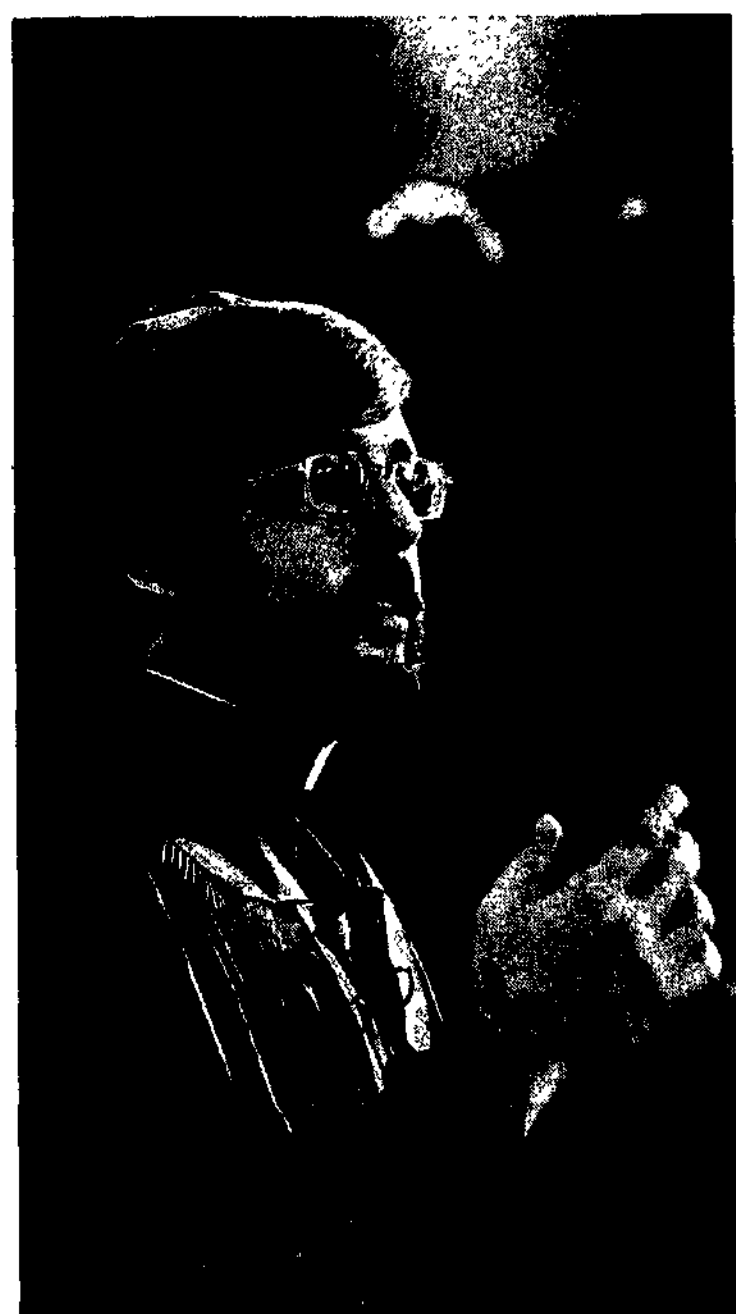

The wind ensemble's program also will include "Somersault" by Hale Smith; "Barnum and Bailey's Favorite" by Karl King; and "Procession of the Nobles" by Rimsky-Korsakov/Leiden.

The jazz band, directed by James Bestman, will include local soloists in several performances.

Selections from the program include: "Lil' Darlin'" by Neal Hefti, featuring Dave Sterner, Prospect Heights, on vibes; "Red Clay" by Freddie Hubbard, featuring Steve Lockwood, Mount Prospect, on soprano sax; Jim Polasek, Mount Prospect, on guitar; Dan Owens, Hoffman Estates, on drums; Scott Hendricks, Rolling Meadows, on piano and Reggie Gilmore, Schaumburg, Latin percussion.

Soloists for "If You're Leaving" by Loren Binford, include: John Kutten, Mount Prospect, on tenor sax, and Bill Calkins, Des Plaines, on trumpet.

The concert begins at 8 p.m. in the college center lounge and is free to public.

Mass 'nuptials' at Hersey —teens in simulated vows

by KATHERINE BOYCE

"I, Tom, take you Cathy, to be my simulation wife, for better or for worse, for richer or for poorer, in sickness and in health and whatever the grade shall be."

Forty-two boys and girls exchanged those vows in a mock wedding Thursday at Hersey High School. The couples will act as husband and wife for the next six weeks during classes until their mock marriage is annulled.

The ceremony was part of a new course this year at Hersey called "Marriage and the Family," taught by sociology teacher Robert Hannon and home economics teacher Ann Slattery. The purpose of the course, say teachers, is to improve a student's understanding of the institution of marriage. They hope students also will learn something about themselves and their relationship with other students and parents.

The course falls under the category of consumer education since it will teach students the dollars and cents realities of marriage including living arrangements, food and budgeting, cost of furniture and the responsibilities and cost of child rearing.

At the beginning of the year students discussed personal values, human sexuality, dating, friendship and love. One week prior to their "marriage" students completed questionnaires expressing their feelings about marriage, in-laws, children and the selection of a mate.

Their first assignment was their engagement. Along with discussion on the purpose of engagement, the buying of a ring and arrangements for the ceremony, the couples sat down with their parents to devise a guest list.

To show that they took the institution of marriage seriously the students dressed for the nuptials in formal wear complete with suits, ties, gowns and of course boutonnieres and bouquets. They were married in a civil ceremony by student teacher Jerry Franklin who dressed in religious garb representing all denominations.

Following their short-lived marriage students will discuss the problems that assail a married couple. They will discuss the termination of a relationship, divorce and alternatives to marriage.

The course is experimental this year at Hersey. It will come before the High School Dist. 214 administrative council which will consider adding the course to the district's regular curriculum next year.

WEDDING BELLS rang this week for 42 students at Hersey High School. Tom Janus and Cathy Jacob were one of the couples who exchanged vows in the mock ceremony, a simulation for "Marriage and the Family," a new course in Dist. 214 being taught at Hersey this year.

Welfare cases leveling off: official

The number of persons applying for township public assistance has leveled off in the past four months, Wheeling Township Supervisor Ethel Kolerus said Friday.

Mrs. Kolerus said 132 persons applied for township aid in September, "a considerable drop" from earlier in the year. She said the township spent about $8,000 in general assistance in September.

"I think we've settled into a pattern of paying out between $7,000 and $8,000 a month. We've begun getting applications from 150-160 people the past few months," she said.

MRS. KOLERUS SAID this year's September payments are close to the September 1974 expenditure of $8,600 for 227 persons. She said the number of persons applying for public assistance was just beginning to escalate at this time last year. The township paid out $16,267 in January for general assistance to 416 persons.

Wheeling Township officials increased the general assistance budget by $110,101 this year because of the increased caseload caused by widespread unemployment. Mrs. Kolerus said the township has only spent $75,000 of the $241,000 budgeted for the fiscal year, which ends in February.

Officials in Palatine Township said earlier this week they expect a slight increase in welfare cases next month because of the Thanksgiving-Christmas holidays.

The caseload in Palatine is averaging around 60, which is about the same number reported last year at this time.

Townships are required by law to offer some form of emergency temporary assistance to township residents for food, rent and medical expenses. The amount of financial support depends on the number of dependents the applicant has and his economic condition.

For southpaws only...

Wisconsin.

"A 12-year-old girl from Winnetka called after her father told her about the catalog. She called back in a couple of minutes to say she thought it was a great idea and she wanted to thank me," Mrs. Wattel said.

She, too, is getting something more out of the business than the hoped-for profits.

"I started it to keep busy. After the children got older I needed something to do and I didn't want to go back to teaching," she said.

WITH ALMOST NO business background or experience, she plunged into it, learning all she could. She admits some of her methods are not taught at the Harvard School of Business, but they work for her.

"I am being taken seriously

when I work with people on things like the catalog and the layout. It's really super. I've found it very stimulating and I'm growing in confidence as I do it," she said.

Her husband, Robert, vice president-marketing for Lettuce Entertain You restaurants (Jonathan Livingston Seagull, R. G. Grunts, Fritz' That's It, The Pump Room) offered his help, but she seems to be managing quite well on her own, thank you.

FORMER CHICAGO Bears quarterback Bobby Douglass is affiliated with one of her husband's restaurants. And since the southpaw former Kansas Star was released by the Bears, one question comes to mind: Would a left-handed football have helped him?

Mrs. Wattel answers without hesitation.

"Right," she said.

'75 seals reflect children's view of Christmas

Christmas through children's eyes is love, happiness, friendship and concern for others.

This year, for the first time, children gave their impressions of the holiday season with brushes and paints for the American Lung Society's annual Christmas seal campaign.

Fifty-four art students in elementary schools in each of the 50 states and four United States territories are represented in the 1975 seals designs.

A special exhibit of their work opened Nov. 14 at the National Collection of Fine Arts in Washington, D. C., and is scheduled to run through Jan. 4, 1976.

The youngsters are in distinguished company. Artists responsible for past designs have ranged from the famous such as Rockwell Kent and Steven Dohanos, to winners of a nationwide competition for amateurs and professionals.

THE ORIGINAL SEAL was designed by social worker Emily Blaseil in 1907 to raise money for a founding tuberculosis hospital on the Brandywine River in Delaware.

None of the children knew they might be creating Christmas seal designs when they painted their holiday scenes as regular art class projects.

A contest format was avoided at the suggestion of the National Art Education Association because officials felt it might exploit students and teachers, block creative instinct or imply that some students are superior to others.

Art teachers and lung association representatives collected the paintings and submitted six from each state or territory to a committee whose members included the director of the Washington gallery now staging the show.

FROM THOSE, THIS year's seals were chosen. Visions of home (whether it be on a mountain slope in Idaho or the sands of New Mexico), angels, decorated trees, Santas, carolers (black, white, red and yellow) and a white dove of peace were their symbols of the holiday concept.

The Illinois seal, two children with skills in hand and lots of snow in the background, was designed by 9-year-old Diane Jackson of Paris.

Interviews with some of the young artists indicated that few if any are considering an art career.

Connie Playfair, 14, and Pamela Hale, 13, said they want to be forest rangers. Connie lives on the Crow Indian reservation in Montana's Big Horn Mountain country where her father is a federal government employee. Her stamp design shows a pig-tailed child building a snowman in mountain country. Pamela, an eighth grader in Detroit, Mich., likes to write poetry. She painted four carolers.

MITCH SKROVE, 14, Blaine, Minn., who painted a snowman against a bright blue sky, leans toward a veterinarian's career, despite a current hobby of hunting. Mitch also enjoys cooking at home and in a special home economics class for boys, and thinks men should know how to cook whether or not they plan to marry.

Herbert McKinney of Washington, D. C., was 9 years old when he painted a beardless Santa beside a Christmas tree. Now 11, he plans to study arts and crafts in college, but his heart is set on a career with the Capital Bullets basketball team.

Colin Hickey of Hutchinson, Kan., whose painting of two carolers was chosen as the theme seal for the 1975 campaign, created it when he was a third grader. His aspirations for an art career apparently are nonexistent. Asked if he is a pretty good artist, he said:

"I don't think so, but everybody else does."

CHILDREN'S PAINTINGS of the Christmas season are now being sought as part of the 1977 Children's Christmas Seal Design Project. A two-year head start is required to allow for selection procedures and production schedules.

Schools that wish to participate should send their entries to Chicago Lung Association, 1440 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, 60607, by Dec. 1. Top entries to represent Illinois will be selected in December at the Northern Illinois University art department, DeKalb. Certificates and plaques are sent to children whose art work is used.

Subject matter of entries must deal with the general holiday season and could represent "Christmas Time in My State," "Holidays at My House" or "Holiday Fun." Specific religious paintings will not be accepted.

TO MEET PROJECT requirements, all paintings must be horizontal and not exceed 18 x 24 in size. Tempera paint or oil Crayons are recommended media. All work must be two-dimensional, not mounted and identified on the back with the name of the child, age, grade, school address, home address and parents' name.

Persons seeking further information about the project may call the Chicago Lung Association, Public Information Department, 243-2000, ext. 37.

Reader's 'jolts' perfectly normal

I have a puzzling condition that I have been unable to get an answer to. It is what I call "jolts." I will be lying prone — on my back — usually asleep or at rest, and a portion of my body will feel as if the muscle is jumping. This has occurred at my foot, at many points along each limb, at the heart, and, as I recall, even at the head. The jolts are so strong that they have shaken my entire frame as well as the bedstead. Other than the jolt, there is no effect or result, although I tend to seem to feel better afterwards — the same kind of good feeling that you get after a sneeze. I would appreciate your comments regarding this.

This may give you another jolt, but those reactions are perfectly normal and even common. The sudden involuntary contraction of a muscle or set of muscles will do this.

In some ways they are like a limited momentary convulsion. Every voluntary muscle in your body is related to a specific set of cells in your brain. You can map out the area in the brain for the hand, foot, knee, elbow and all moving parts. When these cells are destroyed, as in a stroke, the part becomes paralyzed.

You can stimulate any of these cells and cause the appropriate muscle to move. In the laboratory we can do this in animals with an electrical probe to the cell. The neurosurgeon uses such information to tell where he is cutting in some instances. He can ask the patient to move a hand or a foot or give other responses or stimulate an area and observe the response.

WHEN AN ELECTRICAL charge builds up in the cell, it can discharge and stimulate the muscle to contract forcefully, causing the sensation of a jolt. This is really what happens in the more serious condition of a convulsion. A large enough electrical discharge occurs to cause muscles to contract, and with a series of discharges, in no organized fashion, the irregular contractions of the convulsion may occur.

The simple jolt reaction you have is not a convulsion, and it does not mean you have anything wrong with your brain. It is a normal discharge of a build up of conditions within a muscle itself that leads to contraction and then relaxation. In the process the factors leading to contraction are dissipated, and the muscle returns to a normal resting state.

WHY DO YOU FEEL better? People often feel more relaxed after dissipation of chemicals related to muscle contraction. This may be one factor why a person feels better after exercise. When a convulsion occurs the person may be relaxed afterward, as after a hard day's physical work. A good example here is electrical shock treatment. The patient tends to sleep after treatment and is much calmer. The electric shock causes widespread muscle contractions, or, in essence, a convulsion.

Furniture square, not its collectors

There's a style of furniture which can be pretty adequately described in one word: square. Not "square" meaning out of it in the sense the word has been used for the past several years, but square and functional in design, and very, very "in" — that is, among antiques collectors.

Some persons call this the Frank Lloyd Wright style, and it is probably true that his prairie house architecture and spare, sparse furniture designs probably contributed to the popularity, around the turn of the century, to this "new" type of furniture called Mission Oak.

Mission Oak was first seen at the Grand Rapids furniture fair of 1900, and a pattern book on how to construct it was marketed by its designer, Gustave Stickley. Immediately

Collecting with Grace Carolyn

Mission Oak was, and is, practically indestructible. It is built, as the name implies, of golden oak usually finished, or refinished, in natural tones, and is characterized by flat slab construction. Everything was made in the style, including desks, plant stands, clocks, lamps, as well as the larger bedroom and sitting room pieces. Dining tables and chairs are a little less common than the occasional pieces.

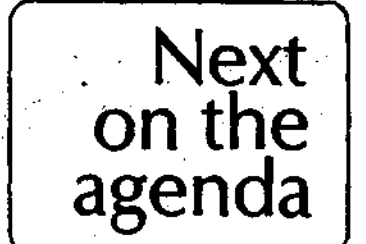

WITH THE INCREASED interest in this "new antique" prices are going up, but are still competitive with new furniture prices, and as I tell any young people who ask me, stay out of the furniture stores and hunt the flea markets and old house sales. (Auctions usually are filled with know-it-alls who hike up the prices.) You can buy a nice quarter-sawn oak five-drawer chest with original brass hardware, completely refinished, for about $140. It will last longer than you do and can be passed on to your children. By that time they will inherit it as real antiques. And if you ever get tired of it, or want to sell out and move to Alaska, you can get more for it probably than you paid. Possibly a lot more. That isn't true with store-bought furniture.

And that $140 I quoted, remember, is for a piece all done up by a furniture refinisher and sold by a dealer. I have and still do see pieces of Mission Oak for a few dollars, languishing in junk shops and Good Will stores. My very first small commode in this style (a commode is what a small chest with drawers and doors is called in the trade) cost $3 some 20 years ago. My square occasional table was 75 cents. Even with inflation, you should still be able to find comparable bargains.

Open your eyes to Mission Oak. It's square, but its collectors surely aren't. (Picture courtesy Collector Books, Paducah, Ky. and historical information from The Antique Trader Annual of Articles, Vol. II, Dubuque, Iowa.)

popular, possibly because it was such a direct reaction against the fussy carved furniture of the Victorian period just prior, Mission Oak was sold out of the Stickley workshops near Syracuse, N. Y., by the carload.

IN THE EARLY 1900s a type of house was built by the millions, which is now called on the West Coast a "California Bungalow." It has a porch across the front, square wide concrete posts on either end, and the living room often has exposed beams in the ceiling and small leaded or stained glass windows. The word was "square" — plain and unadorned. Some writers attribute the passion for plainness to President Teddy Roosevelt and his back-to-nature kick, similar to the one the kids have been on recently. Mission Oak fulfilled the need for the simple life.

Guest star at luncheon

The Northwest Suburban Christian Women's Club is having as luncheon speaker Tuesday, Dec. 2, Suzanne Johnson, a lyric soprano from Wilmette, a former "Miss Illinois" and one of the 10 finalists in the Miss America Pageant where she won the talent award.

A recording artist, Suzanne has travelled and sung internationally, on tours of American military bases and ships in Vietnam and Korea, with Fred Waring and the Pennsylvanians and was a guest soloist for the Billy Graham St. Louis crusade. She can be seen regularly on several syndicated television programs.

The 12:30 luncheon will be at the Blackfox-Holiday Inn, Rolling Meadows.

Suzanne Johnson

owns. Bonnie Evans, 398-7337, or Sharon Galyon, 585-0011, are taking reservations. There is free nursery care by reservation only.

Kelly-Mastandrea

Margaret A. Kelly's engagement to Vincent J. Mastandrea, son of the Vincent Mastandrea of Buffalo Grove, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James J. Kelly of Arlington Heights. Their wedding is planned for Jan. 3.

After graduating from Arlington High School, Margaret attended Western Illinois University and works at the Lutheran Home for the Aged, Arlington Heights. Her fiancé, a Wheeling High graduate, attended Northern Illinois University and is with American-Canadian in Elk Grove.

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis R. Elermann

Newlyweds were school friends

The parents of Mary Louise Romandys and Dennis Roy Elermann, all of Schaumburg, have known each other for many years and Mary Louise and Dennis were in elementary school together. However, they didn't date until their senior year at Schaumburg High School.

Mary Louise, daughter of the James Romandys, went on to graduate from the licensed practical nursing course at Harper College. She is now employed at Northwest Community Hospital and Dennis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rogers Elermann, is with Henriksen Co., Berkeley, Ill. They were married Oct. 11 in St. Marcelline Church, Schaumburg, and honeymooned in the Pocono Mountains, Penn.

FOR THE 3 p.m. double ring service Mary Louise chose her sister, Jacqueline Pollath, Deerfield, as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were her cousin, Mary Agnes Harbison, Kansas City, Mo., her sister-in-law, Jerri Romandys, Roselle; the groom's sister, Bonnie; his sister-in-law, Roxanne Elermann, Hoffman Estates; and Debbie Smith, Hanover Park. Arl Fisch, 4, Northbrook, was flower girl. Best man was the groom's brother, Roger, Hoffman Estates, and ushers were the groom's cousin, Kenneth Williams, Chicago; Dennis DeCompo, Elk Grove Village; Walter Smith, Hanover Park; Mark Lasardo, Schaumburg; and the bride's brother-in-law, Allan Pollath.

Area couple wed in Florida

Mrs. Theresa L. Duro of Arlington Heights and Richard J. Georgan of Rolling Meadows were married Nov. 12 in Fort Lauderdale, Fla. Mrs. Duro is the widow of Jerry Duro of the House of Duro, Chicago.

The couple was attended by Mr. and Mrs. Orlando Colamattio of Hampshire, Ill.

Plans are being made for a church wedding and family reception in this area in January. Afterwards the newlyweds will spend a honeymoon in Africa. They are making their home in Woodstock, Ill.

The groom is the owner of Pioneer Steel Co., Chicago, and is president of the Horseshoe Club at Arlington Park Hilton. He is also on the board of directors of the Chicago Boys Club.

Cleaning old coins a tricky business

Dear Dorothy: Our daughter got caught up collecting stamps a couple of years ago. Immediately, to establish his own turf, her younger brother started a coin collection (an expensive hobby, it turns out). He's been after me lately with a zillion questions about how he should clean some old coins. Can you help in this oddball field? —Mildred Gaertner

You sent me back to the files. Happily, some few years ago I received clear directions from Otto V. Barlow. I quote directly: "Don't clean any coins until you've researched the subject or checked with a coin dealer. . . . Contrary to popular belief, age does not make coins valuable. The main factors are demand and condition. Cleaning a coin improperly can reduce or destroy its value. . . . Inasmuch as coins occur in a fantastic variety of metals, each requires special treatment. Modern silver coins can be cleaned with a baking soda paste, but never dry as it would be too abrasive that way. Silver coins can be cleaned by soaking overnight in camera-lens cleaner, then wiped dry on paper toweling. Nickel coins may be cleaned with a commercial cleaner. Copper and bronze are extremely difficult to clean. . . . The same problem exists for gold coins. No type of cleaning will ever restore mint luster to any coin." I said then that Mr. B.'s counsel struck me as worth its weight in whatever. All I know on the subject.

Dear Dorothy: Here's a tip. My stainless steel mixing bowl would start sliding on the counter. Solved it by putting a wet tea towel under it whenever I needed to use it. —Jeanne Fisher

Dear Dorothy: Can honey be substituted equally for the amount of sugar in recipes? —Janet Estanislao

No. You have to adjust the liquid, too.

Dear Dorothy: In answer to the reader who wanted to know how to cook okra so that it isn't sticky and gooey, she might try my method. I add about one teaspoon of vinegar to the amount of okra being cooked for two, season the usual way and boil until tender. I've cooked okra this way for several years and we eat more of it now than ever before. In fact, my husband never liked it until I started putting the vinegar in. —Mrs. M. V. Johnston

Dear Dorothy: I learned the hard way that it's important to wash out the silver dishes as quickly as possible when they've had acidic foods or dishes with mayonnaise in them. Sometimes you wonder if the silver polish and elbow grease will ever remove the tarnish. —Eleanor Tyler

Dallas, Tex., their home

Making their home in Dallas, Tex., are recent newlyweds, Debbie Sue and Joel Stein. The bridegroom works for an air freight company in Dallas.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Buenger of Arlington Heights and her husband is the son of the Stanley Steins of Chicago. Joel had been living in Wheeling until his marriage.

The couple exchanged vows and rings in a 4 p.m. service Oct. 26 in the First United Methodist Church, Arlington Heights. During the reception which followed at the Camelot Restaurant, Des Plaines, members of the Stein family sang and played guitar.

DEBBIE CHOSE Barb Glaser, Arlington Heights, as her maid of honor and her sister, Lori Buenger, and the groom's sister-in-law, Pat Stein, Wheeling, as bridesmaids.

The girls wore cranberry gowns with matching floor-length capes and carried white and pink carnations with pink tea roses and baby's breath.

The bride's ensemble was a ivory silk organza gown with a bodice of pearl-encrusted lace and a matching lace cap attached to a fingertip veil. The lace also edged the cathedral train of the gown.

Debbie carried a cascade bouquet of six white orchids interspersed with stephanotis and baby's breath.

HER 5-year-old cousin from

Mr. and Mrs. Joel Stein

Park Ridge, Nicole Croon, was flower girl in a pink gown and carried pink and white carnations in a basket.

James Stein, 4, of Wheeling, the groom's nephew, was ring bearer.

The groom chose his twin brother, Gerald of Wheeling, as best man and Don Vick, Wheeling, and Jim Beam, Lake Geneva, as groomsmen.

Before her marriage Debbie worked at O'Hare Airport for Hertz Rent-A-Car. She attended Prospect High School and Harper College, and her husband attended Lane Tech, Chicago, and the University of Miami in Florida.

sandpainting

Sandpainting is an old Indian art. Navajo medicine men made these pictures on the floor with ground-up stones. They believed these pictures pleased the gods who healed the sick and sent good crops. After the ceremony, the sandpainting was always destroyed.

You can make a sandpainting, too. Mix ¼ cup of sand with about 12 drops of food color in a jar. Screw on the lid. Shake until the sand is all colored. Spread sand in a box lid to dry. Do this for each color you want.

Draw a simple design on cardboard. Spread white glue on one part of the design. Sprinkle colored sand on it and let dry. Hold over boxlid and tap to shake off the extra sand. Repeat for each color you want. You may want to use real Indian designs or make up some of your own.

The way we see it

Street repair progress awful

"Mess" is a charitable way to describe the condition of Thomas Street in front of John Hersey High School in Arlington Heights.

Since the school term began, a several-block stretch in front of the campus has been torn up for sewer work, at times totally blocking access to Hersey from the west. A barricade at Thomas and Rand detours traffic away from the school, but no effort is made to guide motorists beyond that point.

Detouring to the north requires a road map, compass, extra fuel and clairvoyance. The route runs along Windsor Drive to Palatine Road, then east to Dale Avenue. Turning south, you enter Arlington Terrace subdivision; unless your name is Jeane Dixon, you'd best stop a resident on the street for directions to the entrance of Hersey.

The shorter route is south along Rand to Waterman Avenue. It requires a special arrangement with the Giver and Taker of Life to negotiate this.

At Waterman, a left turn is necessary; this is hazardous because cars are whizzing past in both directions at 45 to 55 miles an hour. Only devil-may-care types are advised to try this at night because the intersection is poorly marked and virtually unlighted.

As luck would have it, Thomas Street sometimes is partially open. Then motorists may zig-zag across the Memco parking lot to gain access to the west lot of Hersey High.

It must delight the folks at Memco to have a street coursing through their parking lot.

Two thousand (!) of Hersey's students take a bus to the building because it is isolated from the heavily developed areas of Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect and Prospect Heights served by Hersey. The kids have to trek across a retention basin to board their buses.

All this is more than annoyance. For instance, on Wednesday night a motorist driving approximately 20 miles an hour hit a sewer cover poking out of the street in front of Hersey, and his car flipped over on its top.

The fire department dispatched two trucks, and the Arlington Heights police were able to throw in three squads. Soon the car door was jimmied open so the occupants of the car could crawl out and go to Northwest Community Hospital for treatment of Thomas Street souvenirs.

"Mess" is, indeed, a charitable way to describe the condition of Thomas Street and the thoughtless way the public has been treated.

"Disgrace" is more to the point.

Suburb races should stay free of machine

Suburban legislative races should remain free of the influence of Chicago's machine politics. For this reason we are happy to see that Democratic committeemen in the Third Legislative District have said they will endorse State Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, for reelection.

The committeemen from Schaumburg, Palatine and Elk Grove townships said Tuesday they will endorse Mrs. Chapman for reelection even though she voted against the "party line" of Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley on the override of Gov. Daniel Walker's education aid veto.

Reports which came to The Herald last week about a petition against Mrs. Chapman being circulated by Democrats with ties to Daley had raised the possibility that efforts would be made to dump Mrs. Chapman because of her "disloyalty."

Such an intrusion of city politics into the suburban political process is unacceptable. We agree with Elk Grove Committeeman William Rose when he says, "You don't sell somebody out because they do one thing you disagree with."

It is certainly true that Mrs. Chapman should, and will, be held accountable for her vote on the education overrides and other issues. But accountability should not come through the exercise of the kind of party discipline that demands rigid loyalty on issues requiring judgment and the guidance of conscience.

It is a good sign that the committeemen in the Third District recognize this and have said they want to run Democrats for the legislature who will work together rather than engaging in fratricidal warfare against other Democrats.

The Northwest suburbs have a tradition of electing legislators of an independent mind in both parties. That tradition should be continued in the future.

A move against Eugenia Chapman solely because of her vote on the veto override would be a serious departure from the tradition of independence. We are glad to see the move has been rejected by these suburban party leaders.

A list from 'old Muzzy'

by DOROTHY MEYER

It has suddenly occurred to me that Thanksgiving is practically right now and I have invited guests for dinner who are not family. Which means that it's not a minute too soon to start making lists.

First, there is the what's-for-dinner list.

Then the what-do-I-need list so that I can meet the demands of the first list.

Next comes the inventory of existing supplies so that I can make out a comprehensive shopping list. "Comprehensive" meaning don't forget the minor but essential items like pumpkin pie spices and walnuts for the salad.

Finally, there is the list to be stuck on the refrigerator door reminding me to serve everything I've prepared.

LIKE I SAY, all this list-making is only necessary when there's somebody other than the family coming for dinner.

The family is used to cherry pie instead of pumpkin because I bought a fresh can of pie spices each time I shopped since Labor Day, but Thanksgiving Eve I discover that all the canned pumpkin I had in stock is actually sweet potatoes.

And they kind of look forward to a fancy gelatin salad with walnuts for breakfast the day after Thanksgiving because I was so busy making gravy the day before that I forgot to unmold my fancy gelatin salad with walnuts.

The kids will also never forget the first Thanksgiving that both grandmothers pooped out on me and I had never done a turkey before.

That first turkey was pure trauma — absolute shock — instant inferiority complex. But I did such a thoroughly researched job on the bird that the whole family is still talking about it. Not only was the turkey done to perfection and the giblet gravy pure joy — I forgot to cook any potatoes.

This year with non-family guests coming I will also clean house a little better and I have already emerged victorious from my son's ex-bedroom. I used to believe that old saying that when your son marries you don't lose a son, you gain a bedroom — until last weekend when I realized I had been stuck with a great mass of post-marital leftovers.

WHY IS IT THAT when sons get married and kiss old Muzzy goodbye, they also leave her with their old basketball sweatsuits, sentimental souvenirs they don't want their wives to see and a lot of socks that need mending?

That's how come this Thanksgiving there will be still another list stuck on the refrigerator door. It reads, "Take your stuff to your own house, damn it; identify keys on dresser; sort boxful of junk labeled 'what is it.'"

If they actually do it I'll be amazed as well as thankful next Thursday, and a Happy Thanksgiving to you, too.

JFK assassination report controversy gathers force

by TOM WELLMAN
A news analysis

A dozen years after the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, more and more Americans are asking disturbing questions about the official version of his death.

The issue has been revived by Congress, by the mass media, by individual critics of the Warren Commission report and by growing public concern.

There was a time when the commission's 26-volume document, which reported that Lee Harvey Oswald "acted alone," was acclaimed by most influential Americans as the definitive report on the circumstances surrounding the Kennedy murder.

Now the findings and the methods of the commission are challenged.

In recent months the New York Times and the Dallas Times-Herald have reported disturbing allegations:

• That the FBI destroyed an Oswald letter written several days before the assassination in which he threatened to "blow up" a Dallas police station unless the bureau's agents stopped trying to interview him.

• That recently uncovered documents indicate Jack Ruby, the man who killed Oswald, was a paid FBI informant.

• That William Walter, a former code clerk in the New Orleans FBI office, reported the bureau warned its Southern field offices five days before Kennedy's death that there would be an assassination attempt with a rifle in Dallas.

Three Congressional subcommittees are studying issues related to the shooting. Don Edwards, D-Calif., chairman of one of the subcommittees, said the purpose of his probe "is not to reopen the Warren Commission — others may later decide to do that — but to set the record straight on just what went on."

In the Senate, Richard Schweiker, R-Pa., and Gary Hart, D-Colo., are heading a subcommittee which wants to know if CIA plots to kill foreign leaders may have triggered a reprisal attack on the President.

All of this activity follows in part from a resolution, signed by at least 50 congressmen, calling for an investigation of all major shootings during the past seven years.

Schweiker frequently is quoted as a proponent of a cautious reexamination of the Kennedy shooting.

"I can't say that the commission was wrong in finding Oswald acted alone and that there was no conspiracy. But I'm convinced that the FBI and CIA covered up evidence that was material to its investigations."

Five years after the assassination, the first wave of critics had appeared. Such outspoken men as Mark Lane received considerable national attention.

However, when New Orleans District Attorney Jim Garrison failed completely in 1969 to prove he had unraveled a "conspiracy," the critics who had flocked to Garrison's side fell into public disrepute.

Only in the past two or three years have articulate critics such as Dr. Cyril H. Wecht, coroner of Allegheny County (Pittsburgh) and director of the Institute of Forensic Sciences at Duquesne University, helped to revive the controversy.

However, responsible and analytical critics are matched by the wild-eyed and dogmatic belief.

As the number of critics has increased, so has the interest of the mass media. This spring the ABC-TV

Today is Saturday, Nov. 22, the 325th day of 1975 with 39 to follow. The moon is between its full phase and last quarter.

The morning stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars and Saturn. The evening star is Jupiter.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Sagittarius.

French statesman and military leader Charles de Gaulle was born Nov. 22, 1890. American composer Hoagy Carmichael was born on this date in 1899.

On this day in history:

• In 1960, a wreck on a Long Island Railroad train as it pulled out of a tunnel from New York City killed 79 persons.

• In 1960, the U.S. Navy launched the "Ethan Allen," at that time the most powerful nuclear submarine in the world.

• In 1963, President John F. Kennedy was assassinated in Dallas by Lee Harvey Oswald. Vice President Lyndon Johnson was sworn in as the nation's 36th chief executive a short time later.

• In 1974, President Ford arrived in Vladivostok for talks with Soviet Communist party Chairman Leonid Brezhnev.

A thought for the day: Union Civil War Gen. William Tecumseh Sherman said, "I am tired and sick of war. Its glory is all moonshine. It is those who neither fired a shot nor heard the shrieks and groans of the wounded who cry aloud for blood, more vengeance, more desolation. War is hell."

program, Wide World of Entertainment, showed the complete Zapruder film taken of Kennedy getting the top of his head shot off.

Next week the prestigious "CBS Reports" plans a two-part analysis of all recent assassinations. Dan Rather, who headed the 24-man, $500,000 investigation, said this week he favors reopening the Warren Commission investigation.

More than 20 assassination novels and at least three assassination films have been produced in the last three years.

Public opinion — and public disbelief — reflect the interest of the newsmen and the novelists. A poll of 40,000 American high school students taken this year by Scholastic Magazine found more than half did not agree with the Warren Commission's findings.

Many, of course, remain firm in their belief that Oswald was a solitary demented assassin. John Hart Ely, writing in the New York Times, said the commission has offered the only coherent account of the shooting.

David Belin, the assistant counsel to the commission, has been the staunchest and the most visible of its defenders. But he holds second thoughts about some related issues.

On Nov. 12, Belin said that relevant evidence concerning CIA efforts to kill Cuban Premier Fidel Castro was improperly withheld from the commission. He told a House subcommittee that the information would have opened an "even broader investigation" of the Kennedy murder.

As skepticism grows and as honest questions are raised in the minds of men such as Belin, the questions and doubts gain a kind of interior momentum.

The FBI, operating under the authoritarian rule of J. Edgar Hoover, could have covered up honest but innocuous information.

But this nation is only three years removed from Watergate. Given the reported murky CIA plots on Cuba, recent attempts on the life of President Ford, compelling information delivered by articulate critics, given all of this... the snowball of disbelief cannot help but continue to gain momentum.

On a grass hillside in Arlington, Va., the body of John F. Kennedy, 35th President of the United States, lies at peace. Twelve years ago today his journey ended. When the growing mystery of his death will be put to rest, however, remains to be seen.

PRES. JOHN F. Kennedy slumps into the arms of his wife Jacqueline immediately after being shot by an assassin's bullet while riding in a motorcade in Dallas, Tex., on Nov. 22, 1963. A dozen years after the assassination of the 35th President, debate lingers over where the shots came from and who fired them.

Three champs crowned; finals today in 4A and 5A

NORMAL, ILL. — Championships will be determined today in classes 4A and 5A as the second annual Illinois High School Assn. football playoffs roar to a climax here at Hancock Stadium on the campus of Illinois State University.

Three champs were crowned Friday as Concord Triopia ruled Class 1A, Decatur St. Teresa waltzed to 2A honors, and Metamora nailed down the 3A trophy.

In action today Springfield Catholic will square off with Springfield Griffin at 12 noon for the 4A crown and Deerfield and Rockford Boylan will get together at 2:30 for 5A laurels.

The games will be telecast on WGN-TV and WMMR-FM (92.7) of Arlington Heights will carry the 5A battle with a pre-game show at 2:15 p.m. A special halftime show on WM will feature Mid-Suburban League stars Jim Popp of Palatine and Russ Zonca of Schaumburg and Saxon coach Bob Ferguson.

CLASS 3A FINALS

Metamora, champion of the Heart of Illinois Conference, shook off early turnovers and shook loose its outstanding fullback Larry Sommer in churning to a 25-7 victory over Geneva under the lights.

Sommer, whose run for a two-point conversion was the margin of victory in the semifinals and who had 375 yards rushing in the opening round, was devastating in piling to the first two touchdowns Friday night.

Metamora had a 6-0 lead at the intermission on a Sommer score, and Geneva had an apparent second period TD by Bob Schick called back because of a clip. The Little Seven champ could never get untracked after that.

Sommer scored Metamora's first two touchdowns on rushes of 10 and eight yards.

The third score for the Redbirds came on a 34-yard pass from Jim Garber to Phil Schertz while Paul Wernsman ran 47 yards for the following Metamora score.

Geneva's lone touchdown came on a 21-yard pass from Schick to Ed Gerick. Gerick set a championship game record for the most yards on receptions with 74 on five catches.

Sommer's performance gave him 727 yards gained in 114 carries in four playoff games.

CLASS 2A FINALS

Jerry Jones scored five touchdowns and gained 250 yards rushing to lead No. 1 ranked Decatur St. Teresa to a 35-0 triumph over Stockton to retain the Illinois state high school 2A championship with its 47th straight victory.

Jones' touchdowns came on consecutive runs of 22 and 27 yards in the second quarter and on runs of 8 and 23 yards in the last quarter. He also caught a 24-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Russ Hollingsworth. Scott Feldman place kicked the conversion after each touchdown by the Bulldogs.

St. Teresa hung up a record for total offense with 408 yards in the game and a record for total defense by allowing Stockton only 47 yards. The previous high for total offense was 365 yards by Rockford East in 1974 and the fewest yards permitted previously were 85 by West Chicago against Mt. Carmel last year.

Both St. Teresa and Stockton had ball control problems on the wet, artificial turf so waterlogged that the ball carriers were throwing up bow waves and rooster tails of water when tackled. St. Teresa lost the ball on fumbles four times and Stockton lost it three times on four fumbles. Stockton also turned over the ball once on a pass interception and Jones' first two scoring runs came on the first play after the interception and the first play after a fumble, giving him two touchdowns in a span of 57 seconds.

Stockton never crossed the 50 yard line and its best drive carried only to its own 45 before a fumble ruined their march. St. Teresa lost the ball twice on fumbles on the Stockton one-yard line.

CLASS 1A FINALS

Jay Wessler ran for 216 yards, scored four touchdowns and collected 30 points to lead Concord Triopia to the Class 1A high school football championship with a 36-6 victory over Princeville.

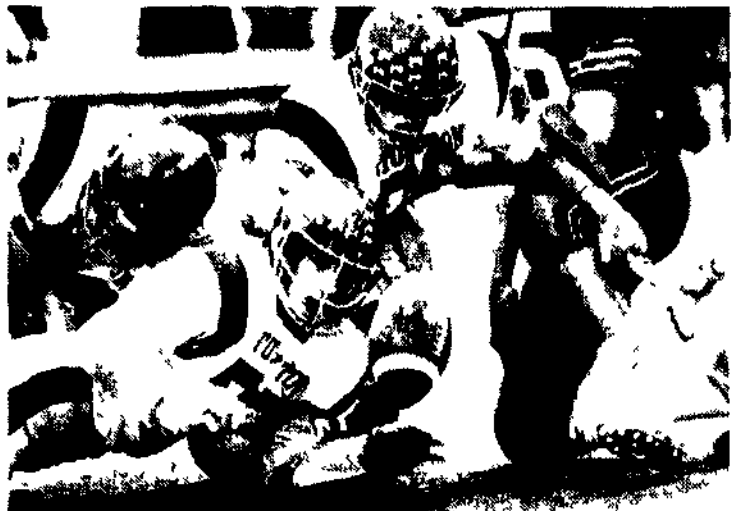

The victory gave Concord Triopia its 24th win in the last 25 games, its only defeat coming at the hands of Princeville's second play from scrimmage and ran 27 yards for a touchdown, giving him two scores in 35 seconds. The 170-pound, 16-year-old junior also ran for three two-point conversions, his last coming after teammate Scott Lovekamp ran 15 yards for Triopia's last touchdown.

Princeville's only score came on a two-yard run by Bill Allen after teammate Pat Westall blocked a punt by Lovekamp and the Princes got the ball on the Triopia 40.

Wessler scored his first touchdown on a seven-yard run. Then the next time he got his hands on the ball, he ran 61 yards for a score and closed Triopia's next drive with a 40-yard touchdown run.

His last touchdown came when he intercepted a pass by Rob Butler on

FUMBLES PLAYED a factor early Friday in the Class 2A football playoffs before Decatur St. Teresa roared away to a 35-0 win.

Here Stockton's Kevin Drane (70) and Scott Finn (66) hunt for the ball fumbled by St. Teresa.

JAY WESSLER of Triopia runs for seven of his 216 yards rushing Friday afternoon in his team's overwhelming 36-6 victory over princeville for the Illinois Class 1A championship. Wessler counted four touchdowns and 30 points overall.

Five area schools post cage triumphs

A Herald Staff Report

Five area basketball teams marched into the winner's circle Friday in the first busy evening on the 1975-76 high school schedule.

Hoffman Estates, Buffalo Grove, Wheeling, Hersey and St. Viator landed the victories as the area completed a five-for-nine performance.

Five more games will be played tonight with Buffalo Grove at Crystal Lake, Fenton at Conant, Maine North at Schaumburg, Hoffman at Crown and Evanston at Prospect.

SCORE BY QUARTERS

Fenton	14	17	12	12-55

BISON CRUSH CARY GROVE

Buffalo Grove jumped into a nine-point first quarter lead and were not even mildly threatened after that in coasting to a 75-42 opening night victory at Cary Grove Friday.

Brian Altmiller, with a big burst in the third quarter, paced the Bison offensively. He collected 22 points for game scoring honors and bagged 14 rebounds while blocking seven Cary Grove shots.

Mike Ledna also sparked the guests, with 19 points and five rebounds, while Fred Heesch connected for 10 points and Jeff Schuster was credited with 11 assists.

"It was a solid team effort," explained Buffalo Grove coach Paul Gredy afterwards. "We had the opportunity to play a lot of kids tonight and they all responded well. There's still room for improvement though... we hit at a rate of less than 50 per cent at the free throw line... and that probably won't be good enough in our next game, against Crystal Lake."

In winning, the Bison may have suffered an even bigger loss. Back-up guard Scott Groot sustained an ankle injury on the last play of the game that the coach felt might keep him on the sidelines for "a considerable time."

SCORE BY QUARTERS

Buffalo Grove	21	19	23	12-75
Cary Grove	12	13	13	4-42

WILDCATS CLAW BARRINGTON

Wheeling evened its season record at 1-1 with a 53-58 basketball victory at Barrington Friday as 6-5 senior standout Keith Schildt poured in 28 points.

Coach Ted Ecker's Wildcats broke a 14-14 deadlock on Brian Begrowicz's three-point play in the closing seconds of the first quarter. Wheeling opened up a 48-35 halftime margin as Schildt personally spearheaded the Wildcats' 31-point second-quarter outburst.

Wheeling's domination of the offensive backboards and the Wildcats' persistent full-court pressure spelled defeat for Barrington's offleaded Braves.

The biggest lead the Wildcats enjoyed was 70-48 with 8:30 to play in the fourth period. Wheeling coasted the rest of the way.

Begrowicz added 17 points to the Wheeling total and teammates Dave Schmitz, Rick McGowan, and Keith Block tossed in seven points each.

Ecker's team, a one-point loser to Addison Trail in its season opener last week, shot a respectable 44 per cent from the floor.

Barrington's top scorers were Craig Terrill with 16 points and Neale House with 15.

HOFFMAN WINS 1ST EVER

Using a very effective full court man-to-man press in the second half, the Hoffman Estates Hawks rallied from an 11-point deficit to win their first varsity game ever, 56-55 over the visiting Fenton Bison.

The Hawks' season opener wasn't decided until three seconds were left. A Bison missed both ends of a two-shot foul and Gene Foster rebounded to preserve the victory. Foster kept the Hawks in the ball game in the first half with 10 points. He finished with 17 to share scoring honors with Fenton's Larry Lindahl.

Playing a big part in the comeback was 6-foot-5 junior center Ron Warring. After only having two points and three fouls in the first half, Warring wound up with 14, many from inside.

Hoffman Estates stalled during the last three minutes with a 54-53 lead. Then guard Jeff Curtin provided a 15-foot baseline jumper to drive the final winning points. Curtin was one of four Hawks in double figures, scoring 11. Joe Gajewski also tossed in 11.

"We're very happy to get our first varsity win," said head coach Jerry Segebrecht. Last year his team played and lost 10 varsity contests.

"Instead of crumbling (as occurred several times to his young team last season), we came on and did the job."

SCORE BY QUARTERS

Wheeling	17	11	14	21-53

HERSEY TOPS TIGERS, 66-49

The Hersey Huskies opened their basketball season with a balanced attack, putting two players in double figures and four more just outside, that proved much too much for the highly regarded Crystal Lake Tigers.

With four players returning from the squad that reached the sectional finals last year, the Tigers held the lead for the last time at 3-2 before being dumped 66-49.

Sam Mosolino, working underneath for most of his points, lead all scorers with 20 points but couldn't combat the combined efficiency of Hersey's Tom Frye, Clyde Glass, Tom Burzak, Jay McDermott, Bob Newren and Mark Miesfeldt.

Ohio State battles Michigan today—that says it all!

by ED SAINSBURY

CHICAGO (UPI) — Ohio State and Michigan close the Big Ten football season today in the only game on the conference slate in which tradition takes a back seat.

In the nationally-televised games Ohio State and Michigan will be playing for the Big Ten crown for the seventh time in the last eight years, and of course the Rose Bowl berth goes with victory. For the first time the loser also will play in a post-season game, the Orange Bowl.

Purdue plays at Indiana for the Old Onken Bucket, Wisconsin appears at Minnesota, Illinois at Northwestern and Michigan State at Iowa, but the games merely mean the finish of the season. None of the "Little Eight" came up to challenge the "Big Two" during a season in which Ohio State and Michigan dominated the league again.

MICHIGAN STADIUM, the largest college-owned football stadium in the nation, has a seating capacity of 101,701 and will be the scene today of the Wolverines' battle with Ohio State.

Ohio State and Michigan head into Saturday's game with identical Big Ten records of 7-0. Ohio State held the No. 1 ranking and Michigan No. 5 nationally. Michigan has to win to go to the Rose Bowl, and Ohio State can get the bowl berth with a win or a tie.

A tie or a win would leave the Buckeyes tied with Michigan for the Big Ten title, but Ohio State would get the bowl bid because it would have the best overall record, 10-0-1 compared to 8-0-3 for Michigan. Ohio State, though playing at Michigan, is a touchdown favorite.

The game will decide the Big Ten crown for the 10th time, and in the last seven years, the title was decided only once prior to the game — in 1971 when Michigan had a two-game lead heading into the contest.

Ohio State has won two undisputed crowns, Michigan one, and the two have shared the championship four times in the past seven years.

Ohio State was a touchdown favorite, but statistically, Michigan should have the edge. It leads the league in rushing, total offense, rushing defense and total defense with Ohio State second in each category. Ohio State leads in scoring and scoring defense, with Michigan second.

Michigan's Gordon Bell leads the league in rushing and all purpose running with Ohio State's Archie Griffin second in all purpose running and third in rushing. Ohio State's Cornelius Greene, although throwing only 57 times, ranks third in passing and Michigan's Rick Leach, with 49 passes, tied for eighth.

It was unlikely that either team would throw much in view of past performances and Michigan, should it gain 365 yards or more rushing, would

Venison on Thanksgiving? Turkey is less expensive

Hunters who are participating in this weekend's three-day deer segment for the purpose of gracing the Thanksgiving table with venison may discover they are about to digest an expensive delicacy.

Computing the cost of essentials required to partake in the hunt — shotgun, warm clothing, insulated boots, gloves, proper-colored outerwear, hat, ammunition, Illinois hunting license and deer permit is a start.

Toss in gas mileage, weekend accommodations, meals and perhaps a processing plant if the hunter is fortunate enough to drop a deer, and you're talking about a dinner with a wallet-deflating main course.

The average bag-dressed whitetail weighs about 100 pounds and after proper butchering, should produce about 75 pounds of packaged meat.

But figure that another 15 pounds will be bone waste and the edible venison shrinks to about 60 pounds. Tabulating his expense account for the weekend, the hunter and his family may find they are dining on a venison roast that may cost about $4 per pound.

For that price, it might be worth mentioning a few important tips that will help the novice hunter both dress and transport his deer correctly and safely.

After the deer has been killed, the hunter's first obligation is to unload his gun and apply the deer permit to one of the buck's legs.

If conditions permit, hang the carcass by the head or prop it on a slope so that the blood drains away from the head.

With a clean, sharp knife, make the first incision between the animal's hind legs (Fig. 1). Keeping the knife blade up, use two fingers from your other hand to pull the skin away from the innards.

The concern here is not to puncture the stomach or bladder. Remove the innards, being very careful not to rupture the intestines or organs inside the cavity. If the heart and liver are to be saved, place them in a plastic bag for easy transportation.

Wipe any blood from the interior of the carcass and to facilitate moving the deer back to camp, tie the forelegs to the antlers or the side of the head (Fig. 2).

Back at camp, hang the carcass from the head and prop the body cavity open again, making sure it is protected from the sun, rain and insects, especially pesky flies (Fig. 3).

If the temperature is warm (above 55 degrees), get the deer to a meat locker or to the home freezer as quickly as possible to prevent spoilage.

Another tip is in securing the deer to the car for the trip home. Tie the carcass to the rear of the automobile and away from the motor where engine heat could destroy those expensive venison steaks.

Veteran deer hunters have found that aging the venison from three to five days in a cool area (below 35 degrees) will improve the flavor and give the meat more body for easier cutting.

If a gamey flavor worries you and you're planning ground meat, a heaping portion of pork or beef suet will enhance the taste.

FUTURE TIGERS. A member of Project Illini cradles a muskie fin-gerling before releasing it into Spring Lake near Peoria.

Dream come true

Muskies in Illinois

Project Illini, a mere dream two years ago, has excitedly become reality, thanks to the efforts of organizations like Musky Hunters Inc., National Muskie Assn. and other sports clubs and individuals, the state's anglers will no longer have to drive hundreds of miles to fish for the magnificent muskie.

Project Illini, a non-profit outfit, invested $2,200 in donations for the purchase of 700 muskellunge fingerlings from Kalepps Hatchery in Wisconsin.

These 8-12 inch fry were recently released into 1,100-acre Spring Lake in Tazewell County, just south of Peoria, signifying the first attempt to stock muskies into Illinois waters.

Officials predict that in two years, the fingerlings will have grown to legal size limits of 20 inches. After that, the muskies will hopefully flourish into the 10-20 pound class and provide area anglers with the thrill that was previously enjoyed only in Wisconsin, Minnesota or Canada.

Under the sanction of the Department of Fisheries and the Illinois Department of Conservation, Project Illini has already set its sights on 1976.

The target will be Lake Shelbyville, an 11,000 acre reservoir some 130 miles south of the northwest suburbs. Initial plans call for over 5,000 muskellunge to be released at an approximate cost of $20,000.

Anyone wishing to contribute to Project Illini is asked to send a deductible check to 5612 W. 127th St., Palos Heights, Ill. 60463.

Goose shooting begins Monday

Goose hunting in the four-county "quota zone" in Union, Jackson, Alexander and Williamson in southern Illinois begins Monday from sunrise to 3 p.m. daily.

The season is scheduled to extend until Jan. 20 or until 22,000 geese have been bagged, whichever occurs first. The 1974 quota was reached in late December.

A Conservation Department report indicates that nearly 150,000 geese were already stationed in "Little Egypt" country with another 400,000 expected to make their grand passage on the crest of the recent cold front that moved through the state Thursday night and Friday.

The state and nationally-operated refuges in the four-county zone — Horseshoe, Union County and Crab Orchard — are virtual paradises for the migrating flocks. Drawing them out of the skies are fields of clover, corn, sorghum, alfalfa and wheat.

Fawn kill study sparks controversy

A University of Wisconsin wildlife ecologist is gunning for Bambi. He says hunters who shoot fawns rather than bucks or does should be praised, not scorned.

"Hunters who . . . shoot a fawn should be rewarded in some way, not condemned," the ecologist, Orrin Rongstad, said. "They're helping the deer population more than hunters who kill larger, older animals instead."

Rongstad said an ideal deer season would concentrate harvesting efforts on fawns. Hunters should get a reward for shooting fawns, such as a guarantee of a party permit next season, he said, while hunters shooting adult does should be penalized and those killing older bucks should be limited by a lottery system.

Rongstad said predators and weather have been the main population control factors for deer and both kill more fawns than older deer.

"Through laws and personal choice, man has concentrated hunting pressure on older deer, especially males, changing the natural sex and age structure of the deer herd," he said.

Rongstad said the result has been a large concentration of younger deer, while the range of ages — which should extend from fawns up to 8 year olds — has been shortened. He said bucks older than 3½ years are rare in Wisconsin.

Some deer are lost to starvation in northern Wisconsin almost every winter, he said, and fawns are the first to succumb. He said harvesting fawns would help reduce those losses.

Herd productivity is also affected by a dominance of fawns, Rongstad said. He said fawns are either nonproductive or less productive than does and an over-abundance of fawns makes it more difficult for herd numbers to increase the next year.

"I expected this to stir some controversy," Rongstad admitted after his views were made public in a routine news release from the university's extension department. But, he added, "We're creating worse problems rather than helping."

"If the hunter is happy with one-third less meat, he shouldn't be criticized," Rongstad said. "We shouldn't call him names because he shot poor little Bambi."

"If people only knew," he said. "The agony and slow death of starvation in the woods is so much worse."

Shoot only birds in range

Don't confuse your shotgun with anti-aircraft artillery. Even magnum loads can't be expected to bring down birds beyond 50-60 yards. Long-range shots are more apt to cripple than kill. A good rule of thumb is that for ducks, you should be able to see the color of the head and body. You should see the white face markings on Canada geese.

Galena offers free ski touring

One of the few organized cross-country skiing programs offered in the state begins its third year this winter at The Galena Territory, a 6,500-acre recreational community situated among the hills and woods near picturesque Galena in the northwest corner of the state.

Well marked trails provide challenging journeys for both the neophyte and expert skier. The program has added trails this year which enable skiers to explore new regions and areas at the vast development.

The unique terrain at The Galena Territory adds excitement to the nordic experience. Trails meander through rugged hills, rolling valleys, rising ridges, deep ravines and vast open spaces — each a product of the byways of the great glaciers during the Ice Age long ago.

The ski trails will originate from the Territory Club, designed for exclusive use by landowners and registered visitors, and will serve as the centralized facility for the cross-country skier.

Skiers must make an appointment and register before taking to the hills at The Galena Territory. They should call 815/777-2000 or write The Galena Territory, Galena, Ill. 61036. There is no charge for skiing.

Groups are encouraged to visit The Galena Territory, but also are requested to make reservations in advance. The information center at the development contains rooms for films, lectures and shows, if needed.

Hours are daily, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Limited equipment is available for tourers at a fee of $4.50 per day. Clinics are tentatively planned in January and February to assist both beginning and advanced skiers and improve their cross-country techniques.

The community is on U.S. Route 20 and six miles east of Galena, a town of restored Victorian homes and antique shops that draws visitors from across the country. The Galena Territory is about 15 miles north of Chestnut Mountain, a popular downhill skiing area.

If driving from Chicago, take Route 20 — the Cherry Valley, Freeport, Galena exit. Route 20 leads directly to The Galena Territory. Overnight accommodations are available in and around nearby Galena.

Local skiers join Junior Alpine racers

Five area skiers are members of the Chicago Metropolitan Ski Council Junior Alpine Race Team that will be celebrating the upcoming race season at Wilmot Mountain Nov. 23 from 1-4 p.m.

The team, training since mid-October, includes Elk Grove's Wayland Joe, Steve Skobel of Mount Prospect, Palatine's Curt Grow and Blair Stribley and Tom Brodman of Arlington Heights.

The racing program, organized in 1970, has the ultimate goal of placing the racers on the Olympic team. Coaching the downhill racers is former NCAA champion Mike Porcarelli who competed with the U.S. Ski Team in Europe.

On-the-hill training, held at Wilmot, will begin Dec. 1 when the area opens. Training is four nights a week from 5:30 to 9:30 p.m. and weekends from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The Chicago Metropolitan Ski Council will also run seven Sunday races throughout the season. Free racing clinics will be held before each race by one of the team's coaches. They will be available for any questions.

For more information, call Ed Starr at 362-7736.

Five area teams triumph

Frye, the Huskies' cat-quick guard, turned in a 17 point night to lead his team. While Frye was driving the lane for most of his points Glass hit for 14 with most of his points coming from medium-range jumpers.

Burzak was one of a quartet of players who hit for eight points, showing the improved quickness he has gained since last year when he stole the ball at midcourt and outran a Crystal Lake guard in for the layup.

McDermott, Newren and Miesfeldt also scored eight points apiece. All of Miesfeldt's points came in the final period when Hersey ripped open Crystal Lake's desperation press.

The Tigers had trimmed Hersey's lead to 40-34 at the start of the fourth period but the Huskies, even though they killed nearly half the period with a stall, outpointed Crystal Lake 24-15.

Four Lions scored in double figures, including Ralph Casciaro who had nine in the fourth quarter. Glen Girard, the 6-9 senior center, was high with 23 points. Paul Wiloff had 14 and Steve Nataro 12. Kevin Mulroy came off the bench for four fourth-quarter points.

CARDS FALL SHORT

Arlington, plagued by cold shooting from the floor, dropped a low-scoring 43-36 decision to host Proviso West in the season opener for both clubs.

Cardinal Jim Grandt dropped through 20 points and grabbed 10 rebounds, but it wasn't enough to offset the final fourth-quarter surge by the Panthers who out-scored Arlington, 7-4.

Proviso greeted Arlington with a full-court diamond-and-one press, but the pressure didn't phase the Cardinals' offensive attack.

The teams battled to an 8-8 standoff after the opening period and a 24-24 deadlock at the intermission. Proviso went up by four after three quarters, 24-22, before adding a clinching one field goal and five free throws over the final eight minutes.

Greg Kloiber tossed in six points and hauled down 11 rebounds, Greg Jantsch contributed seven points and eight boards and Frank DeSimone capped the scoring with three markers before fouling out late in the game.

Proviso West was paced in scoring

DEMONS RIP PALATINE

Jay Baum and Dexter Brown led a fourth-quarter surge that pushed Maine East to a 57-56 victory at Palatine in the opening basketball game for both teams.

Baum and Brown shared scoring honors for the Demons with 10 points apiece, and Baum used his deceptive quickness on the full-court press to steal several Pirate passes. Baum, one of the few seniors on a junior-dominated Demon squad, also sank a pair of clutch free throws with 55 seconds left.

Palatine had led by six early in the game before falling behind 29-22 halfway through the second period. However, a three-point play by 6-4 senior Ken Reid and a basket by 6-4 junior center Kevin McKenna pulled the Pirates back into the game at halftime.

Reid and McKenna were the game's high scorers with 18 points each before they fouled out in the fourth quarter.

Leading by a single point going into the fourth period, Maine East took command. Brown hit a jump shot from the free throw line and Baum stole the inbound pass under the basket and laid it up and in. Two free throws by 6-4 junior center Tom Janowski opened the Maine East lead to 50-43 a moment later.

Two free throws by Doug Benson and a long jumper by Rick Benson with just nine seconds left brought Palatine to within one point before the Demons ran out the clock.

Maine East broke a 12-game losing streak from last year as Janowski scored nine points, Mark Manbeck and Scott Russ had eight each, and Len Patkos added seven.

FALCONS STUMBLE, 17-59

The Forest View Falcons, surrendering from three to four inches to Lake Park's king-sized front line, suffered a 71-59 season and home-opening loss to the Panthers.

The Falcons, who are relegated to their speed and quickness, parlayed the two talents to remain within striking range throughout the entire contest, although never leading.

With Ray Michaelson and Jim O'Rourke pouring in 13 points apiece, Forest View trailed just 59-54 with 3:34 left in the game before Lake Park sealed the verdict with two straight layups by 6-5 center Tom Stelmach.

Forest View surprised the Panthers with an effective full-court, man-to-man press on the opening tipoff. Dogging Lake Park every step of the way, the Falcons forced a grueling tempo that eventually resulted in 55 fouls whistled in 32 minutes.

Scrapping on the backboards against Lake Park's 6-5½, 6-5 and 6-4 front line, Forest View was still able to penetrate on offense with 13 of its 20 buckets coming on layups — nine of those on a lightning fast break spearheaded by guards Nate Adams, Tom Lunak and Jim Petran.

Rich Bentsen and Lunak chipped in with eight each off the Falcon bench while Bill Simon and Adams tossed in a half dozen apiece.

MAINE WEST LOSES 63-55
Someone put a lid on the basket at Maine West's end of the court in the fourth quarter, allowing Waukegan East to rocket off with a 63-55 triumph in a Central Suburban cross division Midget.

After battling the Bulldogs tooth and nail through three periods, coach Gaston Freeman's hosting Warriors were bumped off in the stretch by a rash of fouls and a cold streak from the floor. With too many shots rimming the hoop, too many West starters fouling out and too many Waukegan cagers connecting at the line, the verdict was pretty well in hand with plenty of time to spare.

"They outlasted us but I was still pleased with our showing tonight," explained Freeman. "Our kids could have quit right at the start when Waukegan started off strong but we kept scrapping back. We found out tonight that we don't have to be afraid to go to our bench either."

The Bulldogs jumped into an early 9-0 lead but Maine rallied later in the opening stanza behind the handiwork of Bob Zuccarini to gain a 14-13 command. With three seconds to go, trailing by one and owning the ball, the Warriors were then victimized for four quick points and trailed the remainder of the contest.

West stubbornly stayed in the game however. They trailed by eight at midgame but with Bill Fintinis holding a hot outside hand, pecked away in the third period to narrow the gap to two.

That's when the roof caved in. Zuccarini, Buddy Doroskin and Bill Kuempel all went to the bench on fouls and Waukegan hit nine of ten free throws at one stretch to cement the triumph.

Zuccarini paced the losers with 17 and Fintinis finished with 12. Eddie Smith headed up East with 18 points.

Three area squads in debuts tonight

A Herald Staff Report

The wraps come off on three more area basketball teams tonight in a non-conference schedule that features five games overall.

Mid-Suburban defending champion Prospect, Schaumburg and Conant go on public display for the first time in 1975-76, and the answers could start coming early on the question of what teams will be formidable in the South Division.

Prospect and Conant have basketball traditions and Schaumburg is a club with exciting potential. The South race shapes up as a battle to the wire with several clubs in contention.

Buffalo Grove, pre-season favorite in the North, returns to action tonight at Crystal Lake after opening up Friday in Cary-Grove. Hoffman Estates, another team that opened last night, will journey to Crown in Carpentersville.

Prospect

From riches to rags?

The casual observer might gather this opinion of Prospect's cage fortunes for the 1975-76 season. The Bill Slayton-led Knights, currently prepping for their liftoff tonight at home against Evanston, do not have an overpowering resemblance to the Prospect team which captured Mid-Suburban League title honors last winter.

"Eighteen points is all we have back from last year," sighed Slayton, referring to the scoring contributions of his only returnees from 74-75. "We're not going to scare many teams, needless to say."

Fear? No. Respect? Yes. This isn't the first time graduation has cleaned the courts at Prospect. The Knights seem to prevail in any case, having finished with only one losing record over the last six years and doing no worse than runnerup in the MSL the other times.

Slayton has directed the Knights to four divisional titles and three conference crowns in the past five seasons.

A dozen of those 18 points left over from last season belong to 6-2 Chris Etter, one of the five seniors Slayton had planned on starting against the Wildcats. Teaming with Etter will be 6-4 Bruce Brothers, son of an all-star from Quincy by the same name, 5-9 Mike Wood and 5-9 Tim Kibicki.

The fifth man in the plans was Brad Crause (6-0) but an injury will keep him off the hardwood for possibly a couple of weeks. And, in the meantime, the mentor will probably fill that slot with 6-4 Ed Spore, 6-3 Rick Rosenquist or 6-3 Brad Millar, the only junior on the squad.

Rounding out the team are 5-9 Scott Miller and 5-9 Mark Longrie, the latter being owner of the remaining six points from last season.

By comparison, they were nearly 1,000 points back at the advent of the previous season when the Knights rolled to a 20-5 record including a perfect 14-0 mark in conference. But Slayton is not overly concerned: "We're a senior team that's pretty green. I really don't know what to expect yet but the kids hustle and they're aggressive and for now that's a good start."

Schaumburg

Schaumburg basketball coach Joe Breault is using some new words to describe his 1975-76 edition Saxons. They are words he has rarely spoken in his five years as head coach at Schaumburg.

"We've got some experience and we've got some size," Breault said. "And this is by far the best team we've had here at Schaumburg."

The Saxons have four returning starters from last year's 11-15 team. All stand at least 6-foot-2.

The experience will come from 6-3 senior forward Jon McElraith, a starter since his sophomore days and the Mid-Suburban's fifth-leading scorer last year with a 16.7 per game average.

The size will come from 6-6 sophomore center John Chmiel. The younger of Schaumburg's Chmiel brothers averaged 10 points a game last year while playing only half the season. John is still growing. And improving.

John's brother Ed, a starter last year at forward, will move to guard for his senior season. He will be joined in the backcourt by either Bill Solik or Bob Connell.

"We've got some quick guards," Breault. "And a team is only as good as its guards."

Marty Golub, a 6-3 senior who saw plenty of action last year, is in line for a forward spot, and 6-5 senior Dan Breen, who graduated from the jayvee ranks, is also fighting for a job.

Size and experience aren't the only new words in Breault's vocabulary. Quickness, depth and poise may also come into play when the Saxons begin their campaign tonight with a non-conference game against Maine North at Schaumburg.

Put together, the new terms just might spell the Saxons' first winning season ever. Breault is jumping with enthusiasm.

"I'm really anxious to get going," he said. "For once I wish we could have opened up earlier. I really wish we had a game last week."

Conant

Four Conant seniors from last year's 10-13 team will return this winter to provide Dick Redlinger with a team he "expects to win with."

Redlinger, a six-year veteran at the Conant helm with a fine career mark of 85-53, is an eternal optimist. But with Ron Sulaski, Pete Scaffidi, Brian O'Donnell and Mike Frisch back for their last licks Redlinger has reason for his bright outlook.

"The four seniors in the starting lineup all played a lot last year," Redlinger said. "And they've all improved. Especially Scaffidi, you won't believe him."

Scaffidi picked up speed and strength all last season and finally broke into the starting lineup in mid-year. The 6-4 senior, who will handle the point guard position in the Cougars' three forward offense, eventually trailed only Sulaski in scoring (8.1 ppg) and rebounds.

Sulaski, starting his third year with the Conant varsity, led the team with a 10.8 scoring average and paired 121 rebounds. He provided Conant with their brightest moments of the 1974 season when he earned the MVP award at the Grayslake Holiday Tournament, an event the Cougars won.

O'Donnell, who was bothered with an elbow injury last year, will team his 6-5 bulk with Frisch (6-1) and junior Dave Plumb (5-11) on the front line. Plumb, a junior, is, according to line.

Plumb, a junior, is, according to Redlinger, a "fine outside shooter."

The Cougars, with a fast break offense and pressing defense, will go to their bench to keep the starters fresh and Redlinger has some able backup punch.

The first forward substitute will be senior Mark Sander, brother of Conant star Roger Sander. Filling in at guard will be junior Rob Totten.

Seniors Mike Nydam, John Krook and Tom Izzo will also see plenty of playing time.

"I think Schaumburg will be the toughest team in the (Mid-Suburban League) South Division," Redlinger remarked. "But I think we can be right up there in the top three. This is going to be a very balanced league."

Conant hosts Fenton tonight.

Bulls fall again; streak at eight

Nate Archibald topped a well-rounded Kansas City scoring attack with 27 points Friday night as the Kings topped the Chicago Bulls 107-98 for the Bulls' eighth straight season loss.

Kansas City, now at 4-7 on the season, struggled with the Bulls for the first three periods before climbing to a 10-point lead midway through the fourth quarter for the win, which snapped a two game losing streak.

Veteran Norm Van Lier poured in 27 points for the Bulls, while Mickey Johnson added 24, Bob Love 16 and Leon Beabow 16.

Jimmy Walker hit for 15 points, followed by Scott Wedman, Sam Lacey and Bill Robinson with 14 points each, and Larry McNell with 11 to round out the double figure scoring for Kansas City.

The Kings, shooting .464 from the field and .853 from the charity line, enjoyed a brief seven point lead early in the first period before the Bulls' Tom Boerwinkle tied it up at 15-15. The first quarter was tied four times and the second four times as the Bulls saw a six point advantage drop into 46-46 halftime tie.

The game was tied six more times in the third period before the Kings broke loose in the fourth with Lacey grabbing 16 rebounds to control the boards.

Oklahoma, Nebraska in Big Eight dazzler

Barry Switzer knows just what his Oklahoma Sooners must do today to beat the Nebraska Cornhuskers in a game that means all there is to mean in the football-rich Big Eight Conference.

"We will have to play the best we have this season in every phase of the game," said Switzer. "We will have to play two halves like the first one we played against Missouri last week."

Oklahoma has played very few halves of football this season like the one they played against the Missouri Tigers last week. And despite that excellent 30 minutes of football, Oklahoma had to depend on a 71-yard romp by Joe Washington and a two-point conversion in the final minutes to down the Tigers.

But despite sixth-rated Oklahoma's "struggling" 9-1 year, the sellout crowd of more than 70,000 at Owen Field have helped the oddsmakers decide to install the Sooners as four-point favorites.

Gowdy out as TV baseball voice

The National Broadcasting Company said Friday that veteran announcer Curt Gowdy would no longer cover baseball for the network.

"NBC's long association with Curt Gowdy will continue under our existing agreement with Curt doing NFL and post-season college football, the NCAA basketball championship games and other assignments to be determined," a network spokesman said.

Gowdy had been the play-by-play announcer for NBC's baseball telecasts on Saturday afternoon and Monday night regular season games, the All-Star Game, the playoffs and the World Series for almost a decade. But a week ago the network said Joe Garagiola would assume Gowdy's baseball duties, an apparent effort to insure that Garagiola would not jump to another network.

Petraglia top Brunswick finalist

Johnny Petraglia of Staten Island, N.Y. will be sitting in the driver's seat and ready to defend his title in the $100,000 Brunswick World Open Bowling Championship in suburban Glendale Heights this afternoon.

Petraglia, a southpaw, will meet the winner of a step-ladder elimination process that pits the winner of the Gary Mage and John Wilcox match against Third-seeded Earl Anthony. That winner will face Dave Davis with the survivor meeting Petraglia for the $14,000 first prize. The bowl-offs will be televised by CBS beginning at 3:30.

Football Commissioner Pete Rozelle acknowledged Friday professional football teams have not suffered "serious financial losses" because sold out home games were televised locally. . . . Nevertheless, Rozelle urged a Senate Commerce subcommittee to reject an extension of the so-called anti-blackout law for three more years or — as proposed in the House — to make it permanent. . . . The current law expires Dec. 31.

Sandra Haynie set a women's course record with a six-under-par 65 Friday to take the first round lead in the Greater Fort Myers Classic at the Lockmoor Country Club in Fort Myers, Fla. . . . She leads by two shots. . . . The NCAA is investigating recruiting practices of West Texas State University, the school announced Friday.

Ask Andy

Frost in a desert? Well, it's true

Andy sends a 20-volume set of the Merit Students Encyclopedia to Robert Wilde, 12, of Salt Lake City, Utah, for his question:

HOW FAR NORTH CAN DESERTS FORM?

This depends on what we mean by a desert. Most of us regard it as a scorching wasteland, too dry for any plant life. Such deserts are limited to regions near the tropics. If we allow a cooler climate, with a few scrubby plants, we find deserts much farther north. If we include dry frozen regions, we find a few patches of desert within the Arctic Circle.

In 1918 geologists came up with an official description of a desert. Its yearly rainfall must be limited to less than 10 inches; and its climate is expected to range from coolish to scorching hot. In the Northern Hemisphere, the scorches include the great sandy Sahara and Arabian deserts, which straddle the Tropic of Cancer. The cooler deserts north of the equator include those of Western North America plus another among the lofty ranges north of India.

Our Western desert reaches above Utah into southern Idaho. Across the world, in central Asia, there are cool, dry deserts that reach much farther north than ours. One is the great Gobi Desert, perched on the cold, dry ranges of western China. This and a neighboring desert region cover an area of 200,000 square miles, and the northern border is as far north as our most northern deserts.

West of the Gobi region and reaching farther north is the arid desert of Turkistan. It includes three-quarters of a million square miles of western Russia, where it loops around the Caspian Sea. If it were in North America, its northern border would reach up into Canada.

The Turkistan desert is the most northerly of those in cool and temperate regions. But perhaps this is not the whole story. Within the tundra of the Arctic Circle the weather brings snow rather than rain. In some places the yearly snowfall equals much less than 10 inches of rainfall. In this case, perhaps we can claim that deserts — frosty deserts — can exist up in North Polar regions.

South of the equator, there are scorching deserts in Africa, South America and Australia. The Patagonian Desert reaches down toward the tip of South America. However, parts of Antarctica get scanty snowfalls — and perhaps we can say that frosty deserts also exist in the South Polar region.

Andy sends a 7-volume set of the Chronicles of Narnia to Barbara Samuel, 11, of Yorkville, N.Y., for her question:

WHAT HAPPENS TO THE BEES IN WINTER?

When the fall weather grows cool, the honeybees prepare their hive for the winter. Cracks are sealed with special wax to make it draft-free and weatherproof. Stores of honey are sealed in the waxy cells. The queen mother stops laying eggs, and the busy workers throw the lazy drones outdoors — to perish from cold and starvation. Many of the worker bees grow tired and die also. But the queen and usually several thousand workers do their best to survive.

Before the snow blows, all survivors huddle into the hive. They cling together in a big brown ball to keep warm. Now and then those on the inside change places with those on the outside. They live on the stored honey, which is rationed out to last through the winter. The queen gives up her usual royal jelly and even she lives on honey. And there they stay in their cozy hive until the first breath of spring comes to coax them outdoors again.

'Valentino' — a camp, fun-filled movie

by JOAN HANAUER

NEW YORK (UPI) — "Television's Valentino" has a split personality — the production is part fact and part fiction, part overblown language and part slick wisecracks.

"The Legend of Valentino," billed as "a romantic fiction based on the life and myth of Rudolph Valentino," stars Franco Nero as the Sheik of Sheik, with Suzanne Pleshette as the good girl he should have taken for his wife and Yvette Mimieux as the witch he mistakenly did marry. It airs Sunday as the ABC Sunday night movie from 8 to 10 p.m.

It starts out in the castle he never finished before his death at age 31, half a million dollars in debt and with a career on the wane. The narrator spins overripe prose about how the children he never had now play in the ruins of the mansion, and "only the orange trees he planted bore fruit."

VALENTINO, AS PORTRAYED by Nero, is a nice guy — a little stupid, maybe, but nice. And almost totally humorless.

The wisecracks come from Miss Pleshette, who plays with a dry irony the screen scriptwriter who discovered him, and from Judd Hirsch as the press agent who helped build his superstardom.

When Miss Pleshette first discovers Valentino he is bumblingly trying to burglarize her home. She calls the cops, but when they start to beat him up, she lies and insists it's a lovers spat that started when they were in bed together. One cop wants to know how he got his pants on so fast. "He's Italian," Miss Pleshette says.

When Valentino is being lured by the villainess, Natacha Mimieux, Pleshette murmurs to him, "Why don't you dance with Natacha — maybe she'll let you lead."

Even Valentino has one funny line. On a train trip, he finds a 1920s version of a teenybopper in his bed. She wants what he won't, perhaps can't, deliver. Rejected, she screams insults about his latest films and he mutters something to the effect, "What are you — a critic from the New York Times?"

Beekeepers discover the sweet taste of success

by LEA TONKIN

Beekeeping is a gentle pastime. The bees wouldn't have it any other way.

Amateurs getting started in the hobby soon discover the rewards of a slow, methodical approach. Like the mythical Pooh bear, beekeepers can gorge themselves on smooth, sweet-tasting honey. Beekeeping's potential as a money-making family activity and an outdoor hobby draw followers in country and suburban areas.

"Jumping right in is wasting your money," says Pieter Sweet, partner in the Honey House at Pooh Corner Co., Hoffman Estates. A beekeeper, Sweet sells honey and apiary supplies. "Go out where someone has bees. Get suited up and see if you can stand it," he advises. "It's not uncommon to be a little nervous."

Nerves are the least of your worries as you stand amidst a swarm of bees for the first time. Raw fear should dissolve into a more peaceable state of mind when you realize that the industrious little insects are simply making their way to and from a colony, their home base.

Sweet, who has "always been interested in beekeeping," advises that the would-be beekeeper read several books on apiaries. "Fall is a good time to get started. You can go out and look, read and assemble the equipment you'll need."

"It helps to be handy," Sweet says. "You can learn from scratch." Do-it-yourselfers can assemble the movable-frame hives, or the components may be purchased. A three-story hive may cost $60-$100. A bee veil used for protection of the face, a hive tool used as a scraper and nail-puller — and the bees themselves may be purchased from a dealer or through catalogs. A bee smoker is a device used by beekeepers to control the insects.

"When dandelions are growing in the springtime you start the bees," Sweet says. Shake the bees into the hives you've assembled, and give them a little food to start the season. Depending on the honey flow and how aggressive your bees are, Sweet says, you add another hive, then another. Then come the sweet rewards of success. Joe Reed, a young Arlington Heights beekeeper, produces both the section comb honey, sold in small frames, and bottled honey extracted from larger frames.

Bottled honey is taken from the cells of the comb in an extractor, Joe explains. It's a machine that uses centrifugal force to draw the nectar from the cells. The cells are first decapped with a knife. The honey is collected at the base of the extractor and strained into a container.

Friends and neighbors ask for the honey, says Irene Reed, Joe's mother. She figures that Joe's hobby will just about pay for itself this year. "With five children, you get into a lot of things you never thought you would," Mrs. Reed says. She has an allergic reaction to bee stings.

A greater hazard in the beekeeping business is vandalism, says Joe. Joe moved several hives from his backyard to another location after they were damaged. Sweet, who says he's suffered a loss of some $2,000 through vandalism, adds that the increased use of pesticides also threatens the bees' existence.

A number of beekeepers report bee-rustling activity, says Joseph Sedlak, an inspector for the state Dept. of Agriculture's Apiary Protection Div. "People want the sweets for their table," Sedlak said. "Then there are the health faddists who go for honey rather than refined sugar." Hijackers take four or five bee colonies at a clip, knowing that a four-story colony will fetch $70, Sedlak says.

Joe Reed of Arlington Heights inspects his bee hives.

All beekeepers must register their hives with the state Dept. of Agriculture. State inspectors check the colonies for signs of disease. The colony must be destroyed if foulbrood, an extremely contagious disease, or other sickness is discovered. "For a lover of bees, that's a heartbreaking experience," Sedlak says.

Sedlak shares a protective attitude toward bees with amateur apiarists. For too long, he says, bees have been stung by an undeserved reputation as pests.

"There are few plants the wind can pollinate naturally," Sedlak says. Hard-working bees, in their constant search for nectar, provide the essential pollination of fruit trees and other plants.

"People look on the bee as something that stings," the inspector says. "That's all they know about it. But bees are helpful. They provide a sweet, a wax used by dentists and in cosmetics and other products."

"One of the biggest faults we have as humans is that if we see an insect, we take a swing at it," he adds. "If you hit a bee, that's war. It may come back and attack."

A beginning beekeeper learns respect for the bees and their productive lifestyle. Part of the hive's fascination is the study of an intricate social structure in which each bee has specific tasks. "There's an awful lot of young people going into beekeeping," Sedlak says. "And retired people, and gardeners who want to insure good food production. They're also doctors, lawyers and engineers — I haven't seen a dumb beekeeper yet."

A family portrait: Howard Kauffman and his birds

Turkeys:

by KAREN BLECHA

The turkey is a maligned bird. People laugh and call it names. They think it's funny anything can be so dumb.

You've heard the gibes. A turkey will drown itself in the rain. A turkey will starve to death if the farmer doesn't lead it to the food bin. Baby turkeys will pile on top of each other to keep warm and inevitably smother the unlucky ones at the bottom.

People no longer call a jerk a jerk. They call him a turkey.

This bad-mouthing of the holiday bird doesn't set well with Howard Kauffman, a turkey man most of his life. While most of the taunts may be true, Kauffman thinks them unkind — especially since those who make the jokes are the same turkeys who smile contentedly over full stomachs when Thanksgiving dinner rolls around.

"Turkeys are like anything else," he says. "All they want is a little love and attention."

Kauffman's been giving turkeys love and attention for 43 years on his 660-acre farm in Waterman, in DeKalb County. Waterman is a small, northern Illinois farm town like any other small farm town. Population: 990, a grocery, gas pump and tiny cafe. Kauffman's been mayor there for the last 19 years. Two miles outside the city limits, just south of Ill. Rte. 30, a giant plywood turkey overlooks the fields.

"Welcome to Ho-Ka Farms," the turkey says. "Home of the Ho-Ka turkey."

This is not turkey country; there is no such thing. It doesn't take any special climate or soil to produce a crop of gobblers. California, the Carolinas and Texas do well with the birds. Minnesota leads the country with about 22 million produced there this year. Illinois ranks a lowly 24th supplying only 445,000 of the 123.6 million U.S. turkeys that will go to market in 1975.

Ho-Ka produces about 100,000 turkeys a year, or nearly a quarter of the total Illinois production. Follow the arrow on the turkey sign. Thousands of turkeys, like the welcoming committee at a class reunion, greet visitors with their high-pitched sing-song warble. Some are outside, in pens, enjoying the November sun, unsuspecting of the knife only hours away. Others are still inside the houses, eating their way to Christmas dinner.

In a building in the middle of his flock sits 66-year-old Kauffman, Ho-Ka if you prefer, a man with a perpetual twinkle in his eye. His name has appeared on maybe four million packages of turkey products.

"I was born in that house up there," he says and points to a weathered white frame farmhouse on the hill. "I was always interested in poultry, livestock and all that stuff."

"When I graduated from the great University of Illinois in 1931, it was the Depression. I decided to try turkey farming until I could find something better," he says. "I've stuck it out. Maybe it's the challenge."

Kauffman is one of the few people who could actually love a live turkey. "These old Toms — they like to have company. Each one of them is a character," he smiles. "You should see 'em near mating season. They puff out and strut. I've seen young boys act the same way."

"Every once in a while I get one who really has a personality. He wants to talk and wants to put on a good show. They love to have you talk to them. Here and there you'll find a turkey that likes to be stroked."

"The hens," he says. "They're the ladies. They're some talkers."

Turkey farmers were rare in the 1930s when Kauffman started. Back then farmers would raise a few birds along with other livestock especially for Thanksgiving dinner. Not everyone had the luxury of a turkey on the table.

Even today there are few people in the business. Since 1970, turkey production in Illinois has decreased by 50 per cent. In 1967 Kauffman almost went bankrupt because he and other producers increased their crop — he was up to 250,000 — and the market almost ran them out of business.

Raising turkeys is a special challenge, even though modern technology has increased the efficiency of production.

The bird is susceptible to disease. Baby turkeys require extra-special care including a 95-degree house and keepers who can get them to eat and drink. Turkeys can peck each other to death. Feed costs — turkeys at Ho-Ka are fattened with 600 bushels of corn a day — have gone up like everything else. Even when nothing special goes wrong, Kauffman loses between 8 and 12 per cent of his crop each year.

"It's been rough," he says. "Real rough."

It is three weeks before Thanksgiving, the busiest time of the year at Ho-Ka Farms. About 70,000 turkeys will be dressed between now and Christmas for sale at independent meat markets and butcher shops in Chicago and its suburbs.

The turkeys are between 17 and 30 weeks old, depending on size. Most will stay whole birds, fresh or frozen. Others will be cut into roasts, wings, drumsticks and turkey roll. The fresh birds will sell for 85 to 87 cents a pound, about three cents more than last year.

"A fresh turkey is dressed about three weeks ahead," Kauffman says. "A frozen one has been dressed any time in the last two years. Personally I can't taste the difference."

The assembly line moves slowly overhead with turkeys hung by their heads and ankles as 100 employees, most of them hired for the season, prepare 2,000 to 3,000 a day for market. There is a constant flow of water in the dressing plant; the birds are washed at every step. The smell is like the smell of a newly un-wrapped piece of poultry.

The process is relatively simple. First stop is the man who slits the throats of the turkeys so they bleed to death. Then each fowl, still shuddering, is cleaned and plucked by machine. After cleaning, the abdomen is cut so the inspector can check each bird. They must be cut just so; the day before Kauffman had to throw away three turkeys — worth about $10 apiece — because they weren't properly prepared for inspection.

The scene is unpleasant and Kauffman seems to apologize for it. "We used to have kids come in here, you know with their teachers," he says. "The teachers loved it but the inspector raised hell. He said it wasn't clean with them tracking in mud and all.

"I was glad of that," he confides. "I don't think that those little kids should see this."

At the next step, the head and hocks come off; the insides are pulled out with a vacuum-like apparatus, and the gizzard, liver and heart removed. They will be frozen and stuffed back into the turkeys when they are packaged. Chances are about 1 in 100,000 the giblets you find inside your turkey actually belonged to the same bird.

"This is the part we call getting the bird ready to sell," Kauffman says. "Those women want their giblets. I've had letters from people who have missed a piece inside their turkey."

The turkeys are bigger and broader than in years past, with more thigh meat. The heads are blue and red but the feathers are all white and Kauffman likes to call them the "Bicentennial bird."

"Once we judged poultry on their color," he says. "But all turkeys are white now. It's part of marketing. All white feathers and all white meat. We try to please the consumer. I always say the consumer is my friend."

From slaughter to packaging takes five hours. Once the turkeys are cut and cleaned they are put in large tubs of ice to chill for four hours. Then they move down the packaging line and get slipped into a bag.

"I remember when we started in '33. We did all this by hand," Kauffman says, waving his arm around the plant. "But back then I paid my help about 15 cents an hour. Now it's up to $1.88 to $3.50."

The turkeys Kauffman sells are Ho-Ka, Table Top or Heritage, depending on the quality. The Table Top has some skin missing and The Heritage lacks one wing. Kauffman likes to say the Heritage is "a real good bargain" since it sells for 10 cents a pound cheaper and there isn't much meat on a wing anyway.

Kauffman is a turkey eater. From way back and isn't too shy to tell you so. "I eat it as often as I can talk my wife into having it," he says. "I say two times a day is fine if I can talk her into it. Sometimes it's 10 times a week. We treat it like beef. You haven't tasted anything until you've tried barbecued wings and drumsticks."

He says he likes to do some "goofy experimenting" with turkeys on his own.

He's frozen and thawed out turkey seven or eight times and can't see any difference in the taste.

"But I don't need to tell my wife when I (Continued on Page 7)

Turkeys:

run that one," he says. And he winks.

When Thanksgiving rolls around at the Kauffman house this year, there'll be a Ho-Ka turkey on the table, preferably about 30 pounds.

"My lovely wife Lois thinks there's nothing better than a 30-pounder," he says.

Fair officials search for 1976 name, theme.

Illinois State Fair officials are searching for a name and theme for next year's fair.

Entries to the "Name the Fair" contest should be submitted on a single sheet of paper with an explanation for the name in 50 words or less. Winner will be an honored guest at the fair and will receive a plaque at the opening grandstand show, two season passes to the fairgrounds, free season parking and two reviewing stand tickets for each of the fair's grandstand shows.

Fair officials said the theme of the fair must not necessarily relate to the Bicentennial. Former names have been "Super Fair '75" and "Fun and Fantasy."

Contest entries must be received by Dec. 5. Mail them to "Name the Fair Contest", Illinois State Fair, P.O. Box 576, Springfield, Ill. 62705.

Correction

Last week's Leisure incorrectly listed the hours of Stone Cottage Antiques in Lake Zurich. The shop is open Wednesday through Sunday 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

"It's true, you get more meat on a turkey over 24 pounds.

"My wife does real well with the dressing. She takes two or three necks, cooks them and pours the juice over the dressing. It gives it the flavor."

Kauffman also likes a few oysters in his dressing and doesn't like to pass up sweet potatoes and cranberries on that special day of the year.

"About the pie," he says. "Now there's where you get all those calories. Pumpkin pie is always good."

Kauffman can't understand why people don't eat more turkey. Figures from the National Turkey Federation show each American consumes 8.8 pounds a year.

"Turkey is high protein meat, low in fat and cholesterol. There's no damn reason why people shouldn't eat it all the time. I guess they think they can only eat it on Thanksgiving."

He does predict, however, that there will be more birds on the table this Easter. He asks, "Have you seen the price of ham lately?"

"This business has been rough. Real rough."

Chicago's Lincoln Park Zoo needs volunteers to conduct group tours

The Docent Committee of the Lincoln Park Zoo needs volunteers to help conduct tours of the zoo for school classes and other groups.

With additional training some Docent volunteers also take birds, reptiles and other small animals on visits to Chicago classrooms, libraries, nursing homes and other institutions.

To become a Docent you must be at least 21 years old, have a high school degree and be able to work four hours one day a week. The committee is especially looking for volunteers who speak Spanish and other languages.

Interested persons are invited to an orientation session 10 a.m. Dec. 3. A special orientation session for those who can work Saturdays and Sundays is scheduled for 10 a.m. Dec. 6.

Those selected will undergo a nine- to 12-week training program Wednesdays or Saturdays in mid-January, conducted by the zoo's curators. The training includes lectures on the natural history of birds, animals and reptiles and environmental factors affecting animals. At the end of the course, trainees must pass an examination before beginning work as a Docent.

For further information call 294-4671 between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m.

Barbi wants to cut ties to Hefner

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — For seven years Barbi Benton's been identified as publisher Hugh Hefner's personal Playboy bunny, but the day may come when Hef's claim to fame is his discovery of Barbi.

Barbi is the hazel-eyed brunette who sings country-western songs on "Hee Haw" every week, has a hit record, Brass Buckles, and played a dramatic lead this fall with Dennis Weaver in "McCloud."

She also shines as an opening act in Las Vegas, recently with Charle Rich.

In all these endeavors Barbi keeps her clothes on. But her bare bottom and bosom were well displayed in Hefner's magazine in 1970 and 1973 layouts.

"With any luck I'll be in the book again next year," said Barbi. "I have nothing to hide. I hope I'll still be posing nude when I'm 40."

Barbi was neither singer nor actress when she and Hefner began holding hands. All she had going for her was great beauty. A terminal case of gorgeous.

Beauty has its limitations, she discovered. She couldn't make a career of posing au naturel. It doesn't pay that much. But Barbi's as bright as she is beautiful.

"I was studying premed at UCLA," Barbi said, "when I decided show business was for me, and the best way to make it was in music."

"I had just one problem. I was tone deaf."

"But I was determined to take singing lessons. The teachers said I was the second worst student they'd ever taken in. They never did tell me who the worst was."

"After three months I sang for Hef and he couldn't believe how bad I was."

"He suggested I give up singing and take acting lessons. He thought I was hopeless."

Barbi took time out to explain that although she poses only for Playboy and is under contract to Playboy Records, Hefner doesn't wield his clout to help her get jobs.

"Hef stays away from my career. At first because he thought I was so bad he couldn't help if he wanted."

"My singing teacher said it would take three years before I could sing well enough to be accepted as a professional," Barbi said. "They were wrong. It took me five years."

"I worked hard those years and sang on 'Hee Haw' before I dared go on stage. I didn't want to be rapped by the press and have people say I got on stage because Hef put me there."

In the past two years Barbi has played Las Vegas three times and Lake Tahoe once. The reviews have been good and Hefner has not been crowned as a new Pygmalion.

She has mastered the guitar and banjo and toured the British Isles.

"Now I'm playing one-nighters and state fairs," she said with pride. "I've even got a new album coming out with Mickey Gilley, 'Roll You Like a Wheel.'"

In addition to posing in the buff a few more times, Barbi's goals include headlining in Vegas along with more straight acting roles in movies and television.

"Most of all," she sighed, "I want to be known as Barbi Benton, the singer, not as Hugh Hefner's girlfriend."

Shelby Lyman on chess

Michael Tal, a world champion at age 24 who then lost a rematch to Botvinnik a year later, has been plagued ever since by chronic illness.

A Moscow "speed" tournament was postponed in 1967 until Tal was released from the hospital. The ailing Tal won with 14 out of 15 points whereupon, he returned to his sick bed.

According to the Soviet master Estrin: "Lying in a medical ward with a hot water bottle, he was given a pain-killing injection, and then, from memory, reeled off to eager journalists the scores of his 15 games."

Hint and explanation: to solve-it White has an unusual recapture. His voracious advanced pawn will turn the tables. Notice black's unprotected queen.

Robert Byrne has not yet regained his splendid form of the 1973 Leningrad interzonals. He has been on the decline since his shellacking thereafter by Boris Spassky in their Candidates match. Spassky, himself, is still struggling to regain his pre-Reykjavik form.

When the two met recently in the celebrated Moscow international tournament, Spassky again had his way with Byrne. In Diagram 2, we see the winning position reached by Boris on move 36. From this position, his central pawn trio and aggressive king combined with his knight and rook to force resignation at move 40.

At this writing, Spassky was among the leaders with a shot at first.

Win at bridge

by Oswald and James Jacoby

In the early stages of defense it pays to give your partner as much information as you can. Later on you may want to play to misinform declarer.

One bit of misinformation that you should always give him is that you play cards that he knows you hold rather than ones he can't be sure of.

South's five-diamond contract is rather optimistic. Probably North should have dropped the bidding at four; but South is in five.

West starts out with three rounds of hearts. South has to play dummy's jack of trumps on the third lead and is delighted when it holds. Now West is marked with the queen of diamonds.

South leads a diamond to his ace. If West meekly drops the 10, South will play his king and make his contract. But if West is worth his salt he will drop the queen under the ace. South won't know where the 10 is.

Maybe he will play his king and drop it, maybe he will go back to dummy, lead a second trump, finesse his nine and go set. We don't know. All we know is that the queen play has given him a chance to go wrong.

Horses, country music at 76th Live Stock Show

An international horse show and entertainment by country western groups are featured in the 76th International Live Stock Exposition which opens at Chicago's International Amphitheatre Thursday.

Goal of the show this year is to blend farm and city, according to officials. One of the attractions will be the Hayloft Gallery featuring art done by school children from throughout the state. There will also be barbershop quartets, an antique car show and square dancers for entertainment.

On display will be items commemorating 200 years of American agriculture with antique farm machinery, tools and crafts collected from museums and historical societies from throughout the country. More than 30 world consuls will display at the "Fete Internationale" with exhibits featuring agricultural displays from around the world.

The main attraction will remain 4,000 head of prize livestock that will compete for $85,000 in premiums and awards.

Performances of the International Horse Show with more than 400 of the country's top saddle horses in competition will be presented daily. Entertainment will be provided by Danny David and the Nashville Express, the Judy Lynn Show, Mel Tillis and the State Siders, Tommy Overstreet and the Nashville Express and Fred Warings' Pennsylvanians.

The show will continue through Dec. 2. Tickets for the horse show plus general admission to the stock show are $3, $6 and $10. General admission for the stock show only are $2 for adults and $1 for children under 12, and can be purchased at the Amphitheatre, 4300 S. Halsted St.

Norman Lear comedy, cop show added to CBS nighttime schedule

"One Day at a Time," a new Norman Lear situation comedy series, will premier on CBS Dec. 16 at 8:30 p.m.

"One Day at a Time" revolves around a mother and her two daughters who live in an apartment in Indianapolis. The new show was announced by CBS officials as part of a revised television schedule for the network.

"The Blue Knight," starring George Kennedy, a new hour-long dramatic series, will premier Dec. 17 at 9 p.m.

In addition, four regularly scheduled shows will move to new time periods. "M*A*S*H" will move to Tuesdays at 8 p.m. starting Dec. 2; "Switch" will move to 9 p.m. Tuesdays starting Dec. 2; "Hawaii Five-O" will move to Thursdays at 8 p.m. beginning Dec. 4; "Barnaby Jones" will switch to Thursdays at 9 p.m. starting Dec. 4.

Photographs by four young artists now on display at Oakton College

Photographs by four young artists will be on display at Oakton Community College in Morton Grove until Nov. 26.

The photo display by Linda Connor, Jim Raymo, Joan Redmond and Carl Toth will be open at the William A. Koehnline Gallery, Building 4 on the campus. Hours are from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Friday.

Connor, currently co-chairman of the photography department at the San Francisco Art Institute, has work in the permanent collections at the Art Institute of Chicago. Raymo, a Tennessee native, has taught photography, history of photography and photo-silk screen at St. Mary's College in Notre Dame, Ind.

Redmond is instructor of photography at Moore College of Art in Philadelphia. Toth, current head of the photography department at Cranbrook Academy in Michigan, has exhibited widely and is represented in collections at the Museum of Modern Art in New York.

Not many people realize that our first Thanksgiving in 1621 was not a celebration of a bountiful harvest. Our Pilgrim Fathers experienced a very lean harvest that year and had suffered many hardships. Their spirits were low, but rather than giving up in bitterness, they set aside a special day to rejoice in their meager harvest and to give thanks that they had made it for another year. America was created with that kind of determination...the determination that no matter how difficult the present might be, we still had a lot to be thankful for and we would go on to build a better future. Today, 354 years after our first Thanksgiving, we are the strongest, most powerful and richest nation the world has ever seen. We have our problems, we have difficulties and have experienced great crises, but the determination our forefathers had lives on in us. We still have a lot to be thankful for.

It's that time again—Santa on way

Fire engine or Model T Santa Claus is coming to town and to the kids it doesn't matter how the jolly old man from way up north gets here.

Everyone's favorite chimney slider will make the rounds in the Northwest suburbs in upcoming weeks. He's already in residence at Cinderella's Castle in Woodfield Shopping Center, Schaumburg.

Santa will remain at Woodfield until Dec. 24, when he heads back to the North Pole to load up his sleigh.

A FIRE ENGINE will bring Mr. Claus to Golf Mill Shopping Center, Niles, today where he will take his seat in the cedar chalet house in the north mall. Santa will meet children weekdays from 1 to 8 p.m.; Saturdays, 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.; and Sundays, 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Santa will arrive at both the Mount Prospect Plaza and Randhurst Shopping Center, Mount Prospect, Nov. 28. A replica of a 1905 Model-T will carry him to the Mount Prospect Plaza, Rand and Central roads, at 10:30 a.m. He will reside there for 25 days, distributing goodies to the boys and girls who visit him. He will accept callers 10 a.m. to noon, 1 to 4:30 p.m., and 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. weekdays; 10 a.m. to noon, 1 to 5 p.m. Saturdays and 11 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Sundays.

The Mount Prospect Plaza Merchants Assn. has arranged a special treat for the kids, "Lunch with Santa" in a private dining room at the Scanda House Restaurant. Parents may purchase tickets at $1.50 for children, $2 for adults for Wednesdays, Fridays and Saturdays starting Dec. 5 plus Monday and Tuesday, Dec. 22 and 23, by writing to 1058 Mount Prospect Plaza, Mount Prospect 60056.

AT RANDHURST, Santa will be on hand Nov. 28 to greet shoppers starting at 9 a.m. with Uncle Ned Locke and Cookie the Clown of Bozo Circus fame. Santaland at Randhurst will also feature the mechanical antics of Rodney, the red-haired angel.

Other stops along Santa's route will be Palatine, Dec. 6; downtown Des Plaines, Dec. 6; and Chamber of Commerce Park, Wheeling, Dec. 7.

For lefties only!

by JOE SWICKARD
Is Roz Wattel a left-hander's friend?

Right!
Mrs. Wattel of Arlington Heights has started a catalog service for the estimated 20 million lefties in the country who can order anything from ice cream scoops to playing cards from her company.

And believe it or not this lady is right-handed and so are her husband and three children.

IT ALL STARTED this summer when Mrs. Wattel decided she did not want to return to elementary teaching, where she said she first became aware of the problems of left-handed persons. She said the children had difficulty in writing, manipulating scissors and other tasks designed for those of the right-hand persuasion.

So in August she began visiting the trade shows seeking out left-handed products.

"As I went to the booths and asked about left-hand products, I'd get really silly answers. They'd tell me they had left-handed basketballs and things like that. But I did start finding the items," Mrs. Wattel said.

She compiled enough items to fill her 10-page catalog that opens and is numbered from back to front to make it easier for the lefties.

THE ITEMS RANGE from the practical to purely novelty items. She offers wrist watches, playing cards, knives, oven mitts, baseball gloves, ice cream scoops, mustache cups, creamers, pen points — all designed for the left-handed.

The products are part of growing trend to let the lefties alone. For years, teachers and parents tried to force them to learn to do things with their right hands, a program with limited success and often frustrating for the children.

Such skills and crafts as knitting, needlepoint or guitar playing are often taught primarily for the right-handed majority. Mrs. Wattel's catalog offers instruction books designed for the rest of the population.

Even school notebooks, with spiral binding on the reverse side, are available through her as are note cards.

THE LEFT HAND Plus, Post Office Box 502C, Wheeling, has been in operation only a week, but already she is being swamped with inquiries and requests for the catalog. Since items in newspaper columns and her appearance on a morning radio program, she has received more than 100 letters and calls from Indiana to

Residents plan to picket today at apartments

Residents of the Greens of Golf Mill apartment complex, Maine Township, plan to picket the management firm today to protest what they call poor living conditions.

Keith Marvin, president of the Greens Tenants Assn., said a group of apartment residents will picket outside of the Littlestone Co., office, 9127 Potter Rd., Maine Township, today from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Marvin said the protest is to demonstrate tenant dissatisfaction with management's reluctance to deal with problems at the complex.

"I started a couple of months ago when they closed the indoor garbage chutes," said Marvin. "Then rents were raised. But there are a lot of other problems."

RESIDENTS OF THE 127-building apartment complex, located northeast of Dempster Street and Potter Road, organized the tenant's association last summer to get management to solve the problems.

Marvin said the management company has ignored the tenants' group and has not corrected the deficiencies.

Officials at the company would not comment on the problems or the protest scheduled for today.

Among the problems cited by residents of the apartment complex include poor security and increased vandalism.

"People are complaining that the door locks are insufficient," Marvin said. "The management has said they have their own patrol system, but so far I haven't seen it."

MARVIN SAID residents also plan to protest the quality of water at the complex, which Illinois Environmental Protection Agency officials have found to contain sulphur and other impurities.

Marvin said EPA officials do not know how the impurities are getting into the water, but the association president said it could come from plumbing inside the apartment complex.

"If it is the plumbing, it's going to be very expensive to replace the pipes," he said.

Although the management firm has refused to acknowledge the tenants' association, Marvin said he received an anonymous threat when organizing it during the summer.

"WE HAD POSTED some information about the group in the buildings and a lot of it was torn down," Marvin said. "Then I found a note on my door which said if I posted it again, I could expect something to be done to me or my car." Marvin said nothing ever came of the threat.

Residents of the complex rallied in late October to show their support for the tenants' group and more than 500 showed up.

"It was kind of surprising that so many people came out to support us," he said.

7 architecture awards granted

The Des Plaines Chamber of Commerce has singled out seven of 30 new buildings built or remodeled in the city this year for architectural awards of excellence.

The awards were presented Thursday during a banquet at the Des Plaines Elks Club by Dennis Stevens, a local architect and chairman of a committee that reviewed the buildings. The committee included architects and builders and chamber members.

Recognition plaques were presented for installation on the buildings and certificates were presented to the owners, architects and builders of the structures.

RECIPIENTS OF the 12th annual awards were:

• The office building at 111 E. Touhy Ave.; owner, Trammell/Crow Co., Des Plaines; architect, Wilson, Fousch and Associates, Chicago; builder, Henry C. Beck Co.

• Chicago Savings and Loan Assn. (renovation); 1065 Oakton St.; owner, Chicago Savings and Loan Assn.; architect and builders, Signet Construction Co., Chicago.

• Chelsea Motor Inn (renovation), 1275 Lee St.; owners, Acme Corp.; architect, Nicholas Marchese; builders, Chester Plodzien, Des Plaines.

• Joseph E. Seagram and Sons Inc. office building, 95 E. Algonquin Rd.; owner, Joseph E. Seagram and Sons, (Continued on Page 4)

Senate report says:

'Kissinger knew of CIA plot'

President Richard M. Nixon ordered the CIA, in the presence of Sec. of State Henry Kissinger, to organize a pro-American coup in Chile in 1970, according to the Senate intelligence committee's assassination plots report.

The report said Nixon kept the plans secret from William P. Rogers, who was then serving as his secretary of state, and other high officials.

According to the report, Nixon authorized Richard Helms, then CIA director, to spend up to $10 million on a coup attempt which ultimately failed to stop Marxist Salvador Allende from coming to power — but led to the murder of Gen. Rene Schneider, the Chilean commander in chief, by Chilean plotters.

The report said U.S. efforts to stop Allende from becoming president were far greater than Nixon, Sec. of State Henry A. Kissinger, or Helms have acknowledged.

In a recent interview with the Ladies Home Journal, Nixon said, "We had nothing to do with Chile or Allende."

Kissinger told a Senate committee on Sept. 17, 1973, that the CIA was involved only "in a very minor way" in the 1970 Chilean elections.

Helms, now ambassador to Iran, was asked at his ambassadorial con-fessionment whether the CIA tried to overthrow the Chilean government and replied, "No, sir." The Justice Department is investigating whether Helms perjured himself.

At the White House, a spokesman said Ford saw no reason to fire Kissinger or Helms because of anything disclosed in the report of CIA assassination and coup plots.

Kissinger testified Friday at a

REPEAT AFTER ME. Student School students in a mock wedding. teacher Jerry Franklin delivered marriage vows to Hersey High

Hersey teens try 'simulated' mates in mass 'nuptials'

by KATHERINE BOYCE

"I, Tom, take you Cathy, to be my simulation wife, for better or for worse, for richer or for poorer, in sickness and in health and whatever the grade shall be."

Forty-two boys and girls exchanged those vows in a mock wedding Thursday at Hersey High School. The couples will act as husband and wife for the next six weeks during classes until their mock marriage is annulled.

The ceremony was part of a new course this year at Hersey called "Marriage and the Family," taught by sociology teacher Robert Hannon and home economics teacher Ann Slattery. The purpose of the course, say teachers, is to improve a student's understanding of the institution of marriage. They hope students also will learn something about themselves and their relationship with other students and parents.

The course falls under the category of consumer education since it will teach students the dollars and cents realities of marriage including living arrangements, food and budgeting, cost of furniture and the responsibilities and cost of child rearing.

At the beginning of the year students discussed personal values, human sexuality, dating, friendship and love. One week prior to their "marriage" students completed questionnaires expressing their feelings about marriage, in-laws, children and the selection of a mate.

Their first assignment was their engagement. Along with discussion on the purpose of engagement, the buying of a ring and arrangements for the ceremony, the couples sat down with their parents to devise a guest list.

To show that they took the institution of marriage seriously the students dressed for the nuptials in formal wear complete with suits, ties, gowns and of course boutonnieres and bouquets. They were married in a civil ceremony by student teacher Jerry Franklin who dressed in religious garb representing all denominations.

Following their short-lived marriage students will discuss the problems that assail a married couple. They will discuss the termination of a relationship, divorce and alternatives to marriage.

The course is experimental this year at Hersey. It will come before the High School Dist. 214 administrative council which will consider adding the course to the district's regular curriculum next year.

Toastmasters finish class

Thirteen members of the Des Plaines Toastmaster Club's speechcraft class have completed an eight-week course in communications and leadership.

Wisconsin.

"A 12-year-old girl from Winnetka called after her father told her about the catalog. She called back in a couple of minutes to say she thought it was a great idea and she wanted to thank me," Mrs. Wattel said.

She, too, is getting something more out of the business than the hoped-for profits.

"I started it to keep busy. After the children got older I needed something to do and I didn't want to go back to teaching," she said.

WITH ALMOST NO business background or experience, she plunged into it, learning all she could. She admits some of her methods are not taught at the Harvard School of Business, but they work for her.

"I am being taken seriously

when I work with people on things like the catalog and the layout. It's really super. I've found it very stimulating and I'm growing in confidence as I do it," she said.

Her husband, Robert, vice president-marketing for Lettuce Entertain You restaurants (Jonathan Livingston Seagull, R. G. Grunts, Fritz' That's It, The Pump Room) offered his help, but she seems to be managing quite well on her own, thank you.

FORMER CHICAGO Bears quarterback Bobby Douglass is affiliated with one of her husband's restaurants. And since the southpaw former Kansas Star was released by the Bears, one question comes to mind: Would a left-handed football have helped him?

Mrs. Wattel answers without hesitation.

"Right," she said.

Obituaries

For lefties only!

by JOE SWICKARD
Is Roz Wattel a left-hander's friend?

Right! Mrs. Wattel of Arlington Heights has started a catalog service for the estimated 20 million lefties in the country who can order anything from ice cream scoops to playing cards from her company.

And believe it or not this lady is right-handed and so are her husband and three children.

IT ALL STARTED this summer when Mrs. Wattel decided she did not want to return to elementary teaching, where she said she first became aware of the problems of left-handed persons. She said the children had difficulty in writing, manipulating scissors and other tasks designed for those of the right-hand persuasion.

So in August she began visiting the trade shows seeking out left-handed products.

"As I went to the booths and asked about left-hand products, I'd get really silly answers. They'd tell me they had left-handed basketballs and things like that. But I did start finding the items," Mrs. Wattel said.

She compiled enough items to fill her 10-page catalog that opens and is numbered from back to front to make it easier for the lefties.

THE ITEMS RANGE from the practical to purely novelty items. She offers wrist watches, playing cards, knives, oven mitts, baseball

The products are part of growing trend to leave the lefties alone. For years, teachers and parents tried to force them to learn to do things with their right hands, a program with limited success, and often frustrating for the children.

Such skills and crafts as knitting, needlepoint or guitar playing are often taught primarily for the right-handed majority. Mrs. Wattel's catalog offers instruction books designed for the rest of the population.

Even school notebooks, with spiral binding on the reverse side, are available through her as are note cards.

THE LEFT HAND Plus, Post Office Box 502C, Wheeling, has been in operation only a week, but already she is being swamped with inquiries and requests for the catalog. Since items in newspaper columns and her appearance on a morning radio program, she has received more than 100 letters and calls from Indiana to

Parks postpone plan to annex township homes

The Wheeling Park Board has postponed plans for a December referendum to annex a portion of unincorporated Wheeling Township.

Last month, the area rejected annexation to the River Trails Park District.

Board member Robert Ross, said the park district must wait for negotiations to be completed on some property before holding the referendum. He said park officials have "no idea" when the referendum will be scheduled.

The area is located east of Stevenson School in an area bounded by Palatine, Wolf, Old Willow and River roads.

A REFERENDUM DATE cannot be set until a small strip which divides the annexation area is brought into the district. Annexation cannot take place without the corridor to make the park district contiguous to Quincy Park.

Park officials must meet with corridor residents to work out final arrangements for voluntary annexation. The referendum would ask residents of Gladstone Glen, Quincy Park, Lake Run and Willow Bend to vote yes or no on a proposal to annex to the park district.

These areas last month rejected the River Trails Park District annexation offer. In the same referendum last month, the Willow River area — including Loch Lomond, Willow River, Apple Tree and Willow Park apartments — voted to join River Trails.

David Phillips, Wheeling park director, said the area, if annexed, would increase the park district's assessed valuation by about $12 million. The assessed valuation of the district currently is about $100 million.

Quincy Park is the only area involved in the proposed referendum which includes homeowners. The condominium complex includes 592 units. The remaining Willow River area consists of apartments.

Welfare cases level off: official

The number of persons applying for township public assistance has leveled off in the past four months, Wheeling Township Supervisor Ethel Kolerus said Friday.

Mrs. Kolerus said 132 persons applied for township aid in September, "a considerable drop" from earlier in the year. She said the township spent about $8,000 in general assistance in September.

"I think we've settled into a pattern of paying out between $7,000 and $8,000 a month. We've begun getting applications from 130-150 people the past few months," she said.

MRS. KOLERUS SAID this year's September payments are close to the September 1974 expenditure of $8,600 for 227 persons. She said the number of persons applying for public assistance was just beginning to escalate at this time last year. The township paid out $16,287 in January for general assistance to 416 persons.

Wheeling Township officials increased the general assistance budget by $110,101 this year because of the increased caseload caused by widespread unemployment. Mrs. Kolerus said the township has only spent $75,000 of the $241,000 budgeted for the fiscal year, which ends in February.

Officials in Palatine Township said earlier this week they expect a slight increase in welfare cases next month because of the Thanksgiving-Christmas holidays.

The caseload in Palatine is averaging around 60, which is about the same number reported last year at this time.

Townships are required by law to offer some form of emergency temporary assistance to township residents for food, rent and medical expenses. The amount of financial support depends on the number of dependents the applicant has and his economic condition.

Senate report says:

'Kissinger knew of CIA plot'

President Richard M. Nixon ordered the CIA, in the presence of Sec. of State Henry Kissinger, to organize a pro-American coup in Chile in 1970, according to the Senate intelligence committee's assassination plots report.

The report said Nixon kept the plans secret from William P. Rogers, who was then serving as his secretary of state, and other high officials.

According to the report, Nixon authorized Richard Helms, then CIA director, to spend up to $10 million on a coup attempt which ultimately failed to stop Marxist Salvador Allende from coming to power — but led to the murder of Gen. Rene Schneider, the Chilean commander in chief, by Chilean plotters.

The report said U.S. efforts to stop Allende from becoming president were far greater than Nixon, Sec. of State Henry A. Kissinger, or Helms have acknowledged.

In a recent interview with the Ladies Home Journal, Nixon said, "We had nothing to do with Chile or Allende."

Kissinger told a Senate committee on Sept. 17, 1973, that the CIA was involved only "in a very minor way" in the 1970 Chilean elections.

Helms, now ambassador to Iran, was asked at his ambassadorial confirmation hearings whether the CIA tried to overthrow the Chilean government and replied, "No, sir." The Justice Department is investigating whether Helms perjured himself.

At the White House, a spokesman said Ford saw no reason to fire Kissinger or Helms because of anything disclosed in the report of CIA assassination and coup plots.

Kissinger testified Friday at a

Harper band to perform in fall concert

The Harper College wind ensemble and jazz band will present its annual fall concert in the Bicentennial spirit Tuesday, with several American selections on the program.

Directed by Robert Tillotson, the wind ensemble will feature William Schuman's overture for the band entitled "Chester." This selection is based on the hymn tune said to have been sung around the campfires of the Continental Army and played by fifers on the march during the American Revolution.

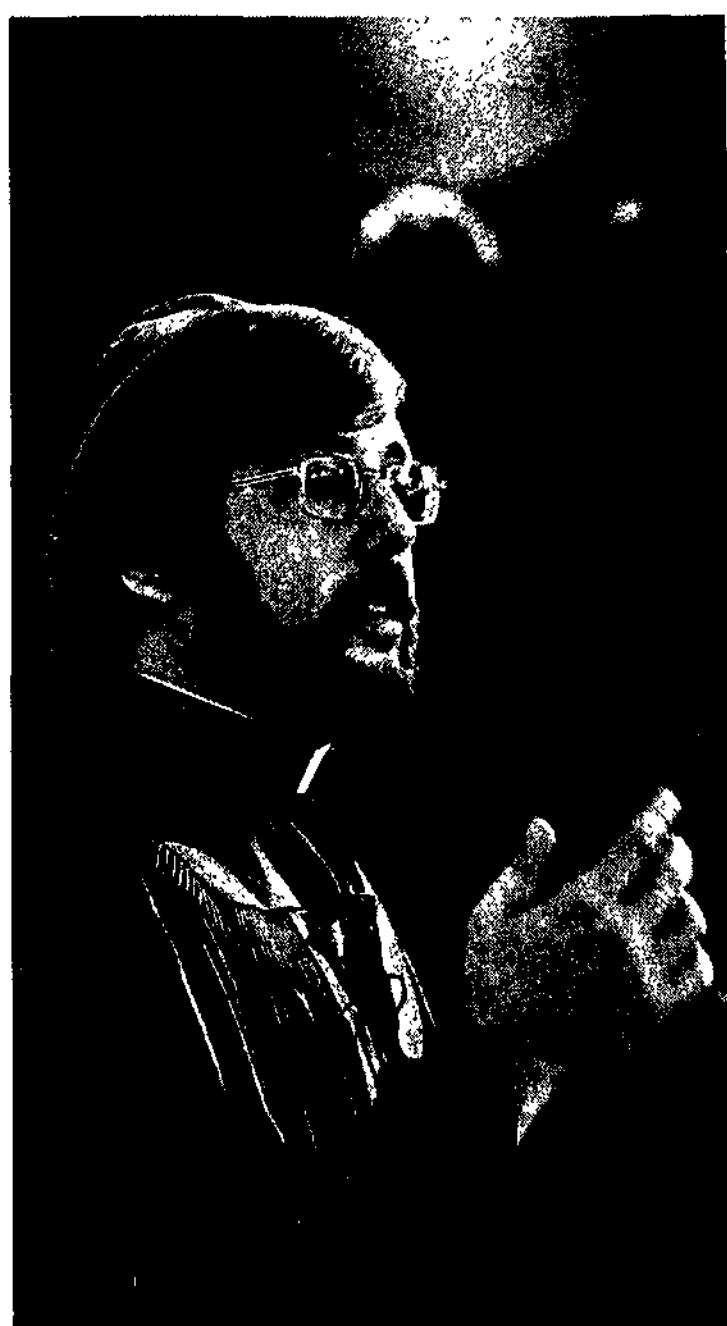

The wind ensemble's program also will include "Somersault" by Hale Smith; "Barnum and Bailey's Favorite" by Karl King; and "Procession of the Nobles" by Rimsky-Korsakov/Leiden.

The jazz band, directed by James Bestman, will include local soloists in several performances.

Selections from the program include: "Lil' Darlin'" by Neal Hefti, featuring Dave Sterner, Prospect Heights, on vibes; "Red Clay" by Freddie Hubbard, featuring Steve Lockwood, Mount Prospect, on soprano sax; Jim Polanek, Mount Prospect, on guitar; Dan Owens, Hoffman Estates, on drums; Scott Hendricks, Rolling Meadows, on piano and Reggie Gilmore, Schaumburg, Latin percussion.

Soloists for "If You're Leaving" by Loren Binford, include: John Kuttan, Mount Prospect, on tenor sax, and Bill Calkins, Des Plaines, on trumpet.

The concert begins at 8 p.m. in the college center lounge and is free to public.

REPEAT AFTER ME. Student School students in a mock wedding. teacher Jerry Franklin delivered marriage vows to Hersey High

WEDDING BELLS rang this week for 42 students at Hersey High School. Tom Janus and Cathy Jacob were one of the couples who exchanged vows in the mock ceremony, a simulation for "Marriage and the Family," a new course in Dist. 214 being taught at Hersey this year.

Mass 'nuptials' at Hersey —teens in simulated vows

by KATHERINE BOYCE

"I, Tom, take you Cathy, to be my simulation wife, for better or for worse, for richer or for poorer, in sickness and in health and whatever the grade shall be."

Forty-two boys and girls exchanged those vows in a mock wedding Thursday at Hersey High School. The couples will act as husband and wife for the next six weeks during classes until their mock marriage is annulled.

The ceremony was part of a new course this year at Hersey called "Marriage and the Family," taught by sociology teacher Robert Hannon and home economics teacher Ann Slattery. The purpose of the course, say teachers, is to improve a student's understanding of the institution of marriage. They hope students also will learn something about themselves and their relationship with other students and parents.

The course falls under the category of consumer education since it will teach students the dollars and cents realities of marriage including living arrangements, food and budgeting, cost of furniture and the responsibilities and cost of child rearing.

At the beginning of the year students discussed personal values, human sexuality, dating, friendship and love. One week prior to their "marriage" students completed questionnaires expressing their feelings about marriage, in-laws, children and the selection of a mate.

Their first assignment was their engagement. Along with discussion on the purpose of engagement, the buying of a ring and arrangements for the ceremony, the couples sat down with their parents to devise a guest list.

To show that they took the institution of marriage seriously the students dressed for the nuptials in formal wear complete with suits, ties, gowns and of course boutonnieres and bouquets. They were married in a civil ceremony by student teacher Jerry Franklin who dressed in religious garb representing all denominations.

Following their short-lived marriage students will discuss the problems that assail a married couple. They will discuss the termination of a relationship, divorce and alternatives to marriage.

The course is experimental this year at Hersey. It will come before the High School Dist. 214 administrative council which will consider adding the course to the district's regular curriculum next year.

Judge bans X-rated films at drive-in

by LUISA GINETTI

An injunction was issued by a Cook County Circuit Court judge Friday barring the 53 Outdoor Theater in Palatine Township from showing sexually explicit films.

Judge Francis T. Delaney issued the order following a hearing Friday. The ruling takes effect immediately.

In his decision, Delaney said the theater is causing a public nuisance for the health and well-being of minors and other citizens of the area because the screen is visible to passers-by. He said the case was not an instance of censorship and did not deal with obscenity laws.

PATRICK TUITE, attorney for Kohlberg Theater, owners of the drive-in, said he would appeal the order and seek a stay of the injunction. Tuite said if the appeal is lost he will file suit in U.S. District Court seeking to reverse the order and win damages for his client, charging First Amendment rights have been violated.

Tuite said he did not know when the appeal will be filed.

John Diener, assistant state's attorney who has been prosecuting the case, said he was pleased with the order.

The state's attorney's office filed suit in July against the theater charging it is creating traffic hazards near Rand and Hicks roads by showing X-rated films on its main screen. The screen is visible to motorists and nearby residents.

One witness, Thomas Hurley, an investigator with the state's attorney's office, Friday testified that on two separate occasions during the past four months he has witnessed X-rated movies shown at the theater from both Rand and Hicks roads, more than 150 yards from the theater.

HURLEY ALSO SAID the iron framework and concrete footing for two new screens scheduled to be built at the theater are about 15 feet higher off the ground than the existing one, possibly making films easier to see.

Both new screens will be visible to homes less than a half-mile away, Hurley testified.

Delaney appeared disturbed when Tuite tried to explain the delay in construction of the two screens, which theater owners contend will face away from the roads and be used strictly for showing X-rated films.

Work on the screens was started earlier this month but was halted because proper building permits had not been obtained from the county. Tuite said each time the owners have submitted information to the county, building and zoning department officials have asked for more information, causing delays in issuing a permit.

"I was calm at first in not issuing any orders, but I don't like this," Delaney said. "We're no further along than we were four months ago when this lawsuit was filed."

Wisconsin. "A 12-year-old girl from Winnetka called after her father told her about the catalog. She called back in a couple of minutes to say she thought it was a great idea and she wanted to thank me," Mrs. Wattel said.

She, too, is getting something more out of the business than the hoped-for profits.

"I started it to keep busy. After the children got older I needed something to do and I didn't want to go back to teaching," she said.

WITH ALMOST NO business background or experience, she plunged into it, learning all she could. She admits some of her methods are not taught at the Harvard School of Business, but they work for her.

"I am being taken seriously

when I work with people on things like the catalog and the layout. It's really super. I've found it very stimulating and I'm growing in confidence as I do it," she said.

Her husband, Robert, vice president-marketing for Lettuce Entertain You restaurants (Jonathan Livingston Seagull, R. G. Grunts, Fritz That's It, The Pump Room) offered his help, but she seems to be managing quite well on her own, thank you.

FORMER CHICAGO Bears quarterback Bobby Douglass is affiliated with one of her husband's restaurants. And since the southpaw former Kansas Star was released by the Bears, one question comes to mind: Would a left-handed football have helped him?

Mrs. Wattel answers without hesitation.

"Right," she said.

The concert begins at 8 p.m. in the college center lounge and is free to public.

REPEAT AFTER ME. Student teacher Jerry Franklin delivered marriage vows to Hersey High School students in a mock wedding.

Mass 'nuptials' at Hersey —teens in simulated vows

by KATHERINE BOYCE

"I, Tom, take you Cathy, to be my simulation wife, for better or for worse, for richer or for poorer, in sickness and in health and whatever the grade shall be."

Forty-two boys and girls exchanged those vows in a mock wedding Thursday at Hersey High School. The couples will act as husband and wife for the next six weeks during classes until their mock marriage is annulled.

The ceremony was part of a new course this year at Hersey called "Marriage and the Family," taught by sociology teacher Robert Hannon and home economics teacher Ann Slattery. The purpose of the course, say teachers, is to improve a student's understanding of the institution of marriage. They hope students also will learn something about themselves and their relationship with other students and parents.

The course falls under the category of consumer education since it will teach students the dollars and cents realities of marriage including living arrangements, food and budgeting, cost of furniture and the responsibilities and cost of child rearing.

At the beginning of the year students discussed personal values, human sexuality, dating, friendship and love. One week prior to their "marriage" students completed questionnaires expressing their feelings about marriage, in-laws, children and the selection of a mate.

Their first assignment was their engagement. Along with discussion on the purpose of engagement, the buying of a ring and arrangements for the ceremony, the couples sat down with their parents to devise a guest list.

To show that they took the institution of marriage seriously the students dressed for the nuptials in formal wear complete with suits, ties, gowns and of course boutonnieres and bouquets. They were married in a civil ceremony by student teacher Jerry Franklin who dressed in religious garb representing all denominations.

Following their short-lived marriage students will discuss the problems that assail a married couple. They will discuss the termination of a relationship, divorce and alternatives to marriage.

The course is experimental this year at Hersey. It will come before the High School Dist. 214 administrative council which will consider adding the course to the district's regular curriculum next year.

WEDDING BELLS rang this week for 42 students at Hersey High School. Tom Janus and Cathy Jacob were one of the couples who exchanged vows in the mock ceremony, a simulation for "Marriage and the Family," a new course in Dist. 214 being taught at Hersey this year.

Bebeau, Joy L. Cain, Mary E. Condon, Kenneth E. Kaszubowski, Glenn S. Kiddie, John P. Leonetti, Susan J. Roberts, David J. Rugg and Lawrence J. Smolinsky.

Judge bans X-rated films at drive-in

HURLEY ALSO SAID the iron framework and concrete footing for two new screens scheduled to be built at the theater are about 15 feet higher off the ground than the existing one, possibly making films easier to see.

Both new screens will be visible to homes less than a half-mile away, Hurley testified.

Delaney appeared disturbed when Tuite tried to explain the delay in construction of the two screens, which theater owners contend will face away from the roads and be used strictly for showing X-rated films.

Work on the screens was started earlier this month but was halted because proper building permits had not been obtained from the county. Tuite said each time the owners have submitted information to the county, building and zoning department officials have asked for more information, causing delays in issuing a permit.

"I was calm at first in not issuing any orders, but I don't like this," Delaney said. "We're no further along than we were four months ago when this lawsuit was filed."

TUIE SAID the new screens will cost $75,000, but the owners intend to complete the project.

"Now the building and zoning department wants plans and surveys," Tuite said, "and I think to put the delay on the part of the defense is improper."

Delaney wanted to know if shields would be installed around the screens, but Tuite said none were planned. The attorney said screens will be made of non-reflective material so films shown on them will not be visible beyond the theater.

Tuite said Delaney's decision was an act of prior restraint which the Supreme Court has held unconstitutional, and he cited several obscenity rulings to support his case.

The judge, however, said that at no time did the state's attorney's office question the theater's right to show X-rated movies. The question raised, Delaney said, was a matter of containing the showings of the movies within the confines of the theater.

$300 given to police for burglar alarm

The Buffalo Grove Jaycees and the Ranch Mart Assn. have donated $300 to the Buffalo Grove Police Dept. to purchase a portable, custom-made burglar alarm.

Sgt. Kenneth Blanchette said the portable system is valuable in apprehending burglars without constant surveillance by police.

The alarm is placed at a home or business police believe will be burglarized.

"Instead of tying up four or five men sitting in surveillance, the alarm will activate when the burglar actually breaks in," Blanchette said.

Wisconsin. "A 12-year-old girl from Winnetka called after her father told her about the catalog. She called back in a couple of minutes to say she thought it was a great idea and she wanted to thank me," Mrs. Wattel said.

She, too, is getting something more out of the business than the hoped-for profits.

"I started it to keep busy. After the children got older I needed something to do and I didn't want to go back to teaching," she said.

WITH ALMOST NO business background or experience, she plunged into it, learning all she could. She admits some of her methods are not taught at the Harvard School of Business, but they work for her.

"I am being taken seriously

when I work with people on things like the catalog and the layout. It's really super. I've found it very stimulating and I'm growing in confidence as I do it," she said.

Her husband, Robert, vice president-marketing for Lottuce Entertain You restaurants (Jonathan Livingston Seagull, R. G. Grunts, Fritz' That's It, The Pump Room) offered his help, but she seems to be managing quite well on her own, thank you.

FORMER CHICAGO Bears quarterback Bobby Douglass is affiliated with one of her husband's restaurants. And since the southpaw former Kansas Star was released by the Bears, one question comes to mind: Would a left-handed football have helped him?

Mrs. Wattel answers without hesitation.

"Right," she said.

It's that time again—Santa on way

Fire engine or Model T Santa Claus is coming to town and to the kids it doesn't matter how the jolly old man from way up north gets here.

Everyone's favorite chimney slider will make the rounds in the Northwest suburbs in upcoming weeks. He's already in residence at Cinderella's Castle in Woodfield Shopping Center, Schaumburg.

Santa will remain at Woodfield until Dec. 24, when he heads back to the North Pole to load up his sleigh.

A FIRE ENGINE will bring Mr. Claus to Golf Mill Shopping Center, Niles, today where he will take his seat in the cedar chalet house in the north mall. Santa will meet children weekdays from 1 to 8 p.m.; Saturdays, 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.; and Sundays, 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Santa will arrive at both the Mount Prospect Plaza and Randhurst Shopping Center, Mount Prospect, Nov. 28. A replica of a 1905 Model T will carry him to the Mount Prospect Plaza, Rand and Central roads, at 10:30 a.m. He will reside there for 25 days, distributing goodies to the boys and girls who visit him. He will accept callers 10 a.m. to noon, 1 to 4:30 p.m., and 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. weekdays; 10 a.m. to noon, 1 to 5 p.m. Saturdays and 11 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Sundays.

The Mount Prospect Plaza Merchants Assn. has arranged a special treat for the kids, "Lunch with Santa" in a private dining room at the Scandia House Restaurant. Parents may purchase tickets at $1.50 for children, $2 for adults for Wednesdays, Fridays and Saturdays starting Dec. 5 plus Monday and Tuesday, Dec. 22 and 23, by writing to 1658 Mount Prospect Plaza, Mount Prospect 60056.

AT RANDHURST, Santa will be on hand Nov. 28 to greet shoppers starting at 9 a.m. with Uncle Ned Locke and Cookie the Clown of Bozo Circus fame. Santaland at Randhurst will also feature the mechanical antics of Rodney, the red-haired angel.

Other stops along Santa's route will be Palatine, Dec. 6; downtown Des Plaines, Dec. 6; and Chamber of Commerce Park, Wheeling, Dec. 7.

For lefties only!

by JOE SWICKARD
Is Roz Wattel a left-hander's friend?

Right! Mrs. Wattel of Arlington Heights has started a catalog service for the estimated 20 million lefties in the country who can order anything from ice cream scoops to playing cards from her company.

And believe it or not this lady is right-handed and so are her husband and three children.

IT ALL STARTED this summer when Mrs. Wattel decided she did not want to return to elementary teaching, where she said she first became aware of the problems of left-handed persons. She said the children had difficulty in writing, manipulating scissors and other tasks designed for those of the right-hand persuasion.

Inc. catalog. Mrs. Wattel offers more than 80 left-handed products by mail order.

Saturday

So in August she began visiting the trade shows seeking out left-handed products.

"As I went to the booths and asked about left-hand products, I'd get really silly answers. They'd tell me they had left-handed basketballs and things like that. But I did start finding the items," Mrs. Wattel said.

She compiled enough items to fill her 10-page catalog that opens and is numbered from back to front to make it easier for the lefties.

THE ITEMS RANGE from the practical to purely novelty items. She offers wrist watches, playing cards, knives, oven mitts, baseball

The products are part of growing trend to leave the lefties alone. For years, teachers and parents tried to force them to learn to do things with their right hands, a program with limited success and often frustrating for the children.

Such skills and crafts as knitting, needlepoint or guitar playing are often taught primarily for the right-handed majority. Mrs. Wattel's catalog offers instruction books designed for the rest of the population.

Even school notebooks, with spiral binding on the reverse side, are available through her as are note cards.

THE LEFT HAND Plus, Post Office Box 502C, Wheeling, has been in operation only a week, but already she is being swamped with inquiries and requests for the catalog. Since items in newspaper columns and her appearance on a morning radio program, she has received more than 100 letters and calls from Indiana to

Golf course near Salt Creek dies quiet death

The Elk Grove Park District this week quietly ended its attempts to build a par-three, nine-hole golf course on park property along Salt Creek.

The end came when the park board Thursday read into its minutes a letter from Comr. Lewis L. Smith, chairman of the golf course committee, who said he was ending his feasibility study.

In his letter, Smith said the golf course proposal lacks "sufficient board support." He also blamed an unfavorable revenue bond market.

THE GOLF COURSE was to be located between Walnut Lane and Kennedy Boulevard along Salt Creek. The board had hoped to finance most, if not all, of the construction cost through revenue bonds.

Several weeks ago, however, Ron Noreen of Paul D. Speer & Associates, a bond marketing and consulting firm, said the revenue bond market for projects such as golf courses was "very sloppy." He said such bonds currently were very hard to sell and would carry high interest rates, possibly as high as 8 per cent.

"It became obvious as the discussion continued that sufficient board support was lacking at this time for continued investigation and expenditures," Smith said in his letter.

Expenses to date have included preliminary work on planning the golf course.

"I must reluctantly conclude that the golf course feasibility study be terminated until such time as the revenue bond market improves or a stronger showing of public need for such a facility is manifested," Smith said.

LAST SPRING, A GROUP of about 25 homeowners whose lots are adjacent to the proposed golf course site attended a park board meeting to protest the project. The residents said they were concerned about the safety of children in the area.

One architect's estimate said the golf course would cost $350,000, according to Smith, but Park Pres. Edward R. Hauser has disagreed with that estimate. Hauser has said he believes $600,000 would be a more realistic estimate.

Little support found for new union

by PAM BIGFORD

Teacher involvement in the formation of a new teachers' union in Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 appears to be marginal.

John Flaminio, teacher at Keller Junior High, told the Dist. 54 Board of Education Thursday that he represented a group of teachers who advocate disaffiliation of the Schaumburg Education Assn., from the Illinois Education Assn., a statewide teachers' union.

Flaminio would not say how many teachers were involved in the movement and would not name any other organizers of the group.

HE DID, HOWEVER, say that there were "many" teachers who were dissatisfied with the present teachers' union and who had expressed an interest in joining the new group.

A random survey of teachers Friday indicated that teachers in some schools had never heard of the formation of a new union and had never heard it being discussed. Teachers in other buildings said they heard about the announcement made at the board meeting, but little discussion had taken place among the teachers during the day.

"There hasn't been any discussion at all of a new union," said a teacher at Churchill School. "We haven't heard anything about it."

A teacher at Campanelli School said teachers there heard about the new group through the announcement Thursday, "but there doesn't seem to be a lot of interest other than people wondering what it is."

A FAIRVIEW SCHOOL teacher said teachers there read about the announcement in the newspaper, and discussion had run generally against disaffiliation from the state union organization.

She said teachers discussed the idea that "if we did split from the IEA we would not be supporting the political

Senate report says:

'Kissinger knew of CIA plot'

President Richard M. Nixon ordered the CIA, in the presence of Sec. of State Henry Kissinger, to organize a pro-American coup in Chile in 1970, according to the Senate intelligence committee's assassination plots report.

The report said Nixon kept the plans secret from William P. Rogers, who was then serving as his secretary of state, and other high officials.

According to the report, Nixon authorized Richard Helms, then CIA director, to spend up to $10 million on a coup attempt which ultimately failed to stop Marxist Salvador Allende from coming to power — but led to the murder of Gen. Rene Schneider, the Chilean commander in chief, by Chilean plotters.

The report said U.S. efforts to stop Allende from becoming president were far greater than Nixon, Sec. of State Henry A. Kissinger, or Helms have acknowledged.

In a recent interview with the Ladies Home Journal, Nixon said, "We had nothing to do with Chile or Allende."

Kissinger told a Senate committee on Sept. 17, 1973, that the CIA was involved only "in a very minor way" in the 1970 Chilean elections.

Helms, now ambassador to Iran, was asked at his ambassadorial confirmation hearings whether the CIA tried to overthrow the Chilean government and replied, "No, sir." The Justice Department is investigating whether Helms perjured himself.

At the White House, a spokesman said Ford saw no reason to fire Kissinger or Helms because of anything disclosed in the report of CIA assassination and coup plots.

Kissinger testified Friday at a

YMCA fund campaign under way

Twinbrook YMCA's Family Builder Campaign is under way with workers soliciting 700 businesses and professionals in the YMCA service area.

The campaign is seeking $380,000 to build a family center as phase one of a complete $2.5 million YMCA facility planned on Wise Road property in Schaumburg.

Larry Romito, chairman of the business solicitation, said he is "highly satisfied" with the enthusiastic response from persons asked to help in the campaign, saying 53 workers were needed and 63 volunteers came forth.

ROMITO SAID HE believes the business section of the campaign will "easily exceed" its $120,000 goal. Remaining funds will be solicited in a family drive campaign scheduled to begin in February.

Romito said campaigners will ask $240 from each of the businesses solicited, with payment to be scheduled during a three-year period.

"Giving at the 'Family Builder' level will entitle each businessman to have his personal signature on our Builder's Wall," Romito said.

He said the wall will be composed of ceramic tiles with the donor's actual signature permanently glazed on the tile. Memorial gifts of certain parts of the Family Center also are available, he added.

"Our Y must keep pace with the rapidly growing population and the increasing need for Y programs," Romito said. The Family Center will have meeting rooms, a multi-purpose room, kitchen, staff areas and program space.

THE CAMPAIGN will last for 20 days, ending with a Dec. 17 final report.

The first report will come next Wednesday at a noon luncheon for campaign workers at The Lancer Steak House Restaurant, 50 E. Algonquin Rd., Schaumburg.

arm of the IEA which we think is very important."

Flamini said those involved in his group were teachers who object to "interference" by state union officials in local contract negotiations and who felt they had been "pushed" into a strike by representatives of the IEA. Dist 54 teachers were on strike for three days in October before a contract settlement was reached.

Gordon Line, a teacher at Keller Junior High who said he was interested in the movement but was not an organizer, said "there is nothing wrong with the SEA. The problem is one step above it with the IEA."

"THE IEA HAS A strict code and everyone has to fit in," Line said. "That strike was set a long time ago. No matter what had been offered, we would have gone on strike because that was the main interest of the IEA."

Flamini said the organization is a "growing" one, and that he expects opposition from the Schaumburg group. He said, however, that the group at present has no time limit set in which to gain strength, and however long it takes to organize is "fine."

Flamini said a letter containing information on the group would be sent to all Dist. 54 teachers within a week, and a meeting for all interested persons would be held before Christmas. Line said a meeting of the organization leaders to which "some invitations would be issued" will be held Tuesday.

Burglars take cash, leukemia donation

A leukemia fund donation card containing $15 along with another $25 in cash were stolen when burglars broke into Cherio's Pizza, 122 Turner, early Thursday, said Elk Grove Village police.

The burglars broke in by prying open a back door. The $25 was taken from a cash register, said police.

In another incident, some $240 in cash and $870 in checks were stolen from Elk Grove Office Supply, 112 Turner, in a burglary, said police Friday.

A combination television AM-FM radio was also stolen.

Park district wrapup

Bond sale bids OKd for improvements

The Elk Grove Park Board Thursday passed a resolution to seek bids for a $200,000 general-obligation bond sale.

The board had previously agreed to the bond sale at its Oct. 23 meeting. The money is to be used for general park improvements.

The bids will be opened Dec. 4 at the Chicago offices of Paul D. Speer & Associates, who were hired as consultants for the sale. The park board has a meeting scheduled for the same day and is expected to award a contract for the bond sale at that time.

The bonds will be issued without a voter referendum under the park district's bonding powers. The district can increase taxes up to .5 per cent of its total assessed valuation without a referendum. Park officials have said the 28 cents per $100 assessed valuation tax rate will increase "minimally" with the bond sale.

The first improvements planned under the $200,000 bond issue have been approved by the park board.

A $1,365 contract for repair of the entry steps at the park administrative offices, 499 Biesterfeld Rd., was awarded to Metz Cement Contractors. Portions of the steps' cement have eroded and shifted.

Tennis courts to be fixed

Tennis court surfaces at three parks must have low spots patched to eliminate rainwater collection. Architect Roland Schapanski said puddles were found at Jaycee, Disney and Link School parks.

The park board approved a $20,980 payment to the tennis court builder, Siljestrom Fuel and Paving Co., but withheld $2,300 until the patchwork on the new courts is completed sometime next spring.

Jack A. Claes, director of parks and recreation, said the district saved about $2,400 by obtaining free dirt fill for the three tennis court sites.

Audit firm switch mulled

The park board is considering switching firms for its annual audit. The board will interview Donald Bart, who handles the Arlington Heights Park District and Wheeling Township Dist. 25 audits.

Currently, the district's audits are handled by Arthur Young and Co. Park Comr. Bart Dill said the switch could save an estimated $3,000.

Brochure ready in February

The district's commemorative "Decade of Progress" brochure remains in the planning stages, but tentatively is scheduled to be distributed in February, along with the spring program brochure.

A poster is being planned for one side of the "Decade of Progress" piece so that it will be kept by residents. The other side will be made up of pictures and articles of the district's first 10 years.

The estimated cost of the project is $3,480, excluding costs of postage or other distribution.

Teens 'marry' en masse at Hersey

by KATHERINE BOYCE

"I, Tom, take you Cathy, to be my simulation wife, for better or for worse, for richer or for poorer, in sickness and in health and whatever the grade shall be."

Forty-two boys and girls exchanged those vows in a mock wedding Thursday at Hersey High School. The couples will act as husband and wife for the next six weeks during classes until their mock marriage is annulled.

The ceremony was part of a new course this year at Hersey called "Marriage and the Family," taught by sociology teacher Robert Hannon and home economics teacher Ann Slattery. The purpose of the course, say teachers, is to improve a student's understanding of the institution of marriage. They hope students also will learn something about themselves and their relationship with other students and parents.

The course falls under the category of consumer education since it will teach students the dollars and cents realities of marriage including living arrangements, food and budgeting, cost of furniture and the responsibilities and cost of child rearing.

At the beginning of the year students discussed personal values, human sexuality, dating, friendship and love. One week prior to their "marriage" students completed questionnaires expressing their feelings about marriage, in-laws, children and the selection of a mate.

Their first assignment was their engagement. Along with discussion on the purpose of engagement, the buying of a ring and arrangements for the ceremony, the couples sat down with their parents to devise a guest list.

To show that they took the institution of marriage seriously the students dressed for the nuptials in formal wear complete with suits, ties, gowns and of course boutonnieres and bouquets. They were married in a civil ceremony by student teacher Jerry Franklin who dressed in religious garb representing all denominations.

Following their short-lived marriage students will discuss the problems that assail a married couple. They will discuss the termination of a relationship, divorce and alternatives to marriage.

The course is experimental this year at Hersey. It will come before the High School Dist. 214 administrative council which will consider adding the course to the district's regular curriculum next year.

It's that time again—Santa on way

Fire engine or Model T Santa Claus is coming to town and to the kids it doesn't matter how the jolly old man from way up north gets here.

Everyone's favorite chimney slider will make the rounds in the Northwest suburbs in upcoming weeks. He's already in residence at Cinderella's Castle in Woodfield Shopping Center, Schaumburg.

Santa will remain at Woodfield until Dec. 24, when he heads back to the North Pole to load up his sleigh.

A FIRE ENGINE will bring Mr. Claus to Golf Mill Shopping Center, Niles, today where he will take his seat in the cedar chalet house in the north mall. Santa will meet children weekdays from 1 to 8 p.m.; Saturdays, 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.; and Sundays, 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Santa will arrive at both the Mount Prospect Plaza and Randhurst Shopping Center, Mount Prospect, Nov. 28. A replica of a 1905 Model T will carry him to the Mount Prospect Plaza, Rand and Central roads, at 10:30 a.m. He will reside there for 25 days, distributing goodies to the boys and girls who visit him. He will accept callers 10 a.m. to noon, 1 to 4:30 p.m., and 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. weekdays; 10 a.m. to noon, 1 to 5 p.m. Saturdays and 11 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Sundays.

The Mount Prospect Plaza Merchants Assn. has arranged a special treat for the kids, "Lunch with Santa" in a private dining room at the Scandia House Restaurant. Parents may purchase tickets at $1.50 for children, $2 for adults for Wednesdays, Fridays and Saturdays starting Dec. 5 plus Monday and Tuesday, Dec. 22 and 23, by writing to 1058 Mount Prospect Plaza, Mount Prospect 60056.

AT RANDHURST, Santa will be on hand Nov. 28 to greet shoppers starting at 9 a.m. with Uncle Ned Locke and Cookie the Clown of Bozo Circus fame. Santaland at Randhurst will also feature the mechanical antics of Rodney, the red-haired angel.

Other stops along Santa's route will be Palatine, Dec. 6; downtown Des Plaines, Dec. 6; and Chamber of Commerce Park, Wheeling, Dec. 7.

For lefties only!

by JOE SWICKARD
Is Roz Wattel a left-hander's friend?

Right! Mrs. Wattel of Arlington Heights has started a catalog service for the estimated 20 million lefties in the country who can order anything from ice cream scoops to playing cards from her company.

And believe it or not this lady is right-handed and so are her husband and three children.

IT ALL STARTED this summer when Mrs. Wattel decided she did not want to return to elementary teaching, where she said she first became aware of the problems of left-handed persons. She said the children had difficulty in writing, manipulating scissors and other tasks designed for those of the right-hand persuasion.

So in August she began visiting the trade shows seeking out left-handed products.

"As I went to the booths and asked about left-hand products, I'd get really silly answers. They'd tell me they had left-handed basketballs and things like that. But I did start finding the items," Mrs. Wattel said.

She compiled enough items to fill her 10-page catalog that opens and is numbered from back to front to make it easier for the lefties.

THE ITEMS RANGE from the practical to purely novelty items. She offers wrist watches, playing cards, knives, oven mitts, baseball

The products are part of growing trend to leave the lefties alone. For years, teachers and parents tried to force them to learn to do things with their right hands, a program with limited success and often frustrating for the children.

Such skills and crafts as knitting, needlepoint or guitar playing are often taught primarily for the right-handed majority. Mrs. Wattel's catalog offers instruction books designed for the rest of the population.

Even school notebooks, with spiral binding on the reverse side, are available through her as are note cards.

THE LEFT HAND Plus, Post Office Box 502C, Wheeling, has been in operation only a week, but already she is being swamped with inquiries and requests for the catalog. Since items in newspaper columns and her appearance on a morning radio program, she has received more than 100 letters and calls from Indiana to

Little support found for new Dist. 54 union

by PAM BIGFORD

Teacher involvement in the formation of a new teachers' union in Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 appears to be marginal.

John Flamini, teacher at Keller Junior High, told the Dist. 54 Board of Education Thursday that he represented a group of teachers who advocate disaffiliation of the Schaumburg Education Assn., from the Illinois Education Assn., a statewide teachers' union.

Flamini would not say how many teachers were involved in the movement and would not name any other organizers of the group.

HE DID, HOWEVER, say that there were "many" teachers who were dissatisfied with the present teachers' union and who had expressed an interest in joining the new group.

A random survey of teachers Friday indicated that teachers in some schools had never heard of the formation of a new union and had never heard it being discussed. Teachers in other buildings said they heard about the announcement made at the board meeting, but little discussion had taken place among the teachers during the day.

"There hasn't been any discussion at all of a new union," said a teacher at Churchill School. "We haven't heard anything about it."

A teacher at Campanelli School said teachers there heard about the new group through the announcement Thursday, "but there doesn't seem to be a lot of interest other than people wondering what it is."

A FAIRVIEW SCHOOL teacher said teachers there read about the announcement in the newspaper, and discussion had run generally against disaffiliation from the state union organization.

She said teachers discussed the idea that "if we did split from the IEA we would not be supporting the political arm of the IEA which we think is very important."

Flamini said those involved in his group were teachers who object to "interference" by state union officials in local contract negotiations and who felt they had been "pushed" into a strike by representatives of the IEA. Dist. 54 teachers were on strike for three days in October before a contract settlement was reached.

Gordon Line, a teacher at Keller Junior High who said he was interested in the movement but was not an organizer, said "there is nothing wrong with the IEA. The problem is one step above it with the IEA."

"THE IEA HAS A strict code and everyone has to fit in," Line said. "That strike was set a long time ago. No matter what had been offered, we would have gone on strike because that was the main interest of the IEA."

Flamini said the organization is a "growing" one, and that he expects opposition from the Schaumburg group. He said, however, that the group at present has no time limit set in which to gain strength, and however long it takes to organize is "fine."

Flamini said a letter containing information on the group would be sent to all Dist. 54 teachers within a week, and a meeting for all interested persons would be held before Christmas. Line said a meeting of the organization leaders to which "some invitations would be issued" will be held Tuesday.

Fund drive over halfway point; collect $14,650

Pledges to the Schaumburg Township United Fund campaign have passed the halfway mark, with Schaumburg Township School Dist. 54 leading in pledges with $6,300.

The $6,300 figure includes money collected and money pledged, said Joan Maudlin of the fund campaign. The total exceeds the school district's goal and has helped the United Fund collect some $14,650 to date toward a $18,500 goal.

Another $5,350 has been collected from businesses and residential areas in the township.

"THE SCHOOL districts, especially Dist. 54, have done particularly well,"

Senate report says:

'Kissinger knew of CIA plot'

President Richard M. Nixon ordered the CIA, in the presence of Sec. of State Henry Kissinger, to organize a pro-American coup in Chile in 1973, according to the Senate intelligence committee's assassination plots report.

The report said Nixon kept the plans secret from William F. Rogers, who was then serving as his secretary of state, and other high officials.

According to the report, Nixon authorized Richard Helms, then CIA director, to spend up to $10 million on a coup attempt which ultimately failed to stop Marxist Salvador Allende from coming to power — but led to the murder of Gen. Rene Schneider, the Chilean commander in chief, by Chilean plotters.

The report said U.S. efforts to stop Allende from becoming president were far greater than Nixon, Sec. of State Henry A. Kissinger, or Helms have acknowledged.

In a recent interview with the Ladies Home Journal, Nixon said, "We had nothing to do with Chile or Allende."

Kissinger told a Senate committee on Sept. 17, 1973, that the CIA was involved only "in a very minor way" in the 1973 Chilean elections.

Helms, now ambassador to Iran, was asked at his ambassadorial confirmed whether the CIA tried to overthrow the Chilean government and replied, "No, sir." The Justice Department is investigating whether Helms perjured himself.

At the White House, a spokesman said Ford saw no reason to fire Kissinger or Helms because of anything disclosed in the report of CIA assassination and coup plots.

Kissinger testified Friday at a

YMCA fund campaign under way

Twinbrook YMCA's Family Builder Campaign is under way with workers soliciting 700 businesses and professionals in the YMCA service area.

The campaign is seeking $360,000 to build a family center as phase one of a complete $2.5 million YMCA facility planned on Wise Road property in Schaumburg.

Larry Romito, chairman of the business solicitation, said he is "highly satisfied" with the enthusiastic response from persons asked to help in the campaign, saying 53 workers were needed and 63 volunteers came forth.

ROMITO SAID HE believes the business section of the campaign will "easily exceed" its $120,000 goal. Remaining funds will be solicited in a family drive scheduled to begin in February.

Romito said campaigners will ask $240 from each of the businesses solicited, with payment to be scheduled during a three-year period.

"Giving at the 'Family Builder' level will entitle each businessman to have his personal signature on our Builder's Wall," Romito said.

He said the wall will be composed of ceramic tiles with the donor's actual signature permanently glazed on the tile. Memorial gifts of certain parts of the Family Center also are available, he added.

"Our Y must keep pace with the rapidly growing population and the increasing need for Y programs," Romito said. The Family Center will have meeting rooms; a multi-purpose room, kitchen, staff areas and program space.

THE CAMPAIGN will last for 28 days, ending with a Dec. 12 final report.

The first report will come next Wednesday at a noon luncheon for campaign workers at The Lancer Steak House Restaurant, 50 E. Algonquin Rd., Schaumburg.

Mrs. Maudlin said. She said High School Dist. 211 has also collected some $1,666 but a portion of that will go to the Palatine Crusade of Mercy.

Persons interested in contributing to the local campaign may send pledges to the Schaumburg Township United Fund, P.O. Box 564, Hoffman Estates 60172.

The local campaign is held in conjunction with the Chicago Metropolitan Crusade of Mercy and runs officially through the end of the month.

THIS YEAR the Schaumburg campaign also collected $3,000 from the Woodfield Merchants Assn., the first time that group has participated as an organization in the campaign.

Contributions from the remainder of the business sector, however, have not been as successful, with only $200 in pledges so far from local merchants, Mrs. Maudlin said.

The United Fund aids a number of local agencies including the Camp Fire Girls, Girl Scouts and Boy Scouts, the Clearbrook Center for retarded children, the Community Concern for Alcoholism and Drug Abuse, Elk Grove-Schaumburg Township Mental Health Center, Hoffman Estates Boys' Club, the Northwest Suburban Homemakers' Service, the Salvation Army and the Twinbrook YMCA.

Township meet Nov. 25

The regular monthly meeting of the Schaumburg Township Supervisor and Board of Auditors will be held Nov. 25 at 8 p.m. in the township offices, 105 S. Roselle Rd., Schaumburg.

Township board meetings are normally held the fourth Wednesday of each month.

The meeting is open to the public.

Harper band to perform in fall concert

The Harper College wind ensemble and jazz band will present its annual fall concert in the Bicentennial spirit Tuesday, with several American selections on the program.

Directed by Robert Tillotson, the wind ensemble will feature William Schuman's overture for the band entitled "Chester." This selection is based on the hymn tune said to have been sung around the campfires of the Continental Army and played by fifers on the march during the American Revolution.

The wind ensemble's program also will include "Somerset" by Hale Smith; "Barnum and Bailey's Favorite" by Karl King; and "Procession of the Nobles" by Rimsky-Korsakov/Leidzen.

The jazz band, directed by James Bestman, will include local soloists in several performances.

Selections from the program include: "Lil' Darlin'" by Neal Heffti, featuring Dave Sterner, Prestige Heights, on vibes; "Red Clay" by Freddie Hubbard, featuring Steve Lockwood, Mount Prospect, on soprano sax; Jim Polanek, Mount Prospect, on guitar; Dan Owens, Hoffman Estates, on drums; Scott Hendricks, Rolling Meadows, on piano and Reggie Gilmore, Schaumburg, Latin percussion.

Soloists for "If You're Leaving" by Loren Binford, include: John Kitten, Mount Prospect, on tenor sax, and Bill Calkins, Des Plaines, on trumpet.

The concert begins at 8 p.m. in the college center lounge and is free to public.

Police nab alleged purse-snatcher

A Des Plaines man was arrested on a robbery charge after Schaumburg police said he snatched a woman's purse in a Woodfield Shopping Center parking lot.

Charged was Richard E. Dahlgren, 21, of 9015 Capitol.

Police said Dahlgren snatched a purse belonging to Irene M. Hackett, 52, of Chicago about 5 p.m. while she was walking through the shopping center's parking lot near the Lord and Taylor store.

Police said he then ran to a waiting auto but the woman alerted security

Guest at B'nai B'rith

Arthur Feldman, director of Spertus Museum, Chicago, will be the guest speaker at the Nov. 26 meeting of Greenberg B'nai B'rith Lodge at 8 p.m. at First Federal Savings and Loan of Schaumburg, 800 E. Higgins Rd., Schaumburg.

Feldman will present slides showing many of the artifacts in the museum's collection.

For additional information, contact Elliott Gordon, lodge president, 529-3353.

Township closed 3 days

Schaumburg Township offices, 105 S. Roselle Rd., Schaumburg, will be closed Nov. 27, 28 and 29 in observance of the Thanksgiving holiday.

Scouting news

Twelve members of Schaumburg Boy Scout Troop 104 received awards at a recent fall court of honor.

Advancement chairman Ken Lesley presented assistant patrol leader patches to Bill Alberth and Greg Queen. Scott Monson advanced to the rank of Star Scout, and Dave Morrison received merit badges in environmental science and lifesaving and advanced to the rank of First Class Scout.

A swimming merit badge was presented to Mark Morrison, who advanced to Tenderfoot Scout.

Mike Speicher earned merit badges in environmental science, lifesaving and photography, and Dirk Windolf received an assistant patrol leaders patch, merit badges in swimming and reading and advanced to Tenderfoot Scout.

Merit badges in environmental science, life saving, communications and photography went to Steve Morrison, who also advanced to Star Scout. Chuck Milet received a reading merit badge and advanced to Tenderfoot Scout and Mike Focht earned merit badges in electricity, environmental science, canoeing and lifesaving and advanced to Star Scout.

guards Robert Stachnik and Anthony Gallo. Using a description provided by the woman, the guards stopped the fleeing auto near the J. C. Penney auto center.

They were then turned over to Schaumburg police, and the woman picked Dahlgren out of a photo lineup, police said.

Dahlgren's companion, the driver of the auto, was released without charge. Dahlgren was being held on $3,000 bond pending a Dec. 3 appearance in the Schaumburg branch of Cook County Circuit Court.

Wisconsin. "A 12-year-old girl from Winnetka called after her father told her about the catalog. She called back in a couple of minutes to say she thought it was a great idea and she wanted to thank me," Mrs. Wattel said.

She, too, is getting something more out of the business than the hoped-for profits.

"I started it to keep busy. After the children got older I needed something to do and I didn't want to go back to teaching," she said.

WITH ALMOST NO business background or experience, she plunged into it, learning all she could. She admits some of her methods are not taught at the Harvard School of Business, but they work for her.

"I am being taken seriously

when I work with people on things like the catalog and the layout. It's really super. I've found it very stimulating and I'm growing in confidence as I do it," she said.

Her husband, Robert, vice president-marketing for Lettuce Entertain You restaurants (Jonathan Livingston Seagull, R. G. Grunts, Fritz' That's It, The Pump Room) offered his help, but she seems to be managing quite well on her own, thank you.

FORMER CHICAGO Bears quarterback Bobby Douglass is affiliated with one of her husband's restaurants. And since the southpaw former Kansas Star was released by the Bears, one question comes to mind: Would a left-handed football have helped him?

Mrs. Wattel answers without hesitation.

"Right," she said.

WEDDING BELLS rang this week for 42 students at Hersey High School. Tom Janus and Cathy Jacob were one of the couples who exchanged vows in the mock ceremony, a simulation for "Marriage and the Family," a new course in Dist. 214 being taught at Hersey this year.

Teens 'marry' en masse at Hersey

by KATHERINE BOYCE

"I, Tom, take you Cathy, to be my simulation wife, for better or for worse, for richer or for poorer, in sickness and in health and whatever the grade shall be."

Forty-two boys and girls exchanged those vows in a mock wedding Thursday at Hersey High School. The couples will act as husband and wife for the next six weeks during classes until their mock marriage is annulled.

The ceremony was part of a new course this year at Hersey called "Marriage and the Family," taught by sociology teacher Robert Hannon and home economics teacher Ann Slattery. The purpose of the course, say teachers, is to improve a student's understanding of the institution of marriage. They hope students also will learn something about themselves and their relationship with other students and parents.

The course falls under the category of consumer education since it will teach students the dollars and cents realities of marriage including living arrangements, food and budgeting, cost-of furniture and the responsibilities and cost of child rearing.

At the beginning of the year students discussed personal values, human sexuality, dating, friendship and love. One week prior to their "marriage" students completed questionnaires expressing their feelings about marriage, in-laws, children and the selection of a mate.

Their first assignment was their engagement. Along with discussion on the purpose of engagement, the buying of a ring and arrangements for the ceremony, the couples sat down with their parents to devise a guest list.

To show that they took the institution of marriage seriously the students dressed for the nuptials in formal wear complete with suits, ties, gowns and of course boutonnieres and bouquets. They were married in a civil ceremony by student teacher Jerry Franklin who dressed in religious garb representing all denominations.

Following their short-lived marriage students will discuss the problems that assail a married couple. They will discuss the termination of a relationship, divorce and alternatives to marriage.

The course is experimental this year at Hersey. It will come before the High School Dist. 214 administrative council which will consider adding the course to the district's regular curriculum next year.

Obituaries

Panel to support water pipeline to Lake Michigan

Encouraging action on a plan to bring Lake Michigan water to Rolling Meadows by 1980 will be one of the first priorities of the city council's long-range planning committee.

The committee, recently reactivated under Ald. John T. Rock, 3rd, met this week for the first time in nearly a year. The committee formerly was headed by Ald. Thomas J. Waldron, 2nd. Waldron also serves on the new panel, along with Ald. Kenneth W. Retzke, 5th.

At Waldron's suggestion, the group agreed to do whatever possible to speed up action on a cooperative proposal between Rolling Meadows and four other communities to build a Lake Michigan water pipeline to the area.

PLANS FOR THE proposed pipeline are being discussed while area officials await word from the Illinois Division of Water Resource Management on their requests for lake water allocations. Besides Rolling Meadows, members of the alliance formed to work on the project include Arlington Heights, Schaumburg, Hoffman Estates and Elk Grove Village.

"Apparently, this thing has gotten bogged down in some kind of bureaucratic hang-up," Waldron said. "We should look into it and see what's being done. I don't think most of our citizens realize the importance of this whole issue."

Waldron suggested forming a blue-ribbon panel of residents to research the pipeline proposal, and recommended that the long-range planning committee start developing proposals for financing the city's share of the estimated $7 million project.

Retzke agreed, saying, "regardless of what we do on this with the other communities, it's going to require a certain amount of money from Rolling Meadows. We can do one of two things: We can either hit people between the eyes and say we're going to float a bond issue, or we can start looking for ways of raising money by increasing some of our fees now."

CHARLES GREEN, acting city manager, was directed to check the progress of the cooperative water plan and report back to the committee.

The planning group, which will meet on a quarterly basis, also intends to monitor progress on several other fronts. Aldermen expressed interest in reviewing the study of projected fire protection needs to be completed by outside consultants next week. The study researches extending free garbage collection service to apartment residents and developing specific uses for a city-owned site at the corner of Northwest Highway and Rohlfing Road.

In addition, the committee may work with the council's finance committee to develop expense and revenue projections for the next four years. The projections would be attached to the 1976-77 municipal budget to provide more information for making long-range financial decisions.

Man hospitalized after 3-car accident

A Long Grove man was seriously injured late Friday in a three-car accident on the entrance ramp of Ill. Rte. 53 at Euclid Avenue near Rolling Meadows.

Patrick Weirich, 40, of RR-2, Long Grove, was taken to Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights. A spokesman at the hospital said Weirich's condition was unknown, but his injuries appeared serious.

State police said there were no other injuries.

Details of the mishap which occurred about 9 p.m. were sketchy but apparently all three autos were driving up the entrance ramp onto Rte. 53 from Euclid at the time of the accident, said police. One of the vehicles severed about 10-feet of guard rail.

Police said the collision tied up Rte. 53 traffic for about an hour.

Senate report says:

'Kissinger knew of CIA plot'

President Richard M. Nixon ordered the CIA, in the presence of Sec. of State Henry Kissinger, to organize a pro-American coup in Chile in 1970, according to the Senate intelligence committee's assassination plots report.

The report said Nixon kept the plans secret from William P. Rogers, who was then serving as his secretary of state, and other high officials.

According to the report, Nixon authorized Richard Helms, then CIA director, to spend up to $10 million on a coup attempt which ultimately failed to stop Marxist Salvador Allende from coming to power—but led to the murder of Gen. Rene Schneider, the Chilean commander in chief, by Chilean plotters.

The report said U.S. efforts to stop Allende from becoming president were far greater than Nixon, Sec. of State Henry A. Kissinger, or Helms have acknowledged.

In a recent interview with the Ladies Home Journal, Nixon said, "We had nothing to do with Chile or Allende."

Kissinger told a Senate committee on Sept. 17, 1973, that the CIA was involved only "in a very minor way" in the 1970 Chilean elections.

Helms, now ambassador to Iran, was asked at his ambassadorial confirmation hearings whether the CIA tried to overthrow the Chilean government and replied, "No, sir." The Justice Department is investigating whether Helms perjured himself.

At the White House, a spokesman said Ford saw no reason to fire Kissinger or Helms because of anything disclosed in the report of CIA assassination and coup plots.

Kissinger testified Friday at a

Judge prohibits X-rated movies at '53' outdoor

by LUISA GINETTI

An injunction was issued by a Cook County Circuit Court judge Friday barring the 53 Outdoor Theater in Palatine Township from showing sexually explicit films.

Judge Francis T. Delaney issued the order following a hearing Friday. The ruling takes effect immediately.

In his decision, Delaney said the theater is causing a public nuisance for the health and well-being of minors and other citizens of the area because the screen is visible to passers-by. He said the case was not an instance of censorship and did not deal with obscenity laws.

PATRICK TUITE, attorney for Kohlberg Theater, owners of the drive-in, said he would appeal the order and seek a stay of the injunction. Tuite said if the appeal is lost he will file suit in U.S. District Court seeking to reverse the order and win damages for his client, charging First Amendment rights have been violated.

Tuite said he did not know when the appeal will be filed.

John Diener, assistant state's attorney who has been prosecuting the case, said he was pleased with the order.

The state's attorney's office filed suit in July against the theater charging it is creating traffic hazards near Rand and Hicks roads by showing X-rated films on its main screen. The screen is visible to motorists and nearby residents.

One witness, Thomas Hurley, an investigator with the state's attorney's office, Friday testified that on two separate occasions during the past four months he has witnessed X-rated movies shown at the theater from both Rand and Hicks roads, more than 150 yards from the theater.

HURLEY ALSO SAID the iron framework and concrete footing for two new screens scheduled to be built at the theater are about 15 feet higher off the ground than the existing one, possibly making films easier to see.

Both new screens will be visible to homes less than a half-mile away, Hurley testified.

Delaney appeared disturbed when Tuite tried to explain the delay in construction of the two screens, which theater owners contend will face away from the roads and be used strictly for showing X-rated films.

Work on the screens was started earlier this month but was halted because proper building permits had not been obtained from the county. Tuite said each time the owners have submitted information to the county, building and zoning department officials have asked for more information, causing delays in issuing a permit.

"I was calm at first in not issuing any orders, but I don't like this," Delaney said. "We're no further along than we were four months ago when this lawsuit was filed."

TUITE SAID the new screens will cost $75,000, but the owners intend to complete the project.

"Now the building and zoning department wants plans and surveys," Tuite said, "and I think to put the delay on the part of the defense is improper."

Delaney wanted to know if shields would be installed around the screens, but Tuite said none were planned. The attorney said screens will be made of non-reflective material so films shown on them will not be visible beyond the theater.

Tuite said Delaney's decision was an act of prior restraint which the Supreme Court has held unconstitutional, and he cited several obscenity rulings to support his case.

The judge, however, said that at no time did the state's attorney's office question the theater's right to show X-rated movies. The question raised, Delaney said, was a matter of containing the showings of the movies within the confines of the theater.

Wisconsin. "A 12-year-old girl from Winnetka called after her father told her about the catalog. She called back in a couple of minutes to say she thought it was a great idea and she wanted to thank me," Mrs. Wattel said.

She, too, is getting something more out of the business than the hoped-for profits.

"I started it to keep busy. After the children got older I needed something to do and I didn't want to go back to teaching," she said.

WITH ALMOST NO business background or experience, she plunged into it, learning all she could. She admits some of her methods are not taught at the Harvard School of Business, but they work for her.

"I am being taken seriously

when I work with people on things like the catalog and the layout. It's really super. I've found it very stimulating and I'm growing in confidence as I do it," she said.

Her husband, Robert, vice president-marketing for Lettuce Entertain You restaurants (Jonathan Livingston Seagull, R. G. Grunts, Fritz' That's It, The Pump Room) offered his help, but she seems to be managing quite well on her own, thank you.

FORMER CHICAGO Bears quarterback Bobby Douglass is affiliated with one of her husband's restaurants. And since the southpaw former Kansas Star was released by the Bears, one question comes to mind: Would a left-handed football have helped him?

Mrs. Wattel answers without hesitation. "Right," she said.

REPEAT AFTER ME. Student teacher Jerry Franklin delivered marriage vows to Hersey High

Hersey teens try 'simulated' mates in mass 'nuptials'

by KATHERINE BOYCE

"I, Tom, take you Cathy, to be my simulation wife, for better or for worse, for richer or for poorer, in sickness and in health and whatever the grade shall be."

Forty-two boys and girls exchanged those vows in a mock wedding Thursday at Hersey High School. The couples will act as husband and wife for the next six weeks during classes until their mock marriage is annulled.

The ceremony was part of a new course this year at Hersey called "Marriage and the Family," taught by sociology teacher Robert Hannon and home economics teacher Ann Slattery. The purpose of the course, say teachers, is to improve a student's understanding of the institution of marriage. They hope students also will learn something about themselves and their relationship with other students and parents.

The course falls under the category of consumer education since it will teach students the dollars and cents realities of marriage including living arrangements, food and budgeting, cost of furniture and the responsibilities and cost of child rearing.

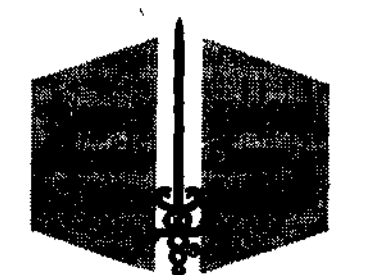

At the beginning of the year students discussed personal values, human sexuality, dating, friendship and love. One week prior to their "marriage" students completed questionnaires expressing their feelings about marriage, in-laws, children and the selection of a mate.

Their first assignment was their engagement. Along with discussion on the purpose of engagement, the buying of a ring and arrangements for the ceremony, the couples sat down with their parents to devise a guest list.

To show that they took the institution of marriage seriously the students dressed for the nuptials in formal wear complete with suits, ties, gowns and of course boutonnieres and bouquets. They were married in a civil ceremony by student teacher Jerry Franklin who dressed in religious garb representing all denominations.

Following their short-lived marriage students will discuss the problems that assail a married couple. They will discuss the termination of a relationship, divorce and alternatives to marriage.

The course is experimental this year at Hersey. It will come before the High School Dist. 214 administrative council which will consider adding the course to the district's regular curriculum next year.

It's that time again—Santa on way

Fire engine or Model T Santa Claus is coming to town and to the kids it doesn't matter how the jolly old man from way up north gets here.

Everyone's favorite chimney slider will make the rounds in the Northwest suburbs in upcoming weeks. He's already in residence at Cinderella's Castle in Woodfield Shopping Center, Schaumburg.

Santa will remain at Woodfield until Dec. 24, when he heads back to the North Pole to load up his sleigh.

A FIRE ENGINE will bring Mr. Claus to Golf Mill Shopping Center, Niles, today where he will take his seat in the cedar chalet house in the north mall. Santa will meet children weekdays from 1 to 8 p.m.; Saturdays, 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.; and Sundays, 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Santa will arrive at both the Mount Prospect Plaza and Randhurst Shopping Center, Mount Prospect, Nov. 28. A replica of a 1905 Model T will carry him to the Mount Prospect Plaza, Rand and Central roads, at 10:30 a.m. He will reside there for 25 days, distributing goodies to the boys and girls who visit him. He will accept callers 10 a.m. to noon, 1 to 4:30 p.m., and 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. weekdays; 10 a.m. to noon, 1 to 5 p.m. Saturdays and 11 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Sundays.

The Mount Prospect Plaza Merchants Assn. has arranged a special treat for the kids, "Lunch with Santa" in a private dining room at the Scandia House Restaurant. Parents may purchase tickets at $1.50 for children, $2 for adults for Wednesdays, Fridays and Saturdays starting Dec. 5 plus Monday and Tuesday, Dec. 22 and 23, by writing to 1658 Mount Prospect Plaza, Mount Prospect 60056.

AT RANDHURST, Santa will be on hand Nov. 28 to greet shoppers starting at 9 a.m. with Uncle Ned Locke and Cookie the Clown of Bozo Circus fame. Santaland at Randhurst will also feature the mechanical antics of Rodney, the red-haired angel.

Other stops along Santa's route will be Palatine, Dec. 6; downtown Des Plaines, Dec. 6; and Chamber of Commerce Park, Wheeling, Dec. 7.

For lefties only!

by JOE SWICKARD

Mrs. Wattel of Arlington Heights has started a catalog service for the estimated 20 million lefties in the country who can order anything from ice cream scoops to playing cards from her company.

And believe it or not this lady is right-handed and so are her husband and three children.

IT ALL STARTED this summer when Mrs. Wattel decided she did not want to return to elementary teaching, where she said she first became aware of the problems of left-handed persons. She said the children had difficulty in writing, manipulating scissors and other tasks designed for those of the right-hand persuasion.

So in August she began visiting the trade shows seeking out left-handed products.

"As I went to the booths and asked about left-hand products, I'd get really silly answers. They'd tell me they had left-handed basketballs and things like that. But I did start finding the items," Mrs. Wattel said.

She compiled enough items to fill her 10-page catalog that opens and is numbered from back to front to make it easier for the lefties.

THE ITEMS RANGE from the practical to purely novelty items. She offers wrist watches, playing cards, knives, oven mitts, baseball gloves, ice cream scoops, mustache cups, creamers, pen points — all designed for the left-handed. The products are part of growing trend to leave the lefties alone. For years, teachers and parents tried to force them to learn to do things with their right hands, a program with limited success and often frustrating for the children.

Such skills and crafts as knitting, needlepoint or guitar playing are often taught primarily for the right-handed majority. Mrs. Wattel's catalog offers instruction books designed for the rest of the population.

Even school notebooks, with spiral binding on the reverse side, are available through her as are note cards.

THE LEFT HAND Plus, Post Office Box 502C, Wheeling, has been in operation only a week, but already she is being swamped with inquiries and requests for the catalog. Since items in newspaper columns and her appearance on a morning radio program, she has received more than 100 letters and calls from Indiana to

Open house at new library to offer tours, speakers

Guest speakers and official tours will highlight Sunday's open house of Palatine's $1.3 million library at 500 N. Benton St. The open house will be from 3 to 5 p.m.

Speakers will include Gerald McElroy, president of the Palatine Public Library Board, and Village Pres. Wendell E. Jones.

McElroy will dedicate a meeting room in the basement of the library in honor of the late Walter Rennack, a past president of the library board who was responsible for construction of the village's first library.

Library officials will be available to provide guided tours of the new building and answer questions. No book checkout will be allowed during the open house.

THE PALATINE knights of Columbus will present the library with an American flag and the Palatine Masonic Lodge will present a gift of the official Illinois flag.

In addition, a synopsis of a story about the library written by Mary F. Davis, 346 S. Hale St., will be distributed free at the open house.

The new building, which has been open for about one month, was constructed with funds generated from a 1973 referendum. The building is designed to accommodate the district's expected population for the next 20 years.

The building has two floors with a copper gas fireplace and several lounge areas on the main floor and the children's library and meeting rooms on the lower level. The building has a capacity for 120,000 volumes, which is double the size of the old library, 149 N. Brockway.

TWO SCULPTURES will be featured in the building including one to be unveiled Sunday which has been donated by the Friends of the Library. This sculpture will be displayed in the main lobby.

A second sculpture is in the children's library in the lower level. It is made of wood and is a monument to books and people.

The library features a special book collection for Spanish-speaking residents, audio visual materials, an 8mm film collection, a new cassette tape collection and a business section. Art prints also are on display.

The local scene

Recycling center open

The Conant High School Chapter of Distributive Education Cooperative Assn. will be staffing the Palatine Recycling Center today.

The center, Smith Street near Northwest Highway, will be open from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Residents are asked to bundle newspapers, remove labels from cans and remove metal rings from bottles.

Resident wins 4-H honors

Maria Richter, 19, Palatine, was one of four Illinois college students who won sectional 4-H honors and will receive an expense-paid trip to the 54th National 4-H Congress in Chicago Nov. 30 - Dec. 4.

Miss Richter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis J. Richter, won honors in the public speaking program. Her trip will be sponsored by Union Oil Co. of California.

It's that time again—Santa on way

Fire engine or Model T Santa Claus is coming to town and to the kids it doesn't matter how the jolly old man from way up north gets here.

Everyone's favorite chimney slider will make the rounds in the Northwest suburbs in upcoming weeks. He's already in residence at Cinderella's Castle in Woodfield Shopping Center, Schaumburg.

Santa will remain at Woodfield until Dec. 24, when he heads back to the North Pole to load up his sleigh.

A FIRE ENGINE will bring Mr. Claus to Golf Mill Shopping Center, Niles, today where he will take his seat in the cedar chalet house in the north mall. Santa will meet children weekdays from 1 to 8 p.m.; Saturdays, 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.; and Sundays, 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Santa will arrive at both the Mount Prospect Plaza and Randhurst Shopping Center, Mount Prospect, Nov. 28. A replica of a 1905 Model T will carry him to the Mount Prospect Plaza, Rand and Central roads, at 10:30 a.m. He will reside there for 25 days, distributing goodies to the boys and girls who visit him. He will accept callers 10 a.m. to noon, 1 to 4:30 p.m., and 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. weekdays; 10 a.m. to noon, 1 to 5 p.m. Saturdays and 11 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Sundays.

The Mount Prospect Plaza Merchants Assn. has arranged a special treat for the kids, "Lunch with Santa" in a private dining room at the Scandia House Restaurant. Parents may purchase tickets at $1.50 for children, $2 for adults for Wednesdays, Fridays and Saturdays starting Dec. 5 plus Monday and Tuesday, Dec. 22 and 23, by writing to 1068 Mount Prospect Plaza, Mount Prospect 60056.

AT RANDHURST, Santa will be on hand Nov. 28 to greet shoppers starting at 9 a.m. with Uncle Ned Locke and Cookie the Clown of Bozo Circus fame. Santaland at Randhurst will also feature the mechanical antics of Rodney, the red-haired angel.

Other stops along Santa's route will be Palatine, Dec. 6; downtown Des Plaines, Dec. 6; and Chamber of Commerce Park, Wheeling, Dec. 7.

For lefties only!

by JOE SWICKARD
Is Roz Wattel a left-hander's friend?

Right! Mrs. Wattel of Arlington Heights has started a catalog service for the estimated 20 million lefties in the country who can order anything from ice cream scoops to playing cards from her company.

And believe it or not this lady is right-handed and so are her husband and three children.

IT ALL STARTED this summer when Mrs. Wattel decided she did not want to return to elementary teaching, where she said she first became aware of the problems of left-handed persons. She said the children had difficulty in writing, manipulating scissors and other tasks designed for those of the right-hand persuasion.

Saturday

So in August she began visiting the trade shows seeking out left-handed products.

"As I went to the booths and asked about left-hand products, I'd get really silly answers. They'd tell me they had left-handed basketballs and things like that. But I did start finding the items," Mrs. Wattel said.

She compiled enough items to fill her 10-page catalog that opens and is numbered from back to front to make it easier for the lefties.

THE ITEMS RANGE from the practical to purely novelty items. She offers wrist watches, playing cards, knives, oven mitts, baseball

The products are part of growing trend to leave the lefties alone. For years, teachers and parents tried to force them to learn to do things with their right hands, a program with limited success and often frustrating for the children.

Such skills and crafts as knitting, needlepoint or guitar playing are often taught primarily for the right-handed majority. Mrs. Wattel's catalog offers instruction books designed for the rest of the population.

Even school notebooks, with spiral binding on the reverse side, are available through her as are note cards.

THE LEFT HAND Plus, Post Office Box 502C, Wheeling, has been in operation only a week, but already she is being swamped with inquiries and requests for the catalog. Since items in newspaper columns and her appearance on a morning radio program, she has received more than 100 letters and calls from Indiana to

Land use plan called outdated, under revision

Mount Prospect's comprehensive land-use plan is undergoing major revision which could significantly change future village zoning.

Originally presented to the public in February, the plan is considered out of date, said James P. Grier, chairman of the comprehensive plan subcommittee.

When completed, the plan will give Mount Prospect a blueprint for future development and land-use priorities. Grier said he could not specifically outline what changes are likely to be made in the plan, but said as much as 80 per cent of its content may be rewritten.

GRIER SAID HIS committee is still looking for suggestions from residents and other groups about future land use in the village. He said the comments made to date have ranged from practical suggestions to "pie in the sky."

Public hearings on the plan originally were scheduled for May, but were delayed for a variety of reasons. Grier said the new village board took office at that time and was concerned with more pressing problems. He also said a pending boundary agreement with Arlington Heights delayed consideration of the plan.

Grier said he is hoping to get the revisions completed in written form after the holidays. "I'm shooting for an end-of-January written revision," he said.

The revisions will require a new printing of the report, although Grier said he does not know if the maps attached to the report will also have to be revised.

The original report stressed the need for residential development and recommended limits on industrial and commercial development. It also called for changes in zoning to help phase out "string-type" commercial developments along major highways.

Several specific areas were recommended for industrial development, including the Northern Illinois Gas Co. property in the northeast part of the village. Also recommended was the area south of Algonquin Road west of Elmhurst Road.

Village may fund sidewalks job

Mount Prospect's village attorney said it may be cheaper for the village to assume the cost of installing sidewalks along major streets in the New Town area than to pass a special assessment for the project.

In a letter to the Board of Local Improvements (BOLI), John J. Zimmermann said the village will probably have to assume between 40 and 90 per cent of the project based on public benefit.

At these percentages, Zimmermann said, the village might do better to skip the special assessment because contractors add on 25 to 40 per cent "because they must post special assessment bonds."

"IT IS MY FEELING that it might very well be less expensive to the village for construction of the project to let private contractors without special assessments," Zimmermann said.

The attorney said, however, the decision would have to be made by BOLI when the public benefit of the project is determined.

The matter has been pending before the village board's public works committee since September, when the committee began discussing the amount of money the village should contribute to the project.

The project was proposed by BOLI member Joel Reznick, who said he had been thinking of a mass assessment of all residents in the area. He said the sidewalks are badly needed because children have to walk in the road to get to schools and parks.

Reznick originally proposed installation of sidewalks along Kensington Road and Euclid Avenue all the way to the Randhurst Shopping Center, in addition to Wolf Road. Resi-

Senate report says:

'Kissinger knew of CIA plot'

President Richard M. Nixon ordered the CIA, in the presence of Sec. of State Henry Kissinger, to organize a pro-American coup in Chile in 1970, according to the Senate intelligence committee's assassination plots report.

The report said Nixon kept the plans secret from William P. Rogers, who was then serving as his secretary of state, and other high officials.

According to the report, Nixon authorized Richard Helms, then CIA director, to spend up to $10 million on a coup attempt which ultimately failed to stop Marxist Salvador Allende from coming to power — but led to the murder of Gen. Rene Schneider, the Chilean commander in chief, by Chilean plotters.

The report said U.S. efforts to stop Allende from becoming president were far greater than Nixon, Sec. of State Henry A. Kissinger, or Helms have acknowledged.

In a recent interview with the Ladies Home Journal, Nixon said, "We had nothing to do with Chile or Allende."

Kissinger told a Senate committee on Sept. 17, 1973, that the CIA was involved only "in a very minor way" in the 1970 Chilean elections.

Helms, now ambassador to Iran, was asked at his ambassadorial confirmation hearings whether the CIA tried to overthrow the Chilean government and replied, "No, sir." The Justice Department is investigating whether Helms perjured himself.

At the White House, a spokesman said Ford saw no reason to fire Kissinger or Helms because of anything disclosed in the report of CIA assassination and coup plots.

Kissinger testified Friday at a

Mass 'nuptials' at Hersey —teens in simulated vows

by KATHERINE BOYCE

"I, Tom, take you Cathy, to be my simulation wife, for better or for worse, for richer or for poorer, in sickness and in health and whatever the grade shall be."

Forty-two boys and girls exchanged those vows in a mock wedding Thursday at Hersey High School. The couples will act as husband and wife for the next six weeks during classes until their mock marriage is annulled.

The ceremony was part of a new course this year at Hersey called "Marriage and the Family," taught by sociology teacher Robert Hammon and home economics teacher Ann Slattery. The purpose of the course, say teachers, is to improve a student's understanding of the institution of marriage. They hope students also will learn something about themselves and their relationship with other students and parents.

The course falls under the category of consumer education since it will teach students the dollars and cents realities of marriage including living arrangements, food and budgeting, cost of furniture and the responsibilities and cost of child rearing.

At the beginning of the year students discussed personal values, human sexuality, dating, friendship and love. One week prior to their "marriage" students completed questionnaires expressing their feelings about marriage, in-laws, children and the selection of a mate.

Their first assignment was their engagement. Along with discussion on the purpose of engagement, the buying of a ring and arrangements for the ceremony, the couples sat down with their parents to devise a guest list.

To show that they took the institution of marriage seriously the students dressed for the nuptials in formal wear complete with suits, ties, gowns and of course boutonnieres and bouquets. They were married in a civil ceremony by student teacher Jerry Franklin who dressed in religious garb representing all denominations.

Following their short-lived marriage students will discuss the problems that assail a married couple. They will discuss the termination of a relationship, divorce and alternatives to marriage.

The course is experimental this year at Hersey. It will come before the High School Dist. 214 administrative council which will consider adding the course to the district's regular curriculum next year.

WEDDING BELLS rang this week for 42 students at Hersey High School. Tom Janus and Cathy Jacob were one of the couples who exchanged vows in the mock ceremony, a simulation for "Marriage and the Family," a new course in Dist. 214 being taught at Hersey this year.

Lunch with Santa

Youngsters will be eating lunch with Santa at the Mount Prospect Plaza shopping center from Dec. 5 through Christmas.

The lunches will be in a private dining room at the Scanda House restaurant, with tickets costing $1.50 for children and $2 for adults.

Tickets may be purchased for Wednesday, Friday and Saturday of each week plus Dec. 22 and 23. Parents can obtain tickets either at Santa's headquarters in the plaza or by writing to 1066 Mount Prospect Plaza, Mount Prospect, Ill. 60056.

Each child will receive a gift from Santa in addition to hearing Santa's favorite story and singing Christmas carols. Larger groups can make special lunch arrangements.

Toastmasters get awards

Three members of the Mount Prospect Toastmasters Club have been awarded speechcraft certificates for completing a special communication and leadership development program.

The eight-week program included impromptu speaking, prepared speaking and evaluation of others' communications.

Certificates were presented to Richard E. Carr of Mount Prospect, Ronald D. Kindwall of Arlington Heights and Vern Ottens of Schaumburg.

The club meets the first and third Mondays of each month at the Mount Prospect Community Center, 600 S. See-Gwon Ave.

The local scene

Historical society to meet

The Mount Prospect Historical Society will meet at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the museum, 1100 S. Linneman Rd.

In addition to the regular board meeting, a program on antique miniature photos will be presented by Dorothy Kuscevic. The public is invited.

Merchants invite carolers

Groups interested in caroling at the Mount Prospect Plaza, Rand and Central roads, may make arrangements by contacting Adele Jeschke at 255-0644.

The plaza's merchants association will present a small cash award to organizations who participate in this caroling program. Refreshments will be served to carolers after they make their rounds.

Police to auction bicycles

The Mount Prospect police department will conduct a bicycle auction Nov. 29 at the public works building, 11 S. Pine St.

Beginning at 9 a.m., the bikes will be on view for public inspection, with the auction beginning at 10 a.m. Proceeds will be given to the police pension fund.

Chief Ralph J. Doney said residents should think of the auction as a place to pick up a Christmas present.

Harper band to perform in fall concert

The Harper College wind ensemble and jazz band will present its annual fall concert in the Bicentennial spirit Tuesday, with several American selections on the program.

Directed by Robert Tillotson, the wind ensemble will feature William Schuman's overture for the band entitled "Chester." This selection is based on the hymn tune said to have been sung around the campfires of the Continental Army and played by fifers on the march during the American Revolution.

The wind ensemble's program also will include "Somerset" by Hale Smith; "Barnum and Bailey's Favorite" by Karl King; and "Procession of the Nobles" by Rimsky-Korsakov/Leidzen.

The jazz band, directed by James Bestman, will include local soloists in several performances.

Selections from the program include: "Lil' Darlin'" by Neal Hefti, featuring Dave Serner, Prospect Heights, on vibes; "Red Clay" by Freddie Hubbard, featuring Steve Lockwood, Mount Prospect, on soprano sax; Jim Polanek, Mount Prospect, on guitar; Dan Owens, Hoffman Estates, on drums; Scott Hendricks, Rolling Meadows, on piano and Reggie Gilmore, Schaumburg, Latin percussion.

Soloists for "If You're Leaving" by Loren Binford, include: John Kuttien, Mount Prospect, on tenor sax, and Bill Calkins, Des Plaines, on trumpet.

The concert begins at 8 p.m. in the college center lounge and is free to public.

A WORKMAN cuts a piece of plywood as part of a remodeling project for the Mount Prospect Fire Dept., 112 E. Northwest Hwy. The fire department is expanding into the old finance department since the rest of village hall has moved into new offices.

"A 12-year-old girl from Winnetka called after her father told her about the catalog. She called back in a couple of minutes to say she thought it was a great idea and she wanted to thank me," Mrs. Wattel said.

She, too, is getting something more out of the business than the hoped-for profits.

"I started it to keep busy. After the children got older I needed something to do and I didn't want to go back to teaching," she said.

WITH ALMOST NO business background or experience, she plunged into it, learning all she could. She admits some of her methods are not taught at the Harvard School of Business, but they work for her.

dents, however, said they were concerned primarily with a safe route to and from the schools and parks.

THE FEEHANVILLE, BOND and River Trails Junior High schools all are located along major streets in the area, as is the Woodland Trails Park. Speed limits along Wolf and Kensington roads and Euclid Avenue go up to 50 mph.

Members of the public works committee said they will take up the matter again after BOLI determines public benefit of the project.

Valentine Kolany

Services will be held today for Valentine Kolany, 66, Chicago, who died Friday at St. Elizabeth Hospital, Chicago.

He is survived by his wife, Eugenia; two daughters, Theresa (Edward) Zmuda of Elk Grove Village and Cynthia (Raymond) Schumacher of Chicago; and four grandchildren.

The funeral will be at 9:15 a.m. today from Friedrich's Funeral Home, 320 W. Central Rd., Mount Prospect, to Queen of the Rosary Catholic Church, Elk Grove Village, for mass at 10 a.m. Interment is at St. Michael the Archangel Cemetery, Palatine.
